WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has agreed to direct contacts on peace between North Vietnamese and U.S. representatives and will fly to Hawaii late tonight to discuss peace and war prospects with top American officials from Saigon.

In London, Soviet informants said today they expect preliminary Vietnam peace talks to begin in Moscow next week. They said the North Vietnamese have already assured the United States privately they will launch no major offensive if all American bombing attacks are halted.

The sources, who cannot be identified by name, said Hanoi already has begun lifting the siege of Khe Sanh as a sign of its intentions.

Ambassador - at - Large W. Averell Harriman and Llewellyn E. Thompson, are poised to go whenever they get the signal to launch new discussions. Story Page 3.

None of these statements could be confirmed in official Western circles. The officials cautioned, however, against expecting an early end to the peace negotiations. They said they expected them to go for months.

Other sources recalled that 12,000 Americans were killed in Korea while truce talks were going on.

The Russian informants said Moscow was not consulted by Hanoi before Wednesday's conditional acceptance of President Johnson's call for peace talks.

They said that in view of Peking's present relatively low influence in the North Vietnamese capital, they did not believe the

Khe Sanh Relief Near

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP)—Advance elements of a big U.S. relief force drove through light enemy artillery and mortar fire today to within a half mile of the besieged Marine combat base at Khe Sanh.

With resistance continuing light, Soviet informants in London said the North Vietnamese were lifting the long siege of Khe Sanh as evidence of good intentions in preliminary peace talks.

But Fight Goes On

However, about 80 rounds of enemy artillery and mortar fire hit Khe Sanh and Marines striking out from the base were reported engaged in fighting with the North Vietnamese in the hills to the west.

A U.S. spokesman said he expected some of the 20,000-man relief force to link up with the 6,000 Marines inside Khe Sanh by nightfall for the first breakthrough in the siege of the fortress, now in its 11th week.

Marines and helicopter-borne air cavalrymen were pushing in three prongs toward the base. Reports from the field said they were encountering sporadic artillery and mortar fire but little other resistance.

A company from the 3rd Marine Division was the spearhead of the drive. After advancing along Highway 9 on the north-east, helicopters landed them northwest of the base and they were reported about half a mile from the barbed-wire perimeter.

Men of the 1st Air Cavalry Division pushed up from south of the base and were reported within 2.5 miles of their goal by midafternoon.

The bulk of the relief force, more Marine infantrymen and an engineer convoy, found the going tougher as they struggled west along the long-closed Highway 9. They had to stop repeatedly while engineers repaired bridges and the road.

"Khe Sanh or Bust," said a sign on an equipment trailer.

Senior U.S. officers were puzzled by the lack of resistance the relief force was meeting. They had expected savage fighting.

That could still be in store. The relief force had come within range of big North Vietnamese artillery and rocket guns in the Co Roc mountains to the west inside Laos, and the troops still had to cross the main enemy trench lines which extend to within 100 yards of the base.

Caught in Open

The only reported action of any size came Wednesday when gunship helicopters caught an estimated 200 North Vietnamese in the open two miles southwest of Khe Sanh. The gunners claimed 20 of the enemy killed.

The U.S. Command said the North Vietnamese fired more than 230 rounds of mortar, rocket and artillery fire at the various advancing units Wednesday but casualties were light.

URA Clarifies Bid For $Million Garage

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency today clarified its request to the Common Council for approval of a million dollar parking garage uptown which the agency termed "a minor change."

Several aldermen questioned the terminology "minor change" in that it involved more than a million dollars. Ward B. Tongue, acting KURA executive director, told The Freeman today the change is not in the cost of the garage but in its location and as such is "minor" requiring no public hearing.

The garage has been part of the overall Uptown Urban Renewal Plan approved in 1966. Its location was only recently asked to be changed from behind stores on North Front Street to the site of the old Montgomery Ward Building on North Front Street.

400 Parking Spaces

Cost estimates in 1966 for the parking structure was $760,000 for its construction and another $250,000 for acquisition of land and demolition of the present Ward building. The total area now under consideration, including the building, is 159,000 square feet, according to Tongue. There will be approximately 400 parking spaces.

Peter Fisher (R-10th Ward) made and had granted a request for the city clerk to write the agency a letter of inquiry on four points: cost of parking, maintenance of the building, anticipated revenue and who would pay the cost of relocating water and sewer lines, the city or the agency.

Tongue said today that the agency will build the garage and turn it over to the city which will pay maintenance costs and set the levy on parking spaces. The agency will make repairs to any damaged sewer or water lines which might occur during construction.

Speaking of construction of the dual-level garage, Tongue said the agency was hoping to begin this summer. Negotiations are currently underway between the agency and the Gorman Estate which owns the Ward building.

Fisher also asked today if the agency had any plans to tear down School No. 7 on Crown Street and also what its plans were for the Elston Building on Fair Street. Tongue said the Elston Building was out of the urban renewal project area and that the agency has abandoned plans to put a parking lot on the site of No. 7 School. He explained, "These plans are somewhat flexible. This current plan was drawn up in late 1963. Things change. It appears we don't need the parking lot at No. 7 School."

Getting back to the parking garage, Tongue said the city's maintenance costs should be negligible since the garage will not be heated except for lavatory facilities and a small office for the attendant.

The agency is not in favor of a public hearing on the uptown garage, feeling that it will only delay its ultimate completion.

The Kingston planning board has already met on the agency's request and will meet again within the week. Joseph Epstein, chairman of the Common Council's Urban Renewal Committee, said his committee will meet after the planning board makes its recommendations.

The Council is not bound by planning board decisions but must have them on record before taking action. Epstein says he is in favor of the garage, terming Uptown Kingston "the most important business section of the city which will benefit from the additional parking."

Making Progress

In other urban renewal news, Tongue said today the agency is "making solid progress" both Uptown and Downtown and expects to begin street construction in Broadway East this summer. URA also expects to be selling land to redevelopers Downtown this summer.

A major part of the Downtown project is the arterial which will come across the proposed new Rondout Bridge, run through the project and out to the Town of Ulster.

Residents of Downtown, through their aldermen, Epstein and Frank Jablonski (R-Fourth Ward) have requested a public hearing in the city on the proposed arterial. The city clerk has forwarded a letter to State hearing. Two hearings have been held in the Town of Ulster on the project.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has won key labor support for a presidential bid and aides are saying the new hopes for Vietnam war negotiations have boosted his prospects.

Humphrey said Wednesday he's still "weighing" the decision whether to seek the Democratic nomination. An aide called speculation that he would make the announcement today in Pittsburgh "baloney."

But the vice president, he said, is under "enormous and growing pressure to announce a decision sooner than he had planned."

Hanoi's declared willingness to begin limited peace talks not only improves Humphrey's position, the aide said, but undercuts Vietnam policy opposition by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy, the only announced Democratic candidates so far.

The labor support came from AFL-CIO President George Meany, who indicated with the word "we" that he was speaking on behalf of his 14-million-member labor federation.

In other political developments: —Sen. Thurston B. Morton,

R-Ky., said he believes New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller will become an active presidential candidate, making "some definitive announcements" by Monday or the end of next week.

But Rockefeller said in Albany he stands on his March 21 statement that he would accept a genuine draft and will speak out on the issues but not campaign for the GOP nomination.

—Iowa Gov. Harold E. Hughes, who has called a meeting of the nation's Democratic governors for April 15 in St. Louis, said "it's not a stop anyone or start anyone meeting," but "there probably will be people there who want to do both."

—McCarthy opens a California primary campaign today aimed at cutting down the voting strength Kennedy is building in solidly Democratic Negro and Mexican-American districts.

—Kennedy got a tumultuous welcome in Washington D.C.'s predominantly Negro section and drew cries of "yes" when he asked help against a regular Democratic organization slate in the District of Columbia's May 7 primary.

Will Not Reopen

Esopus Prep: Funds Gone

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Esopus Prep on 9W may have graduated the last of its students Sunday. The Freeman has learned that due to lack of funds the school will not reopen.

Director William K. Banks announced at graduation exercises Sunday night at the Henry Hudson Hotel in New York City that the five-month, $250,000 experimental program which was supposed to enter a new cycle April 15 with another 110 pupils, had been terminated.

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's office said the Ellenville Democrat is "100 per cent behind Esopus Prep" and "is fighting like mad" to get either federal funds from some other program or private funds so the school can continue.

Banks expressed "bitter disappointment and shock" at the decision by the Department of Labor to close the school which opened last April with 110 students and saw 96 of them receive their high school equivalency diplomas.

A Blank Wall

A spokesman at Resnick's Washington office said the congressman's staff "has run up against a blank wall" in their efforts to get funds for the school. "The overall picture for money down here is disastrous," was a comment from Resnick's office.

EXCLUSIVE

The money just isn't there for any poverty programs, according to Washington sources. Attempts were made to secure funds through the Job Corps but even this much-heralded program has been cut back drastically with many centers closed.

The official word from the Department of Labor is that the federal government is putting priority on summer programs. A source from the New York City Youth Service Agency which co-sponsored Esopus Prep interpreted this as "cool it money." Another source put it in stronger terms, "This is nothing but Riot money. They think they're going to buy their way out of this summer."

Esopus Prep is (or was) a school for New York City high school dropouts between the ages of 17 and 21. An applicant had to have the maximum reading ability of a fifth grader in order to be admitted. Within a year the school had 96 high school graduates out of the original 110, many who went on to college on academic scholarships.

Has Future Hopes

Banks, though admitting that things look dark now for his high school, has hopes for the future, limited as it may be. "Perhaps we can get enough funds for 50 boys or 25," he said. The director added that he and his assistant Ed James, would continue to explore every avenue of possible funding.

Speaking of the school Banks said, "This has to be the best program I've ever been in and I've been associated with a lot of programs in the past 12

Banks spoke of the reaction when he announced the closing of the school in New York last Sunday. "There were more than 1,000 persons at the graduation exercises, Banks said, "and almost as a body they reacted with dismay and then anger that a program such as ours could go down the drain."

Banks is especially concerned with the young men he has recruited for the next cycle that was to begin April 15. But now we'll have to go back to them and tell them they can't go. It isn't going to be pleasant."

Banks would make no predictions on the possibility of disorders this summer but he did say, "I'd rather have these boys in school than on the street."

In Rosendale: Hicks Case And Law Suit

By LYNN MULVANEY

The East-West Fire District contract, the James Hicks dismissal hearing and a $50,000 law suit were discussed at last night's meeting of the Rosendale Town Board.

The Village of Rosendale met the April 1 deadline for signing the fire district contract on March 29 it was announced by Supervisor Gerard DeFelice.

The contract and its predecessor were the subject of a village-town controversy on more than one occasion.

James Hicks, whose dismissal from the planning board is sought by all seven planning members, will receive a hearing April 17 at 7:30 p. m. An original March hearing date was postponed, the town has asked for a bill of particulars and the planning board is expected to testify at the hearing.

and produce witnesses to substantiate their complaint.

Town Attorney William Curran told the town board that one of the town's insurance companies has refused to represent the town in its defense of a $50,000 suit brought by William A. Saponaro of Cottekill following an alleged traffic violation charged to his son William M. Saponaro.

The town board agreed to have Curran represent them in the matter.

A public hearing on a proposed trailer ordinance was set for April 24 at 7 p. m.

Town Clerk Catherine O'Leary said that bids for a police cruiser had not been received following advertisement for the vehicle. The board agreed to readvertise with a bid opening date set for April 17, the same night as the Hicks hearing.

Banks Pledge $89,550 to 'Y'

The Kingston Area Financial Council today pledged $89,550 as its gift to the YMCA Building Fund. Announcement was made by Deweese DeWitt, president of the Council.

"This reflects", DeWitt said, "The deep concern our member institutions have in the future welfare of the entire county. In our meetings, we have discussed in depth the contributions that the YMCA has made to our community. We have become very much aware of the benefit a new physical facility will have, not only on the youth and families of the region that the YMCA services, but also on the entire social and business community of the City of Kingston."

The YMCA is conducting a drive to raise $1,860,000 to build the new facility on the present site at the intersection of Pine Grove Avenue and Broadway. Included in the plans are a new physical building, with an olympic pool, two basketball courts, two handball courts, and men's and women's health club facilities, as well as a social and administration building, adjacent to the physical plant.

Members of the financial council include the following institutions:

First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Kingston Savings Bank, Kingston Trust Company, Rondout National Bank, Rondout Savings Bank, Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, State of New York National Bank and Ulster County Savings Bank.

CS Commission On Police Tests

"On November 4, 1967, the Municipal Civil Service Commission of Kingston with the assistance of the New York State Department of Civil Service, Examinations Division, in Albany held a promotion examination for the office of the Chief of Police and the Deputy Chief of Police. The following members of the Kingston Police Department: Deputy Chief Grover Hoffay, Lieutenant Francis Fagan, Lieutenant Charles Hoehing and Lieutenant Lemuel Howard, were the only eligible candidates for this examination. The marks for this examination were received from the Examination Division, in Albany, on Feb. 13, 1968. Two of the eligibles passed and two failed. A list was established consisting of Deputy Chief Grover Hoffay and Lieutenant Francis Fagan. The minimum passing mark on Civil Service examinations is 74.5. Both of these gentlemen attained a passing grade and their longevity credits were added to this mark.

"Longevity credits or veterans credits can be added to a passing mark only. In view of the controversy that has arisen, this Commission will not reveal the marks of the two failed candidates, as this is privileged information. The marks of those that have passed is public information and can be seen at the office of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, Municipal Auditorium, 467 Broadway, Kingston.

One of the eligibles who failed requested this office to review with him, his answer sheet with a correct answer sheet from the Examinations Division, from the New York State Department of Civil Service in Albany. A special meeting was held for this purpose and after checking his answer sheet against that sent by the State Department, he was satisfied with the mark he had received.

"It appears that there are a few individuals in the city of Kingston, who question the honesty and integrity of the Municipal Civil Service Commission. Mr. Jablonski, fourth-ward Alderman, saw fit to question whether or not the Police Chief was appointed properly and from a proper list. If Mr. Jablonski, had found the time to check with this Commission he would have saved himself the embarrassment of publicizing questions that could have been answered to his satisfaction, so that he could satisfy the people from his ward and others who saw fit to call him.

"This Commission request that in the future anyone seeking information concerning Civil Service matters please contact this Commission and the Board of Commissioners will extend the courtesy of meeting with them to discuss their problems, and answer any questions that can legally be answered by this Commission."

The release was signed by Commissioners John Hogan, president; Alfred Brocco and Mrs. Martin Keller.

Confiscate Weapons

JOHNSON CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Police dispersed about 200 youngsters from the main street of this Southern Tier city Wednesday night after responding to rumors that a fight had been brewing.

Nearly 100 weapons, including knives, chains and baseball bats, were confiscated, police said.

The youths left the scene peacefully but several persons were charged with unlawful assembly.

In Rosendale: Hicks Case And Law Suit

By LYNN MULVANEY

The East-West Fire District contract, the James Hicks dismissal hearing and a $50,000 law suit were discussed at last night's meeting of the Rosendale Town Board.

The Village of Rosendale met the April 1 deadline for signing the fire district contract by Supervisor Gerard DeFolice.

The contract and its predecessor were the subject of a village-town controversy on more than one occasion.

James Hicks, whose dismissal from the planning board is sought by all seven planning members, will receive a hearing April 17 at 7:30 p. m. An original March hearing date was postponed, the town has asked for a bill of particulars and the planning board is expected to testify at the hearing and produce witnesses to substantiate their complaint.

Town Attorney William Curran told the town board that one of the town's insurance companies has refused to represent the town in its defense of a $50,000 suit brought by William A. Saponaro of Cottekill following an alleged traffic violation charged to his son William M. Saponaro.

The town board agreed to have Curran represent them in the matter.

A public hearing on a proposed trailer ordinance was set for April 24 at 7 p. m.

Town Clerk Catherine O'Leary said that bids for a police cruiser had not been received following advertisement for the vehicle. The board agreed to readvertise with a bid opening date set for April 17, the same night as the Hicks hearing.

Y BUILDING BOOSTER — Deweese DeWitt, president of the Kingston Area Financial Council, presents $89,550 pledge to Paul Coon, right, president of the Kingston-Ulster County YMCA. The donation is earmarked for the current building fund drive. Plans call for a new facility which will provide complete modern recreational complex for family fun (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Banks Pledge $89,550 to 'Y'

The Kingston Area Financial Council today pledged $89,550 as its gift to the YMCA Building Fund. Announcement was made by Deweese DeWitt, president of the Council.

"This reflects", DeWitt said, "The deep concern our member institutions have in the future welfare of the entire county. In our meetings, we have discussed in depth the contributions that the YMCA has made to our community. We have become very much aware of the benefit a new physical

The YMCA is conducting a drive to raise $1,860,000 to build the new facility on the present site at the intersection of Pine Grove Avenue and Broadway. Included in the plans are a new physical building, with an olympic pool, two basketball courts, two handball courts, and men's and women's health club facilities, as well as a social and administration building, adjacent to the physical plant.

Members of the financial council include the following institutions:

First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Kingston Savings Bank, Kingston Trust Company, Rondout National Bank, Rondout Savings Bank, Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, State of New York National Bank and Ulster County Savings Bank.

The Envoys Poised to Go

BY LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two diplomats with more than 50 years of experience between them in dealing with Communists have been picked by President Johnson as his special envoys for any Vietnam peace talks.

Ready for Signals

Ambassador-at-large W. Averell Harriman, once ambassador to Moscow, and Llewellyn E. Thompson, the current U.S. Ambassador to the Soviet Union, are in Washington, poised to go

whenever the White House signals them to launch discussions with the Reds.

Harriman has already carried out more special missions for presidents dating back to Franklin D. Roosevelt than any one in government.

In the 1930s he joined Roosevelt's New Deal. With the outbreak of World War II he shifted to the star assignment as a special diplomatic envoy that he holds today.

Harriman was ambassador to the Soviet Union during World War II. At other times he was Roosevelt's special contact with Soviet Premier Josef Stalin and Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Now operating as ambassador-at-large, Harriman has a special interest in Southeast Asia because he helped negotiate the 1962 Geneva agreement for the neutrality and independence of Laos.

Thompson, a 63-year-old native of Los Animas, Colo., is regarded as a cool customer whether on a diplomatic hotseat or playing poker with friends.

A Modest Start

He launched his career in a more modest way than Harriman, signing on as a junior for-ign officer in 1929 after graduating from the University of Colorado.

"Tommy" Thompson transferred to the Moscow Embassy and soon became a top expert on the Soviets.

His years of war-time service in the Soviet Union, including staying behind in Moscow after other diplomats fled in the face of the Nazi onslaught, gave him a close working knowledge of the Soviets.

President Harry S. Truman later named him high commissioner in occupied Austria, an assignment which was changed to ambassador to an independent Austria after the Soviets withdrew from that country.

From Vienna, Thompson moved to Moscow as ambassador in 1957. He returned to Washington in 1962 for a stint as senior adviser on East-West affairs until Johnson sent him back to Moscow in 1966.

Consulting Allies

Saigon Welcomes Try

By BARRY KRAMER

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The government of South Vietnam said today it welcomes current moves to bring about peace talks between the United States and Communist North Vietnam.

In its first official reaction to Hanoi's offer to meet U.S. representatives, President Nguyen Van Thieu's government said it is consulting with the United States and other allies "regarding the contacts to be undertaken with North Vietnamese authorities for the purpose of exploring the possibilities for eventual negotiations to end the war."

Contrast to Catholics

This was in sharp contrast to a statement by a largely Roman Catholic bloc in the Vietnamese

House of Representatives which charged that Hanoi's offer was "only a trick to get the United States to stop the bombing unconditionally."

The statement by 21 of the House's 133 members called for resumption of full-scale bombing and expressed opposition to the visit to the United States planned by President Thieu.

The government communique was issued after Thieu held a 7 a.m. conference with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and then met with Bunker and the ambassadors of the five other nations with troops fighting alongside the South Vietnamese—South Korea, Australia, the Philippines, Thailand and New Zealand. The foreign ministry said they met to assess Hanoi's reaction to President Johnson's speech Sunday night.

Asked by newsmen if Thieu would attend President Johnson's weekend conference in Honolulu, Bunker replied: "Not to my knowledge." Johnson in announcing the meeting had made no mention of the Vietnamese, saying he would confer with American officials from Saigon.

The communique said the Saigon government "welcomes the initiative to bring an early end to the war in justice and freedom."

"In this spirit, it gave its agreement to partial cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam as a first step toward negotiations."

"The governments of the allied countries will be in constant consultations on any points of substance or decisions in conjunction with these exploratory talks."

Opposition Tied to Fears

Opposition to negotiations between Washington and Hanoi appeared to result from fear that the United States wants to arrange a face-saving withdrawal from Vietnam.

Spokesmen for the Catholic bloc told a news conference they would not stand in the way of peace efforts. But they added: "We are determined not to surrender to those who committed aggression, whether it be a coalition government or neutralist."

The South Vietnamese Senate passed a resolution Wednesday saying the partial bombing pause should be "the final act of good will by South Vietnam and the Allies." The senators urged mobilization of all national resources, supporting Thieu's call for general mobilization later this year.

The senate also reaffirmed its stand against any coalition government with the Communists. Several senators spoke of fighting on if the United States and other allies do pull out of Vietnam.

The Saturn Show Sizzles But a Question Remains

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

America's Saturn 5 super-rocket flung a 132-ton satellite into orbit today, despite the loss of two second stage engines that left a question mark over whether the huge booster is ready to carry men into space late this year and to the moon in 1969.

But the Wrong One

Had astronauts been aboard today, they would have reached earth orbit—but it would have been a wrong orbit. There were speculations that had it been a manned moon mission it would have been aborted because of fuel shortage.

The flight plan today called for third stage to restart its engine after three hours in space and propel itself about 322,000 miles to demonstrate it can fly to lunar distances.

The Apollo 6 craft was to reach an altitude of only 13,800 miles before diving back through the atmosphere for a parachute landing in the Pacific Ocean nearly 10 hours after launching.

"There was no immediate word from the control center on what alternate plan would be attempted as the result of the wrong orbits being achieved."

The monster rocket, tall as a 36-story building and weighing a massive 3,105 tons, blazed the sky right on schedule at 7 a.m. EST, with a staggering burst of power that shook the ground for miles around.

First Works Perfectly
The first stage worked perfectly.

The second stage ignited on schedule two and one-half minutes later at an altitude of nearly 40 miles.

At 7 minutes 37 seconds into the flight, two of the second stages' five hydrogen-powered engines suddenly cut off about two minutes early.

As a result, the guidance system commanded the third stage to burn about two minutes longer than planned to compensate for the loss of power in the second stage. This consumed a valuable 10 tons of fuel that would have been used for restarting the engine later.

Spectacular Show
The engine failure was in contrast to the first Saturn 5 flight last Nov. 9 when the rocket performed perfectly and raised hopes that after one more unmanned flight, the Saturn 5 could be assigned to astronaut missions.

Once again, the Saturn 5, at least twice as powerful as anything yet launched by Russia, provided observers with a spectacular show.

To compensate for the loss of power in the second stage, the third stage burned longer than intended, thus preventing the Saturn 5 from orbiting a record 142-ton satellite.

The satellite, weighing 264,065 pounds, consists of an unmanned Apollo 6 moon ship, a dummy lunar landing capsule and the third stage.

If the third stage had not burned longer, consuming extra fuel, the satellite would have topped by two tons the weightlifting record of the first Saturn 5 last November.

Not in Desired Orbit

Because of the additional third stage burn, the satellite did not achieve a desired orbit, an intended circular path 115 miles high.

'Favorite Son' Sought by Resnick

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick wants the New York Democratic "favorite son" designation to bring to the national convention in August. The Ellenville Democrat also hailed Hanoi's "direct response" to President Johnson's peace offer.

Resnick claimed that "recent events" have resulted in large numbers of Democrats across the country feeling "threatened, alone or disenfranchised."

He said, "This is especially true in New York State where the voice of the people is now being drowned out by the thunder of political bosses who expect to call the shots" at the August 26 convention in Chicago.

Resnick wants such people to feel they can "deposit" their votes with him until they have a man to vote for.

The 28th congressional district representative says he can be a "symbol of hope" against a "ruthless grab for power."

Meanwhile, the congressman hailed Hanoi's peace response and said, "This is the beginning of the complete vindication of President Johnson's policies in Vietnam."

"The allied forces in South Vietnam have finally demonstrated to Ho Chi Minh and General Giap that they cannot achieve a decisive military victory."

Resnick, seeking the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Republican Jacob K. Javits, claimed that, "This has been the only aim of the American people throughout their struggle against Communist threats over the past 20 years."

The second term congressman further stated, "I wholeheartedly congratulate President Johnson for having the foresight and courage to withstand the criticism hurled at him from both sides of the fence for the past four years."

"The President withstood this criticism in order to bring us to the negotiating table where, hopefully, the negotiations will be meaningful."

Resnick received approximately 29 per cent of the delegate vote strength at the unofficial Democratic nominating convention in New York City last Saturday.

This assured him of a place on the primary ballot in June and he claimed that he "would go all the way" in a battle against the party's designee Eugene Nickerson, Nassau County executive.

Resnick has, for a long time, been critical of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and once claimed that he disliked New York's junior senator "the first time I met him."

The congressman has also called for the resignation of Democratic State Chairman John J. Burns, a Kennedy backer.

Killer-Storm Punches Through Mid-U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A monster storm punched its way through the midcontinent today after raking the middle Mississippi Valley with death-dealing tornadoes and burying parts of the Great Plains in a blizzard.

Eight persons were killed and scores were injured Wednesday night in a rash of tornadoes which churned out of the storm system and ripped hardest at Arkansas and Tennessee. Heavy rain accompanying the twisters brought a threat of flash flooding in northeastern Arkansas.

Foot-deep snows spilling out of the massive storm were whipped into 6-foot drifts by 50-mile-an-hour winds and left much of Wyoming and adjacent parts of Colorado and Nebraska virtually paralyzed. Helicopters and snow plows were poised to move out at daybreak in search of hundreds of stranded motorists and isolated ranchers.

Temperatures plummeted sharply in the wake of the storm. Cold-wave warnings were issued for much of the central plains. Heavy-snow warnings were out ahead of the storm in the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Hardest hit by the outbreak of tornadoes and high winds was Arkansas which counted six dead. Authorities searched through the night for other possible victims in wooded areas and rural communities in the eastern half of the state. As many as six twisters struck that section in a two-hour period.

The severe weather later skipped across the Mississippi River and unleashed a wave of tornadoes on western Tennessee. Two persons died when a twister smashed a house at Atoka, 30 miles north of Memphis.

Ambulances shuttled 30 to 40 victims to the Memphis Naval Air Station Hospital with various injuries after a tornado struck a mobile-home park at Millington, north of Memphis.

Two blocks of homes and a church were leveled and five persons were injured in a tornado that hit the Vincent community west of West Memphis, Ark. Nine homes were demolished and six persons were injured at Crawfordsville, Ark., a few miles farther west.

PLEADING? — This photo, supposedly of captured U.S.S. Pueblo Cmdr. Lloyd (Pete) Bucher, was released Wednesday by Msgr. Nicholas Wegner, director of Boys Town, where Bucher graduated from high school. The photo, mailed along with an alleged confession from New York, purports to show Bucher writing to Father Wegner pleading with him to intercede with President Johnson for the release of Bucher and the Pueblo crew. ## The Saturn Show Sizzles But a Question Remains

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's Saturn 5 super-rocket flung a 132-ton satellite into orbit today, despite the loss of two second stage engines that left a question mark over whether the huge booster is ready to carry men into space late this year and to the moon in 1969.

But the Wrong One
Had astronauts been aboard today, they would have reached earth orbit—but it would have been a wrong orbit. There were speculations that had it been a manned moon mission it would have been aborted because of fuel shortage.

The flight plan today called for third stage to restart its engine after three hours in space.

'Favorite Son' Sought by Resnick

By CHARLES BERMPHILL
Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick wants the New York Democratic "favorite son" designation to bring to the national convention in August. The Elmhurst Democrat also hailed Hanoi's "direct response" to President Johnson's peace offer.

Resnick claimed that "recent events" have resulted in large numbers of Democrats across the country feeling "threatened, alone or disenfranchised."

He said, "This is especially true in New York State where the voice of the people is now being drowned out by the thunder of political bosses who expect to call the shots" at the August 26 convention in Chicago.

Resnick wants such people to feel they can "deposit" their votes with him until they have a man to vote for.

The 28th congressional district representative says he can be a "symbol of hope" against a "ruthless grab for power."

Meanwhile, the congressman hailed Hanoi's peace response and said, "This is the beginning of the complete vindication of President Johnson's policies in Vietnam."

The allied forces in South Vietnam have finally demonstrated to Ho Chi Minh and General Giap that they cannot achieve a decisive military victory.

Resnick, seeking the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Republican Jacob K. Javits, claimed that, "This has been the only and propel itself about 322,000 miles to demonstrate it can fly to lunar distances.

The Apollo 6 craft was to reach an altitude of only 13,800 miles before diving back through the atmosphere for a parachute landing in the Pacific Ocean nearly 10 hours after launching.

There was no immediate word from the control center on what alternate plan would be attempted as the result of the wrong orbits being achieved. The monster rocket, tall as a 36-story building and weighing a massive 3,105 tons, blazed the sky right on schedule at 7 a.m. EST, with a staggering burst of power that shook the ground for miles around.

First Works Perfectly
The first stage worked perfectly.

The second stage ignited on schedule two and one-half minutes later at an altitude of nearly 40 miles.

At 7 minutes 37 seconds into the flight, two of the second stages' five hydrogen-powered engines suddenly cut off about two minutes early.

As a result, the guidance system commanded the third stage to burn about two minutes longer than planned to compensate for the loss of power in the second stage. This consumed a valuable 10 tons of fuel that would have been used for restarting the engine later.

Spectacular Show
The engine failure was in contrast to the first Saturn 5 flight last Nov. 9 when the rocket performed perfectly and raised hopes that after one more unmanned flight, the Saturn 5 could be assigned to astronaut missions.

Once again, the Saturn 5, at least twice as powerful as anything yet launched by Russia, provided observers with a spectacular show.

To compensate for the loss of power in the second stage, the third stage burned longer than intended, thus preventing the Saturn 5 from orbiting a record 142-ton satellite.

The satellite, weighing 264,065 pounds, consists of an unmanned Apollo 6 moon ship, a dummy lunar landing capsule and the third stage.

If the third stage had not burned longer, consuming extra fuel, the satellite would have topped by two tons the weightlifting record of the first Saturn 5 last November.

Not in Desired Orbit
Because of the additional third stage burn, the satellite did not achieve a desired orbit, an intended circular path 115 miles high.

The Envoys Poised to Go

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two diplomats with more than 50 years of experience between them in dealing with Communists have been picked by President Johnson as his special envoys for any Vietnam peace talks.

Ready for Signals
Ambassador-at-large W. Averell Harriman, once ambassador to Moscow, and Llewellyn E. Thompson, the current U.S. Ambassador to the Soviet Union, are in Washington, poised to go

whenever the White House signals them to launch discussions with the Reds.

Harriman has already carried out more special missions for presidents dating back to Franklin D. Roosevelt than anyone in government.

In the 1930s, he joined Roosevelt's New Deal. With the outbreak of World War II he shifted to the star assignment as a special diplomatic envoy that he holds today.

Harriman was ambassador to the Soviet Union during World War II. At other times he was Roosevelt's special contact with Soviet Premier Josef Stalin and Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Now operating as ambassador-at-large, Harriman has a special interest in Southeast Asia because he helped negotiate the 1962 Geneva agreement for the neutrality and independence of Laos.

Thompson, a 63-year-old native of Los Animas, Colo., is regarded as a cool customer whether on a diplomatic hotseat or playing poker with friends.

A Modest Start
He launched his career in a more modest way than Harriman, signing on as a junior foreign officer in 1929 after graduating from the University of Colorado.

"Tommy" Thompson transferred to the Moscow Embassy and soon became a top expert on the Soviets.

His years of war-time service in the Soviet Union, including staying behind in Moscow after other diplomats fled in the face of the Nazi onslaught, gave him a close working knowledge of the Soviets.

President Harry S. Truman later named him high commissioner in occupied Austria, an assignment which was changed to ambassador to an independent Austria after the Soviets withdrew from that country.

From Vienna, Thompson moved to Moscow as ambassador in 1957. He returned to Washington in 1962 for a stint as senior adviser on East-West affairs until Johnson sent him back to Moscow in 1966.

Consulting Allies

Saigon Welcomes Try

By BARRY KRAMER

Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The government of South Vietnam said today it welcomes current moves to bring about peace talks between the United States and Communist North Vietnam.

In its first official reaction to Hanoi's offer to meet U.S. representatives, President Nguyen Van Thieu's government said it is consulting with the United States and other allies "regarding the contacts to be undertaken with North Vietnamese authorities for the purpose of exploring the possibilities for eventual negotiations to end the war."

Contrast to Catholics
This was in sharp contrast to a statement by a largely Roman Catholic bloc in the Vietnamese

House of Representatives which charged that Hanoi's offer was "only a trick to get the United States to stop the bombing unconditionally."

The statement by 21 of the House's 133 members called for resumption of full-scale bombing and expressed opposition to the visit to the United States planned by President Thieu.

The government communique was issued after Thieu held a 7 a.m. conference with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and then met with Bunker and the ambassadors of the five other nations with troops fighting alongside the South Vietnamese—South Korea, Australia, the Philippines, Thailand and New Zealand. The foreign ministry said they met to assess Hanoi's reaction to President Johnson's speech Sunday night.

Asked by newsmen if Thieu would attend President Johnson's weekend conference in Honolulu, Bunker replied: "Not to my knowledge." Johnson in announcing the meeting had made no mention of the Vietnamese, saying he would confer with American officials from Saigon.

The communique said the Saigon government "welcomes the initiative to bring an early end to the war in justice and freedom."

"In this spirit, it gave its agreement to partial cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam as a first step toward negotiations."

"The governments of the allied countries will be in constant consultation on any points of substance or decisions in conjunction with these exploratory talks."

Opposition Tied to Fears
Opposition to negotiations between Washington and Hanoi appeared to result from fear that the United States wants to arrange a face-saving withdrawal from Vietnam.

Spokesmen for the Catholic bloc told a news conference they would not stand in the way of peace efforts. But they added: "We are determined not to surrender to those who committed aggression, whether it be a coalition government or neutrality."

The South Vietnamese Senate passed a resolution Wednesday saying the partial bombing pause should be "the final act of good will by South Vietnam and the Allies." The senators urged mobilization of all national resources, supporting Thieu's call for general mobilization later this year.

The senate also reaffirmed its stand against any coalition government with the Communists. Several senators spoke of fighting on if the United States and other allies do pull out of Vietnam.

Killer-Storm Punches Through Mid-U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A monster storm punched its way through the midcontinent today after raking the middle Mississippi Valley with death-dealing tornadoes and burying parts of the Great Plains in a blizzard.

Eight persons were killed and scores were injured Wednesday night in a rash of tornadoes which churned out of the storm system and ripped hardest at Arkansas and Tennessee. Heavy rain accompanying the twisters brought a threat of flash flooding in northeastern Arkansas.

Foot-deep snows spilling out of the massive storm were whipped into 6-foot drifts by 50-mile-an-hour winds and left much of Wyoming and adjacent parts of Colorado and Nebraska virtually paralyzed. Helicopters and snow plows were poised to move out at daybreak in search of hundreds of stranded motorists and isolated ranchers.

Temperatures plummeted sharply in the wake of the storm. Cold-wave warnings were issued for much of the central plains. Heavy-snow warnings were out ahead of the storm in the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Harvest hit by the outbreak of tornadoes and high winds was Arkansas which counted six dead. Authorities searched through the night for other possible victims in wooded areas and rural communities in the eastern half of the state. As many as six twisters struck that section in a two-hour period.

The severe weather later skipped across the Mississippi River and unleashed a wave of tornadoes on western Tennessee. Two persons died when a twister smashed a house at Atoka, 30 miles north of Memphis. Ambulances shuttled 30 to 40 victims to the Memphis Naval Air Station Hospital with various injuries after a tornado struck a mobile-home park at Millington, north of Memphis.

Two blocks of homes and a church were leveled and four persons were injured in a tornado that hit the Vincent community west of West Memphis, Ark. Nine homes were demolished and six persons were injured at Crawfordville, Ark., a few miles farther west.

Fires in Spring

Every year during the month of April local firemen are called upon for frantic efforts to save farm houses, barns and other buildings from destruction by fire. These recurring brush and grass fires keep the firemen busy.

Most brush fires are the result of carelessness—a discarded cigarette or match. Others are started by people in their spring cleanup endeavors and then abandoned to become out of control by gusty winds. This time of year yards and fields are in their most dangerous condition with dried out tall grass and weeds. Extra care must be taken by everyone to prevent damaging fires.

When fires occur, the exact location should be reported to the fire department. If the person summoning aid becomes excited and his report is faulty or incoherent, then there will be delay. Early arrival of the fire apparatus at the scene of a blaze is imperative if the best results are to be attained.

It has long been a wise precaution to keep the telephone number of your nearest fire company close to your phone so that it is immediately available in the event of a fire emergency. Post the number of your nearest fire company conspicuously so it can be seen at a glance or is immediately available at some convenient point. Numbers of fire districts, stations and volunteer companies throughout the area are listed on the back of the front page cover of the telephone directory.

It is vitally important that fire companies be notified speedily in case of fire emergency.

Is Rocky a Candidate?

The Republican Governors are nothing if not stubborn. Unsuccessful in their plea for the chairmanship of the Platform Committee at their party's national convention, they are making plans for a nationwide tour to gather ideas for presentation at the hearings on the platform. One way or another, they mean to get consideration of their views.

The makeup of the Governors' task force may lead some to look for other reasons for the tour than meet the eye. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, chairman of the Republican Governors Association Policy Committee, and John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, who heads the association, lead the force. They are joined by John A. Love of Colorado and Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania. All are members of the liberal wing, which has been cool to the candidacy of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The itinerary is coast to coast—Seattle to Boston, Little Rock to Detroit. Rockefeller, who announced recently he would not seek nomination but left himself open to a draft, will have maximum exposure on this trip. Is the purpose to stimulate draft possibilities among the host Governors, or to get the platform views of their sections? It is hard to draw a line.

Senator Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, who was tabbed to head Rockefeller's campaign for the presidency, has declared that Governor Rockefeller will become an active candidate in the next week.

It's becoming a nuisance. At the end of last year, 508,000 New York dwellers had unlisted telephone numbers. About 3,600 are shifting to unpublished numbers every month. If you can't get a friend or relative in New York, don't blame the telephone company. Your friend prefers secrecy.

The acclaim for the appointment of the Most Rev. Terence J. Cooke, 47, to be Archbishop of New York reflects a bit of civic pride. All emphasize that he is a native born and bred New Yorker. He also is a protégé and former secretary to his predecessor, Francis Cardinal Spellman.

Love's New Sweet Son

Henry J. Taylor Says Secure Peace Unpromising

On March 18 this column stated: "If President Johnson would simply quit playing politics for awhile, and let the country see him doing his level best in his immense and heartbreaking job, let the chips fall where they may, the country would rally behind him in a way that is otherwise totally impossible."

Well, by his withdrawal the President went far, far beyond that. Now we can only hope and pray for the rally that Mr. Johnson is trying to make possible.

Much that I read and hear about the President's motives is too cynical for me. And perhaps it is refreshing to remember that there are always motives that cynics do not see for being too "clear-sighted."

Obviously, Mr. Johnson would have had an uphill fight, not for the Chicago nomination but for re-election. However, Mr. Johnson is by nature a political fighter and the fact remains that he did withdraw. I believe he did what he did because he was simply and honestly convinced that his self-removal from politics at this time is in the best interests of the United States.

The overwhelming question now is the practical effect of the President's action on the hope for a secure peace in Vietnam in the face of our stalemate. And this, it seems to me, is utterly unpromising.

The President stated: "Peace can be based on the Geneva accords of 1954, under political conditions that permit the South Vietnamese to chart their course free of any outside domination or interference."

I was present in Geneva for these accords. At 3:42 a. m. on July 21, 1954, I saw the covenant signed by North Vietnamese Defense Minister Ta Quang Bui and French Brig. Gen. George Delteil.

Here are the specifics: In this cease-fire agreement with the French to which Mr. Johnson refers the Communists agreed to withdraw all Red forces north of the 17th parallel within 100 days. Delteil and Bui designated a narrow, iron girded bridge over the Benhai River to serve as a crossing point between South and North Vietnam. But the Reds never withdrew any of their forces. While the Geneva talks had gone on for three months the Communists had merely dug in deeper and deeper.

The accord established a buffer zone. But the Reds refused "on site" inspection exactly as they did later in Cuba and in the limited nuclear test treaty. And they never got out of the buffer zone.

North and South Vietnam, which resulted from the Geneva accord, must forgo military alliances. But the Communists did not need an alliance. Ho Chi Minh's forces were, as today, an integral part of the Red plunge into Southeast Asia.

Free elections must unite the nation by July, 1965. These would be supervised by Polish, Indian and Canadian observers. Four months from today these elections will be 12 years overdue.

Britain, the Soviet Union and Red China all participated in the cease-fire conference I attended in Geneva.

All endorsed the accord to which President Johnson referred. Not one of the provisions was ever carried out.

Instead, the Communists next mounted a full-blown offensive into the area that became Laos.

Washington arranged another cease-fire conference, the July, 1954, cease-fire accord not having ceased the fire. President Kennedy's representative, Averell Harriman, again referred to by President Johnson, brought 14 countries into these talks, again at Geneva, and Secretary of State Dean Rusk flew to Geneva to sign the accord as if the 1954 agreement were not already in existence.

This agreement "guaranteed" Laos' "independence and neutrality" but it was so apparent that it did nothing of the sort that at the end Mr. Harriman even stated (incredibly) in Geneva, "Laos isn't too important, after all."

Well, we see what we see today in Laos.

When Delteil and Bui scrawled their names on the document named in President Johnson's statement Red China Premier Chou En-lai pronounced that cease-fire accord "a tremendous success."

So did Ho Chi Minh. When the re-agreement was signed the second time in Geneva they both said the same thing, all over again. And, of course, they were right, both times.

Fundamentally, our problem is not how to get still agreement. The problem is to have it mean anything. President Johnson's withdrawal does not change this difficulty one iota.

WASHINGTON — There was something a little sad about the way Lyndon Johnson bowed out of the Presidential race the other night. It was not merely the sight of an old battler retiring from the ring, but because so many commentators interpreted it as a surrender to the political polls where he was licked.

Those who know him well, however — and I have known him 35 years — knew that he acted from conviction; and that he was making a great sacrifice, with the country's unity in his heart.

There had been telltale hints before that he would not run again. I recall a remark he made privately just one year ago this spring. "There is so much to do and so little time to do it," he said. This column published, Dec. 26, 1966, "President Johnson's intimates hint that he may not seek re-election in 1968." Again, on Dec. 11, '67, the column repeated, "LBJ, in the presence of Mrs. Johnson, recently told intimates, including Secretary of State Dean Rusk, that he definitely did not intend to run for re-election next year."

Only last week he was quite philosophic about the fact he had no organization in the field to combat the fervid goings and comings of Bobby Kennedy.

"I know what he's doing," the President told a friend. "One Democratic leader came in here to tell us that he had six telegrams and phone calls from different Kennedy's people in one day. Bobby's been sending telegrams saying, 'I know you are pledged to Johnson, but I feel a bond of affection with you.' He's made hundreds of phone calls all over the country. He has the son-in-law of Bill Paley, head of CBS, working for him. NBC puts him on three times a day."

"However, I can't do anything about it. I've got too much to do here. I'm not going to go out and campaign. They're going to have to take it or leave me. If I'm defeated, that's just too bad. If they want Bobby Kennedy, that's what they'll get; and they may wind up with Nixon in the end."

Moyers' Exit Was Blow

I suspect that it was two years ago that the President first came to a semi-conclusion that he would not run for another term.

It was just after his gallstone operation — the second abdominal operation in about 12 months. While he was recovering from that operation, Bill Moyers, a young man upon whom he had leaned heavily, retired to become publisher of Newsday.

The President has no sons and, to some extent, Bill Moyers occupied a son's place with him. LBJ can be pretty gruff and demanding with those around him. Outwardly he doesn't seem to appreciate their work, and sometimes it was that way with Moyers. Underneath, however, there was genuine personal affection.

But Moyers wanted to be Under Secretary of State when George Ball retired, and the President wouldn't go for that. Bill was only 30, had no real experience in foreign affairs; so Attorney General Nick Katzenbach was appointed instead.

At about that time, Moyers had become intimate with Bobby Kennedy, who had opposed LBJ almost from the minute he was picked for Vice President; and it was Bobby who got Moyers his new post with Newsday.

The President knew something of this and, although he said nothing, Moyers' retirement was a deeper blow than anyone knew.

From his sickbed he watched, on three TV sets placed in his bedroom, Bill Moyers' public statement of resignation. You could tell that it hurt him.

Incidentally, Moyers later signed up for syndication columnist Pete Hamill, who wrote the most scintillating column I have ever read on the Kennedy assassination, bluntly putting the blame on Lyndon Johnson.

Last week Hamill turned up as a ghost writer for Bobby Kennedy, on loan from Newsday. And three weeks before, Bobby Kennedy, in proposing the deal whereby he would not run for President, stipulated that Johnson must appoint Bill Moyers as Secretary of State replacing Dean Rusk.

It was at the time of the President's second operation and when Moyers bowed out, that I suspected he was seriously toying with the idea of not running again.

Regardless of when he made the decision, however, I am convinced that he made it clear he felt it was good for the unity of the country.

LBJ Is Idealist

There is one thing most people don't understand about Lyndon Johnson. He looks like a politician. He acts like a politician. He is a politician. But also he's a great idealist. When he talks about his country and what's good for his country, he means it. When he talks about education and helping children, he means it.

Orville Freeman, who has served as Secretary of Agriculture longer than anyone in history, put it this way privately last week:

"I campaigned my head off for Jack Kennedy. I'm a Lutheran and was head of my Masonic lodge, but I was convinced we must break the taboo against a Catholic as President. I worked so hard that I was defeated for another term as governor of Minnesota."

"When Kennedy took Lyndon on as Vice President, — no one was more surprised than I. Along with labor, I didn't like it. Then I got to know this guy and his convictions. He doesn't come across well on television, or with the public. He looks like a politician. But what other President has put across the educational program he has? Why? Because he believes in it. Or the civil right program? It has hurt him politically. It cost him votes. Why did he do it? Because he believes in it."

"Take home rule for the District of Columbia. There was no political mileage in that; not a single vote. But he thought it was right. And no man in history has worked harder for home rule than Lyndon Johnson."

So spoke a Kennedy member of the Cabinet.

It will take the public a long time to understand Lyndon Johnson. But I am convinced, having known him since he was a gangling young Congressman from Texas, that he is bowing out of the Presidency because he thinks it's right.

Only HHHH Was Informed

President Johnson's dramatic decision not to seek re-election didn't come as a complete surprise to his intimates, though the timing caught their breath.

For several months he has been telling them that he didn't intend to run again, but that he would do everything in his power to win the Democratic nomination for Vice President Humphrey. He made it clear that he expected to control the convention.

On at least one occasion the President told the Vice President that he had even considered resigning so Humphrey could run as the incumbent. On second thought, however, LBJ said he had dismissed this notion as morally and politically indefensible.

None of his intimates really believed he would give up his grip on the White House. Yet neither did they feel that he was trying to mislead them. It was merely his mood of the movement, they felt, to shed the great burden.

Humphrey was one who believed the President's talk of retiring would change with his mood. When LBJ brought up the subject, the Vice President always responded by urging him to run.

Last summer, however, Secretary of State Rusk became convinced that the President was serious about retiring. Rusk took Humphrey aside and urged him to prepare emotionally to step into the Presidential race. The Secretary of State urged Humphrey to get around the country more and build up his political fences.

Rusk also immediately began giving the Vice President full briefing on security developments. The President also pulled Humphrey more and more into the policy councils. Insiders say that Humphrey may now even be better informed than the President who doesn't have as much time as Humphrey to study the top-secret dispatches.

On the Sunday of the President's announcement, he called upon the Vice President in the morning and later telephoned him from the White House. He made it plain to Humphrey that his decision to retire was irrevocable.

Political Managers in Dark

But the decision was news to most of their intimates. Even James Rowe, chairman of the Johnson for President Citizens Committee, worked all day Sunday on the Johnson campaign. He received a phone call from the President scarcely an hour before the withdrawal was announced. The previous Friday the President spoke to intimates about the campaign, including his aide in charge of politics, Marvin Watson. The President talked about delegates, discussed political strategy, and gave every indication that he was running. At midnight, he telephoned Gov. Robert Docking of Kansas, and again discussed political strategy.

Those who know the President are convinced that he meant what he said in his Sunday night announcement about wishing to unite the country and lift the Presidency above partisan strife.

LBJ's Caution

The President usually holds off great decisions till the last minute, a characteristic that has raised public doubts about his fortitude. But this indecision, according to those who know him best, is a manifestation of his innate caution.

He has revealed this side of his character in stories he tells his friends. He likes to relate, for instance, how he once organized a gang of Texas teen-agers to waylay an unpopular, but rugged teacher on a lonely country road. When the hated teacher came into view, there was a cry of "Let's go!"

Young Lyndon rushed for the teacher, but it was Lyndon who was slammed to the ground. The teacher immediately jumped on him and began pummeling him with a belt. Johnson looked around for help and found his companions had fled.

The President puts great faith in the lessons of his youth. Today he never goes charging into a situation until he has explored every contingency and is sure his backers are with him. He is far more cautious, insiders insist, than he is devious. What passes for political manipulation often is no more than extraordinary caution.

These insiders point out that LBJ has kept quiet and accepted abuse when he could have made himself a national hero by explaining his motives to the country. However, he has felt these explanations might have jeopardized his goals.

He was the subject of considerable criticism, for example, when he held up food shipments to famine-stricken India last year. He was accused of playing politics with the hungry. The delay was merely a tactic to bring pressure on India to enact reforms that he believed were for its own good.

By holding back American aid, he also forced other governments to send aid to India, and reduced the costs to the American taxpayers. In his own view, at least, he allowed himself to become a martyr for the ultimate benefit of both India and the United States.

He has had the same motive — intimates insist, in hiding the true picture of the Vietnam war behind a smoke-screen of words. While the President felt that escalation of the war was necessary to our national interests, he wanted to avoid provoking Russia and China. Now he is persuaded, because of the deep division the war has caused at home, that he must do all in his power to seek an honorable peace.

Hanoi Unlikely to Leap To the Conference Table

By PETER LISAGOR
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

WASHINGTON — Diplomatic officials look with a jaundiced weather eye at Hanoi as they await a concrete reaction to President Johnson's partial bombing halt and withdrawals from presidential politics.

The prevailing judgment is that the North Vietnamese believe that events are moving favorably for them, and are unlikely to grasp Mr. Johnson's appeal to them to match his initiative in stopping aerial and sea bombardment of population and food-production centers beyond demilitarized zone staging areas.

Meanwhile, the stock of Gen. Creighton Abrams as the probable successor to William W. Westmoreland as commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam has risen in the wake of the President's Sunday night speech.

Mr. Johnson laid heavy emphasis on the need for South Vietnam to assume the major share of the combat and rehabilitation burdens.

Abrams has been chiefly responsible for making Vietnamese government troops combat-worthy. His elevation to the top job would signal Washington's determination to supplant U.S. troops in time with the Vietnamese forces, it is pointed out here.

One experienced former diplomatic official, George W. Ball, says that Hanoi will, in all probability, reject the President's call for mutual restraint.

Hanoi Will Wait

Ball, who served both Presidents John F. Kennedy and Johnson as Undersecretary of State for six years and opposed the deepening involvement in Vietnam, believes the North Vietnamese will intensify their "winter-spring offensive" before they seriously contemplate peace talks.

That conference was arranged before the decisive battle of Dien Bien Phu, he notes, and Ho Chi Minh and his comrades believed that the whole of Vietnam would fall to the Communists "like a ripe fruit."

When it didn't, some of Ho's associates, notably Le Duan, party stalwart, attacked their leader for not being more patient about negotiations. Ball thinks that experience has made Hanoi wary about rushing to a conference table, especially when it appears to have concluded that it occupies the driver's seat.

The new French premier, Pierre Mendes France, had a mandate to get France out of Indochina at Geneva, Ball points out. Hanoi is likely to wait to see if something of a parallel develops in the American elections this fall.

Drew Pearson Says It Will Take Public a Long Time To Understand Lyndon Johnson

WASHINGTON — There was something a little sad about the way Lyndon Johnson bowed out of the Presidential race the other night. It was not merely the sight of an old battler retiring from the ring, but because so many commentators interpreted it as a surrender to the political polls where he was licked.

Those who know him well, however — and I have known him 35 years — knew that he acted from conviction; and that he was making a great sacrifice, with the country's unity in his heart.

There had been telltale hints before that he would not run again. I recall a remark he made privately just one year ago this spring. "There is so much to do and so little time to do it," he said. This column published, Dec. 26, 1966, "President Johnson's intimates hint that he may not seek re-election in 1968." Again, on Dec. 11, '67, the column repeated, "LBJ, in the presence of Mrs. Johnson, recently told intimates, including Secretary of State Dean Rusk, that he definitely did not intend to run for re-election next year."

Only last week he was quite philosophic about the fact he had no organization in the field to combat the fervid goings and comings of Bobby Kennedy.

"I know what he's doing," the President told a friend. "One Democratic leader came in here to tell us that he had six telegrams and phone calls from different Kennedy's people in one day. Bobby's been sending telegrams saying, 'I know you are pledged to Johnson, but I feel a bond of affection with you.' He's made hundreds of phone calls all over the country. He has the son-in-law of Bill Paley, head of CBS, working for him. NBC puts him on three times a day."

"However, I can't do anything about it. I've got too much to do here. I'm not going to go out and campaign. They're going to have to take it or leave me. If I'm defeated, that's just too bad. If they want Bobby Kennedy, that's what they'll get; and they may wind up with Nixon in the end."

Moyers' Exit Was Blow

I suspect that it was two years ago that the President first came to a semi-conclusion that he would not run for another term.

It was just after his gallstone operation — the second abdominal operation in about 12 months. While he was recovering from that operation, Bill Moyers, a young man upon whom he had leaned heavily, retired to become publisher of Newsday.

The President has no sons and, to some extent, Bill Moyers occupied a son's place with him. LBJ can be pretty gruff and demanding with those around him. Outwardly he doesn't seem to appreciate their work, and sometimes it was that way with Moyers. Underneath, however, there was genuine personal affection.

But Moyers wanted to be Under Secretary of State when George Ball retired, and the President wouldn't go for that. Bill was only 30, had no real experience in foreign affairs; so Attorney General Nick Katzenbach was appointed instead.

At about that time, Moyers had become intimate with Bobby Kennedy, who had opposed LBJ almost from the minute he was picked for Vice President; and it was Bobby who got Moyers his new post with Newsday.

The President knew something of this and, although he said nothing, Moyers' retirement was a deeper blow than anyone knew.

From his sickbed he watched, on three TV sets placed in his bedroom, Bill Moyers' public statement of resignation. You could tell that it hurt him.

Incidentally, Moyers later signed up for syndication columnist Pete Hamill, who wrote the most scintillating column I have ever read on the Kennedy assassination, bluntly putting the blame on Lyndon Johnson.

Last week Hamill turned up as a ghost writer for Bobby Kennedy, on loan from Newsday. And three weeks before, Bobby Kennedy, in proposing the deal whereby he would not run for President, stipulated that Johnson must appoint Bill Moyers as Secretary of State replacing Dean Rusk.

It was at the time of the President's second operation and when Moyers bowed out, that I suspected he was seriously toying with the idea of not running again.

Regardless of when he made the decision, however, I am convinced that he made it clear he felt it was good for the unity of the country.

LBJ Is Idealist

There is one thing most people don't understand about Lyndon Johnson. He looks like a politician. He acts like a politician. He is a politician. But also he's a great idealist. When he talks about his country and what's good for his country, he means it. When he talks about education and helping children, he means it.

Orville Freeman, who has served as Secretary of Agriculture longer than anyone in history, put it this way privately last week:

"I campaigned my head off for Jack Kennedy. I'm a Lutheran and was head of my Masonic lodge, but I was convinced we must break the taboo against a Catholic as President. I worked so hard that I was defeated for another term as governor of Minnesota."

"When Kennedy took Lyndon on as Vice President, — no one was more surprised than I. Along with labor, I didn't like it. Then I got to know this guy and his convictions. He doesn't come across well on television, or with the public. He looks like a politician. But what other President has put across the educational program he has? Why? Because he believes in it. Or the civil right program? It has hurt him politically. It cost him votes. Why did he do it? Because he believes in it."

"Take home rule for the District of Columbia. There was no political mileage in that; not a single vote. But he thought it was right. And no man in history has worked harder for home rule than Lyndon Johnson."

So spoke a Kennedy member of the Cabinet.

It will take the public a long time to understand Lyndon Johnson. But I am convinced, having known him since he was a gangling young Congressman from Texas, that he is bowing out of the Presidency because he thinks it's right.

Only HHHH Was Informed

President Johnson's dramatic decision not to seek re-election didn't come as a complete surprise to his intimates, though the timing caught their breath.

For several months he has been telling them that he didn't intend to run again, but that he would do everything in his power to win the Democratic nomination for Vice President Humphrey. He made it clear that he expected to control the convention.

On at least one occasion the President told the Vice President that he had even considered resigning so Humphrey could run as the incumbent. On second thought, however, LBJ said he had dismissed this notion as morally and politically indefensible.

None of his intimates really believed he would give up his grip on the White House. Yet neither did they feel that he was trying to mislead them. It was merely his mood of the movement, they felt, to shed the great burden.

Humphrey was one who believed the President's talk of retiring would change with his mood. When LBJ brought up the subject, the Vice President always responded by urging him to run.

Fires in Spring

Every year during the month of April local firemen are called upon for frantic efforts to save farm houses, barns and other buildings from destruction by fire. These recurring brush and grass fires keep the firemen busy.

Most brush fires are the result of carelessness—a discarded cigarette or match. Others are started by people in their spring cleanup endeavors and then abandoned to become out of control by gusty winds. This time of year yards and fields are in their most dangerous condition with dried out tall grass and weeds. Extra care must be taken by everyone to prevent damaging fires.

When fires occur, the exact location should be reported to the fire department. If the person summoning aid becomes excited and his report is faulty or incoherent, then there will be delay. Early arrival of the fire apparatus at the scene of a blaze is imperative if the best results are to be attained.

It has long been a wise precaution to keep the telephone number of your nearest fire company close to your phone so that it is immediately available in the event of a fire emergency. Post the number of your nearest fire company conspicuously so it can be seen at a glance or is immediately available at some convenient place. Numbers of fire districts, stations and volunteer companies throughout the area are listed on the back of the front page cover of the telephone directory.

It is vitally important that fire companies be notified speedily in case of fire emergency.

Is Rocky a Candidate?

The Republican Governors are nothing if not stubborn. Unsuccessful in their plea for the chairmanship of the Platform Committee at their party's national convention, they are making plans for a nationwide tour to gather ideas for presentation at the hearings on the platform. One way or another, they mean to get consideration of their views.

The makeup of the Governors' task force may lead some to look for other reasons for the tour than meet the eye. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, chairman of the Republican Governors Association Policy Committee, and John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, who heads the association, lead the force. They are joined by John A. Love of Colorado and Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania. All are members of the liberal wing, which has been cool to the candidacy of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The itinerary is coast to coast—Seattle to Boston, Little Rock to Detroit, Rockefeller, who announced recently he would not seek nomination but left himself open to a draft, will have maximum exposure on this trip. Is the purpose to stimulate draft possibilities among the host Governors, or to get the platform views of their sections? It is hard to draw a line.

Senator Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, who was tabbed to head Rockefeller's campaign for the presidency, has declared that Governor Rockefeller will become an active candidate in the next week.

It's becoming a nuisance. At the end of last year, 508,000 New York dwellers had unlisted telephone numbers. About 3,600 are shifting to unlisted numbers every month. If you can't get a friend or relative in New York, don't blame the telephone company. Your friend prefers secrecy.

There is the problem for the appointment of the Most Rev. Terence J. Cooke, 47, to be Archbishop of New York reflects a bit of civic pride. All emphasize that he is a native born and bred New Yorker. He also is a protege and former secretary to his predecessor, Francis Cardinal Spellman.

Love's New Sweet Song

Henry J. Taylor Says Secure Peace Unpromising

On March 18 this column stated: "If President Johnson would simply quit playing politics for awhile, and let the country see him doing his level best in his immense and heart-breaking job, let the chips fall where they may, the country would rally behind him in a way that is otherwise totally impossible."

Well, by his withdrawal the President went far, far beyond that. Now we can only hope and pray for the rally that Mr. Johnson is trying to make possible.

Much that I read and hear about the President's motives is too cynical for me. And perhaps it is refreshing to remember that there are always motives that cynics do not see for being too "clear-sighted."

Obviously, Mr. Johnson would have had an uphill fight, not for the Chicago nomination but for re-election. However, Mr. Johnson is by nature a political fighter and the fact remains that he did withdraw. I believe he did what he did because he was simply and honestly convinced that his self-removal from politics at this time is in the best interests of the United States.

The overwhelming question now is the practical effect of the President's action on the hope for a secure peace in Vietnam in the face of our stalemate. And this, it seems to me, is utterly unpromising.

The President stated: "Peace can be based on the Geneva accords of 1954, under political conditions that permit the South Vietnamese to chart their course free of any outside domination or interference."

I was present in Geneva for these accords. At 3:42 a. m. on July 21, 1954, I saw the covenant signed by North Vietnamese Defense Minister Ta Quang Buu and French Brig. Gen. George Delteil.

Here are the specifics:

In this cease-fire agreement with the French to which Mr. Johnson refers the Communists agreed to withdraw all Red forces north of the 17th parallel within 100 days. Delteil and Buu designated a narrow, iron girded bridge over the Benhai River to serve as a crossing point between South and North Vietnam. But the Reds never withdrew any of their forces. While the Geneva talks had gone on for three months the Communists had merely dug in deeper and deeper.

The accord established a buffer zone. But the Reds refused "on site" inspection—exactly as they did later in Cuba and in the limited nuclear test treaty. And they never got out of the buffer zone.

North and South Vietnam, which resulted from the Geneva accord, must forgo military alliances. But the Communists did not need an alliance. Ho Chi Minh's forces were, as today, an integral part of the Red regime into Southeast Asia.

Free elections must unite the nation by July, 1965. These would be supervised by Polish, Indian and Canadian observers. Four months from today these elections will be 12 years overdue.

Britain, the Soviet Union and Red China all participated in the cease-fire conference I attended in Geneva.

And endorsed the accord to which President Johnson referred. Not one of the provisions was ever carried out.

Instead, the Communists next mounted a full-blown offensive into the area that became Laos.

Washington arranged another cease-fire conference, the July, 1954, cease-fire accord not having ceased the fire. President Kennedy's representative, Averell Harriman, again referred to President Johnson, brought 14 countries into these talks, again at Geneva, and Secretary of State Dean Rusk flew to Geneva to sign the accord as if the 1954 agreement were not already in existence.

This agreement "guaranteed" Laos' "independence and neutrality" but it was so apparent that it did nothing of the sort that at the end Mr. Harriman even stated (incredibly) in Geneva, "Laos isn't too important, after all."

Well, we see what we see today in Laos.

When Delteil and Buu scrawled their names on the document named in President Johnson's statement Red China Premier Chou En-lai pronounced that cease-fire accord "a tremendous success." So did Ho Chi Minh.

When the re-agreement was signed the second time in Geneva they both said: "And, of course, all over again. And, of course, all over again. And, of course, all over again."

Fundamentally, our problem is not how to get still agreement. The problem is to have it mean anything. President Johnson's withdrawal does not change this difficulty one iota.

Mr. Johnson's removal of himself from the presidential race may lead Hanoi to wait for a new President, on the assumption that it can get a better deal next year, Ball believes, in common with other diplomatic officials.

Ball, who served as a consultant to the French government in 1954 at the time of the Geneva conference partitioning Indochina and leaving Vietnam divided at the 17th Parallel, recalls Hanoi's bitter experience at that time.

Only HHHH Was Informed

President Johnson's dramatic decision not to seek re-election didn't come as a complete surprise to his intimates, though the timing caught them by breath.

For several months he has been telling them that he didn't intend to run again, but that he would do everything in his power to win the Democratic nomination for Vice President Humphrey.

He made it clear that he expected to control the convention.

On at least one occasion President told the Vice President that he had even considered resigning so Humphrey could run as the incumbent.

On second thought, however, LBJ said he had dismissed this notion as morally and politically indefensible.

None of his intimates really believed he would give up his grip on the White House. Yet neither did they feel that he was trying to dislodge them. It was merely his mood, the movement, they felt, to shed the great burden.

Humphrey was one who believed the President's talk of retiring would change with his mood. When LBJ brought up the subject, the Vice President always responded by urging him to run.

Last summer, however, Secretary of State Rusk became convinced that the President was serious about retiring. Rusk took Humphrey aside and urged him to prepare emotionally to step into the Presidential race. The Secretary of State urged Humphrey to get around the country more and build up his political fences.

Rusk also immediately began giving the Vice President full briefing on security developments. The President also pulled Humphrey more and more into the policy councils. Insiders say that Humphrey may now even be better informed than the President who doesn't have as much time as Humphrey to study the top-secret dispatches.

On the Sunday of the President's announcement, he called upon the Vice President in the morning and later telephoned him from the White House. He made it plain to Humphrey that his decision to retire was irrevocable.

Political Managers in Dark
But the decision was news to most of their intimates. Even James Rowe, chairman of the Johnson for President Citizens Committee, worked all day Sunday on the Johnson campaign. He received a phone call from the President scarcely an hour before the withdrawal was announced. The previous Friday the President spoke to intimates about the campaign, including his aide in charge of politics, Marvin Watson. The President talked about delegates, discussed political strategy, and gave every indication that he was running. At midnight, he telephoned Gov. Robert Docking of Kansas, and again discussed political strategy.

Those who know the President are convinced that he meant what he said in his Sunday night announcement about wishing to unite the country and lift the Presidency above partisan strife.

LBJ's Caution
The President usually holds off great decisions till the last minute, a characteristic that has raised public doubts about his fortitude. But this indecision, according to those who know him best, is a manifestation of his innate caution.

He is far more cautious, insiders insist, than he is devious. What poses for political manipulation often is no more than extraordinary caution.

These insiders point out that LBJ has kept quiet and accepted abuse when he could have made himself a national hero by explaining his motives to the country. However, he has felt these explanations might have jeopardized his goals.

He was the subject of considerable criticism, for example, when he fed up food shipments to famine-stricken India last year. He was accused of playing politics with the hungry. The delay was merely a tactic, to bring pressure on India to enact reforms that he believed were for its own good.

By holding back American aid, he also forced other governments to send aid to India, and reduced the costs to the American taxpayers. In his own view, at least, he allowed himself to become a martyr for the ultimate benefit of both India and the United States.

He has had the same motive, intimates insist, in hiding the true picture of the Vietnam war behind a smoke-screen of words. While the President felt that escalation of the war was necessary to our national interests, he wanted to avoid provoking Russia and China. Now he is persuaded, because of the deep division the war has caused at home, that he must do all in his power to seek an honorable peace.

Editor, The Freeman

Dear Sir:

Can one of your readers inform me as to what estrogenic substances which are used in cosmetics and medicines?

According to an article in the current issue of The National Catholic Society for Animal Welfare Report, estrogenic substances used in this way are produced from the urine of pregnant mares, although estrogen can also be synthetically produced.

The article goes on to say

"The market for the pregnant mares' urine has led to the cruelty that is common when defenseless animals are considered as a mere commodity. Farms where the mares are kept for the collection of urine are operated in Vermont, New Hampshire, New York State, and Canada, and probably in many more areas than are yet known. The pregnant mares are kept in the stalls without exercise. Sores develop from the ill-fitting contraptions placed on them to catch the urine. Starvation and thirst are frequent. Frail foals, too young to be away from their mothers, are sold for a quick profit. The mares are rebred as quickly as possible."

The Report portrayed a picture of a starved and emaciated mare from a PMU farm in Vermont, at which farm it is reported, 23 horses died of starvation.

When I read of this kind of horror and cruelty which is the direct result of all ethics and humanitarianism being sacrificed for commercial profit, and when I see and read of so many instances of complete disregard for "reverence for life" (to use Schweitzer's expression) both human and animal, I must confess I feel that modern youth have every right to rebel, and to reject and condemn the society they see around them.

Yours truly,
DIANA M. GEIGER

Political Winds

By CHARLES BERMPOHL
(Freeman Political Writer)

One cannot use Ulster County politics as a single cell, to be examined under a powerful microscope in an effort to understand the nature of the beast that is now stirring in every hamlet of every village in every town, city, and state in the nation.

Politics nationally is a hydra, a many-headed beast which seeks to be alluring to the millions while, at the same time, snapping with its all-too-many faces.

Ulster, by comparison, is a timid little creature wherein, even should men and fortunes fall, scarcely a whine can be heard along the vast corridors of authority and might that stretch from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Canada to Mexico.

A better example for the lens to focus on would be the New York State Democratic Party, for in this gigantic limb of the national political beast we find that very savage grace which makes for a compelling, almost hypnotic study in power.

Some time ago, when Georgia-raised New York City attorney Morris Abram was still in the race for the party's senate nomination, Daily News City Hall columnist Edward O'Neil tipped off his readers that the White House would soon be making a call to Congressman Joe Resnick to withdraw from the senate nomination scene.

O'Neil's logic, reinforced by some of the state's top Democratic leaders, was that Johnson needed New York's electoral votes in November; Resnick's anti-Kennedy, Burns declarations were making a mockery of party unity; only Kennedy-Burns leadership could deliver the state to the President.

O'Neil felt that, because of the pure arithmetic involved, the President would inform his not-so-powerful ally, Resnick, to step aside.

What happened, of course, is history. Top state Democrats made their demands known to the White House; Abram composed a "white paper" on the Vietnam War; Kennedy grudgingly accepted Abram's views, but the White House did not.

A call went through, but not to Joe Resnick. Abram pulled out to take the presidency of Brandeis University and the Ellenville Democrat was tagged as the President's choice.

Now the party strategists, under the leadership of chairman Burns, were faced with a very real threat from a problem child whose lust for a good fight was known only to Teamster officials, Ulster County Republicans, Ham Fish Jr., and area Democrats who accepted Conservative Party endorsements.

Burns, with Kennery breathing down his neck, had to come up with a candidate. The field looked barren. There just weren't many Democrats who wanted to look Jacob Javits in the eye, where just one stare could mean energy wasted in vain, and treasure dumped into the sea.

The March 30 convention date loomed. Arthur Levitt wouldn't take it, Bob Wagner turned it down, and then, with the ultimate conclave just a week away, Manhattan Borough President Percy Sutton was wooed into serving as what many believed to be the sacrificial lamb.

Then, near catastrophe! With the convention a bare 24 hours away, the Liberal Party executive committee endorsed Javits; Sutton saw the doors close before his eyes, and he withdrew.

What was required now was nothing short of a miracle, and Burns was forced into the role of Merlin the Wizard.

Faced with Robert Kennedy's absolute need to bring a mighty majority of New York's delegate votes to the national convention in August; faced with a pro-LBJ split within the ranks; faced with a Joe Resnick who seemed to take an adolescent's delight in raw insult, Burns had to discover or create a candidate within the day, make, through promise, coercion, or outright threat, a majority of some 300 delegates forsake LBJ.

Otis Pike, Paul O'Dwyer, and Joe Resnick in favor of a candidate who had materialized on the spot.

There was something else: Democratic strategists did not want Resnick to have a base of operations from which to level attacks against Kennedy's presidential aspirations, and the 28th Congressional District was just such a base.

What had to be done, in that fantastic 24 hours, was to draw Resnick into a costly, exhausting primary battle, by presenting him with at least 25 percent of the convention's delegate votes, and forcing him to dash his forces against the dunes of Montauk Point, the concrete of Manhattan, the wood of Appalachia, the roar of Niagara.

"Let him be spread thin, let him bleed from many wounds," said one county leader.

And so it was. The miracle happened. Eugene Nickerson was conjured up in the test tubes of the Democratic laboratory, and Joe Resnick received Greeks bearing gifts for reasons unknown to himself.

Burns' organizational brilliance will be put to another test, that of delivering the state to Kennedy in August and perhaps in the fall, and if he does this, his grasp of the gears and levers of politics may be considered to go beyond mere mechanical know-how.

Black Power Comedian Dick Gregory:

'We'll Drive Police Crazy,' But Will Be Nonviolent

The author of this series, a Negro, is a reporter for the Chicago American. He was assigned by Newspaper Enterprise Association to determine what Chicago might be like this summer and during the Democratic national convention in August.

By L. F. PALMER JR.,
NEA Special Correspondent

CHICAGO — (NEA) — Dick Gregory, the comedian turned peace and freedom activist, has pledged that the Democratic national convention will be held in Chicago "only over my dead body."

There are many people who do not take Gregory seriously. Even his former partners in civil rights skirmishes say now they can no longer help pull him out of the hole in which some of his way-out schemes have trapped him.

But there are unknown thousands who do take Gregory seriously. For months he has criss-crossed the country making speeches at college campuses and drawing capacity crowds.

If a speech at a Chicago area university is a barometer, he has an almost mesmerizing effect on many students. Following his lecture, a white girl came up to him in tears and pleaded: "What can I do to help?"

He'll get all the help he wants this summer, Gregory says, when he sounds the call. The comedian said he'll bring 50,000 sympathizers to Chicago and after July 4 he'll have as many as 50 demonstrations going at one time.

"We'll drive the police crazy," Gregory said. "But we'll be nonviolent."

Sit Down in Streets

Recognizing that police are not likely to interfere in a peaceful protest, Gregory said his people will "sit down in the streets" if they have to.

"If that doesn't do it, you know what I'll do? I'll lead a march into Cicero. I'll be up in the front and my six kids will be right at my side."

Cicero is Chicago's symbolic anti-Negro suburb.

Gregory's strategy is to agitate Chicago to the point that delegates to the Democratic national convention will shun the city. This way, he believes, he can stop the convention nonviolently.

To solidify his strength, Gregory has lined up with

Travel Tax Is Dead—Percy

BY BETTY FLYNN
(Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON March 8—Sen. Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) says President Johnson's proposed travel tax is dead.

The proposed restrictions he said were "a bandaid approach to a problem that needs major surgery."

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) wound up a closed meeting on the travel ban proposal yesterday. The bill is expected to lie dormant in the committee indefinitely.

The bill would have placed a graduated tax on daily expenses outside the western hemisphere, involved a new 5 per cent tax on air tickets and cut sharply the amount of duty-free allowance for travelers.

"They have done well to relegate the measure to a dusty back shelf," Percy told the Republican State Central Committee in Baltimore, Md.

"I hope that is the last we will see of it. It was ill-conceived to begin with."

Percy said the balance-of-payments situation should be improved by cutting troop commitments in Europe by 50,000 and trimming the size of embassies abroad.

He accused the administration of offering an "unrealistic budget, including too much 'sleight-of-hand.'"

Particularly, Percy said it includes such anticipated revenues as $7.4 billion in social security trust fund surpluses and $10.2 billion from the proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

"The United States is in economic trouble and it's time to re-order our fiscal policies," Percy said.

April 4, 1958 — A petition asking state action to set aside the education board's vote on school consolidation was adopted by the Common Council in special session last night.

The Post Office Department, seeking to remedy badly overcrowded conditions at the Port Ewen Post Office, today invited proposals to lease larger quarters for its facility in that community.

April 4, 1946 — Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk urged display of the flag here in observance of Army Day, April 6.

Forrest Goodenough, pianist and composer, was selected as the first artist to win an award given by the newly formed Woodstock Foundation.

hippies and yippies (members of the "Youth International Party") who have pledged to bring as many as five million to Chicago this summer but who are more likely to mobilize tens of thousands for their own strange brand of protest.

Timothy Leary, high priest of the hippies, plans a huge love-in which promises to do little more than add to the general confusion.

The Youth International Party with its yippies, however, gives more reason for concern.

Jerry Rubin, party founder, promised to produce "100,000 people to burn their draft cards at the same moment." He said yippies "plan to paint their cars like cabs, pick up delegates and drop them off in Wisconsin."

More Ominous Ideas

Others have more ominous ideas. Listen to writer Paul Krassner:

"No more marches, no more rallies, no more speeches. The dialogue is over, baby. Tolerance of racial dissent has become an insidious form of repression. The goal now is to disrupt an insane society.

Their first opportunity for disruption will come if they try to stage their announced "youth festival" in Chicago's Grant Park simultaneously with the Democratic convention.

Chicago Park District officials say the yippies won't be yipping in the park. Serious trouble portends if they try. The yippies have set up headquarters in Union Square in New York to organize their Chicago festival. They are using a formidable lure to hook their converts—music.

They say they have already lined up Arlo Guthrie, Country Joe and the Fish, the Fugs, Phil Ochs, the United States of American Band, the Pagan Players, and the Bread and Puppet Theater.

If that's not enough they've invited Bob Dylan, the Monkees, the Jefferson Airplane, the Mama's and Papas and other big names.

Rubin, a serious young man, said the yippies are after "massive visibility. It is in our numbers and our visibility and our common support of each other that we gain strength."

Wants Troops Called

He is hoping that troops will have to be called out.

"It is important that there are troops there. You have the theater of the convention and its obscene politics and (President) Johnson and he's important to the theater because he's stupid. And you have the paratroopers and they're going to be important and (Mayor) Daley's important and we're important."

He predicted that the Democrats will probably have to travel from hotel to convention hall by helicopter.

"Johnson will be nominated under military guard, under protection of the bayonets and the Army," Rubin said.

"Even if Chicago does not burn, the paranoia and guilt of the government will force them to bring thousands of troops, and the more troops the better the theater."

Churchmen of All Faiths On Hand for Cooke Rites

NEW YORK (AP) — American cardinals, hundreds of other Roman Catholic prelates and clergy of other faiths gathered here for today's formal installation of Archbishop Terence J. Cooke.

The centuries-old pomp and pageantry at St. Patrick's Cathedral follow the new archbishop's symbolic and simple entry into his 10-county Archdiocese from a suburban spiritual retreat Wednesday, when he officially became spiritual leader of the 1.85 million Catholics.

He went to the Cathedral, presented his credentials—signed by Vatican officials—and there by became the successor to Francis Cardinal Spellman who died last December.

Appointed March 8

The 47-year-old churchman—elevated from bishop to archbishop and perhaps destined to become a Cardinal soon—then dropped to his knees and prayed for the first time as the seventh archbishop of New York.

Heading today's gathering of clergy of high and low degree, public officials, representatives of foreign governments, civic leaders and parishioners was the Most Rev. Luigi Raimondi, the apostolic delegate, or papal representative, to the United States.

The two-hour installation and a Mass, with the apostolic delegate as chief celebrant, is being broadcast live by WNBC-TV starting at 1 p.m.

Archbishop Cooke, who was appointed by Pope Paul VI March 8, is to deliver a keynote address on his policies as head of the Archdiocese.

Following the ceremonies, there is a private reception for members of Archbishop Cooke's family in his residence on Madison Avenue, in the rear of the cathedral on Fifth Avenue.

The cathedral is the seat of the archdiocese, which embraces Manhattan, the Bronx and Staten Island in New York City and seven counties to the north.

At midday Wednesday, Archbishop Cooke left St. Joseph's Seminary in suburban Yonkers, where he had been on a retreat of meditation since Monday. During a 27-mile auto tour, he visited two New York City parishes where he had served as an assistant pastor.

He shook many hands, kissed dozens of youngsters, prayed, made a big hit with parochial school pupils by declaring holidays, and received a number of gifts.

At St. Jude's Parish in upper

Holiday for Children

Later, at St. Athanasius Parish in the Bronx, Archbishop Cooke granted a school holiday to the hundreds of children who greeted him in the school yard—with the date of the holiday to be picked by the pastor.

An aide reminded the prelate that this traditional gesture had not been made at St. Jude's. Word was quickly sent to St. Jude's that the holiday applied there also.

There were stops at the Casita Maria community project for Puerto Ricans in the South Bronx, a church-affiliated anti-poverty project and other places.

As the prelate arrived at the cathedral shortly after 5 p.m., he was greeted by 200 persons outside and about 2,000 within.

After officially becoming archbishop and donning golden vestments, he celebrated Mass, with auxiliary bishops among the 23 concelebrants.

After the Mass, Archbishop Cooke went behind the altar and prayed at the crypt containing the remains of his six predecessors. He then greeted two sisters and a niece of Cardinal Spellman.

PORT EWEN CRASH — Two men were injured and the driver of this car was cited by State Police after the vehicle went out of control at 12:05 a. m. today and crashed into a tree at Green and West Street in Port Ewen. Highway Troopers John Crodele and Jerry Henne reported Robert C. Robinson, 25, of 196 Quarry Street, Port Ewen, was driving out of Green Street and entering West Street when the vehicle left the pavement and hit the tree. Robinson suffered a fractured hip and lacerations of the face and body. A passenger, Donald L. Peterson, 25, of R.D. 5, Kingston, received lacerations of the face and head. Both were taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance. Robinson was cited for failure to keep to the right, authorities said. (Freeman photo by Fitzgerald).

Talks May Be Held in---

Red Chinese were consulted either.

"What you Americans seem to find hard to realize is that North Vietnam is a sovereign nation," one Russian said.

They said they expected the preliminary talks to get underway "very quickly—probably next week."

They added that they believed the only possible sites for such talks were Moscow or Paris and that the Soviet capital has a 60-40 chance of being chosen.

Washington is understood to have messaged Hanoi informing the government of President Ho Chi Minh of U.S. readiness to meet for initial contacts on peace talks.

Officials indicated the first Hanoi-Washington contact would probably be between top U.S. and North Vietnamese diplomats in Moscow, Vientiane, Laos, or some other capital next.

where both countries have embassies.

The first purpose, in the U.S. view, would be to set a time and place for actual talks on scaling down the war and eventually negotiating a settlement.

The situation has developed with such speed, since Johnson ordered a partial halt in the bombing of North Vietnam Sunday night that even surprised U.S. government leaders are not quite sure what will happen next.

They voiced cautious optimism about peace prospects but appeared by no means certain the United States and North Vietnam can actually reach an agreement soon.

As if in response to their doubts, North Vietnam's Communist newspaper warned the United States today not to expect any concessions in return for a total bombing halt.

The paper, Nhan Dan, in a statement 10 hours after the Hanoi announcement, said Johnson's speech Sunday "and the subsequent acts of the U.S. aggressors have made it clear that the U.S. government remains obstinate and has not given up its sinister design of aggression against South Vietnam, which is manifest right in Johnson's 'limited bombing' concerning North Vietnam."

Prior to this statement—which reached Washington only early today—the Washington Hanoi agreement to talk after years of continuously expanding war was regarded in Washington as a great breakthrough toward eventually ending the conflict.

Consultations going on Johnson announced in a brief late-afternoon television-radio appearance Wednesday that "we will establish contact with the representatives of North Vietnam."

"Consultations with the government of South Vietnam and our other allies are now taking place," Johnson added.

A dangerous element, officials said privately, is the possibility of a split between the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments over how far and how fast to go in the search for peace. South Vietnamese leaders, although almost totally dependent on U.S. military and economic support, have sometimes been outspokenly critical of U.S. efforts to find a way to make peace.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu met with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and the envoys of five other allies to discuss Hanoi's offer. The session was preceded by hints in the National Assembly of South Vietnamese dissatisfaction with the turn of events.

Optimistic Reaction
Reaction worldwide to Hanoi's move and Johnson's follow-up also was generally optimistic.

French President Charles de Gaulle, a longtime critic of U.S. foreign policy, described curtailment of American bombing as an apparent "first step in the direction of peace."

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant welcomed North Vietnam's move and offered the facilities of the world body in Geneva for any peace talks.

Homefront optimism was voiced by such war-policy critics as Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., and Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn.

2 Sentenced In Ulster

Two Kingston youths apprehended recently after a high speed chase and held in connection with the theft of a car and a break-in at Fallsburgh Bottling Company were sentenced Wednesday afternoon by Town of Ulster Justice Arthur R. Reilly.

Michael R. Montessi, 17, of Adams Street, faced charges of unauthorized uses of a motor vehicle, criminal trespassing and petit larceny. He was adjudged a youthful offender and placed on probation for one year.

His companion, William Pendell, 20 of Franklin Street, facing the same charges, pleaded guilty and given a suspended sentence of one year in county jail providing he becomes a member of the Job Corps within one week. Pendell's attorney advised the court that the defendant had applied and was accepted in the Job Corps.

Rondout National Set For New Paltz Branch

The Rondout National Bank today received approval from the Comptroller of the Currency to establish a branch bank in New Paltz.

The branch will be in the new Simmons-New Paltz Shopping Plaza, Main Street. The plaza is expected to open this fall and the bank will be in operation at that time.

Irving L. Eyles, executive vice president of the Rondout National Bank, said the newest branch will offer complete banking facilities with drive-in window, large parking area and every type of banking service.

The branch will be the fourth office for the bank which has main offices at 635 Broadway and branches at Bradley Meadows Shopping Center, Woodstock and Route 9W, Port Ewen.

Churchmen of All Faiths On Hand for Cooke Rites

NEW YORK (AP) — American cardinals, hundreds of other Roman Catholic prelates and clergy of other faiths gathered here for today's formal installation of Archbishop Terence J. Cooke.

The centuries-old pomp and pageantry at St. Patrick's Cathedral follow the new archbishop's symbolic and simple entry into his 10-county Archdiocese from a suburban spiritual retreat Wednesday, when he officially became spiritual leader of the 1.85 million Catholics.

He went to the Cathedral, presented his credentials—signed by Vatican officials—and thereby became the successor to Francis Cardinal Spellman who died last December.

Appointed March 8

The 47-year-old churchman—elevated from bishop to archbishop and perhaps destined to become a Cardinal soon—then dropped to his knees and prayed for the first time as the seventh archbishop of New York.

Heading today's gathering of clergy of high and low degree, public officials, representatives of foreign governments, civic leaders and parishioners was the Most Rev. Luigi Raimondi, the apostolic delegate, or papal representative, to the United States.

The two-hour installation and a Mass, with the apostolic delegate as chief celebrant, is being broadcast live by WNBC-TV starting at 1 p.m.

Archbishop Cooke, who was appointed by Pope Paul VI March 8, is to deliver a keynote address on his policies as head of the Archdiocese.

Following the ceremonies, there is a private reception for members of Archbishop Cooke's family in his residence on Madison Avenue, in the rear of the cathedral on Fifth Avenue.

Officials indicated the first Hanoi-Washington contact would probably be between top U.S. and North Vietnamese diplomats in Moscow, Vietnam, Laos, or some other capital.

where both countries have embassies.

The first purpose, in the U.S. view, would be to set a time and place for actual talks on scaling down the war and eventually negotiating a settlement.

The situation has developed with such speed, since Johnson ordered a partial halt in the bombing of North Vietnam Sunday night that even surprised U.S. government leaders are not quite sure what will happen next.

Cautious Optimism

They voiced cautious optimism about peace prospects but appeared by no means certain the United States and North Vietnam can actually reach an agreement soon.

"As if in response to their doubts, North Vietnam's Communist newspaper warned the United States today not to expect any concessions in return for a total bombing halt."

The paper, Nhan Dan, in a statement 10 hours after the Hanoi announcement, said Johnson's speech Sunday "and the subsequent acts of the U.S. aggressors have made it clear that the U.S. government remains obstinate and has not given up its sinister design of aggression against South Vietnam, which is manifest right in Johnson's 'limited bombing' concerning North Vietnam."

Prior to this statement—which reached Washington only early today—the Washington-Hanoi agreement to talk after years of continuously expanding war was regarded in Washington as a great breakthrough toward eventually ending the conflict.

Consultations Going On

Johnson announced in a brief late-afternoon television-radio appearance Wednesday that "we will establish contact with the representatives of North Vietnam."

"Consultations with the government of South Vietnam and our other allies are now taking place," Johnson added.

A dangerous element, officials said privately, is the possibility of a split between the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments over how far and how fast to go in the search for peace. South Vietnamese leaders, although almost totally dependent on U.S. military and economic support, have sometimes been outspokenly critical of U.S. efforts to find a way to make peace.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu met with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and the envoys of five other allies to discuss Hanoi's offer. The session was preceded by hints in the National Assembly of South Vietnam of dissatisfaction with the turn of events.

Optimistic Reaction

Reaction worldwide to Hanoi's move and Johnson's follow-up also was generally optimistic.

French President Charles de Gaulle, a longtime critic of U.S. foreign policy, described curtailment of American bombing as an apparent "first step in the direction of peace."

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant welcomed North Vietnam's move and offered the facilities of the world body in Geneva for any peace talks.

Homefront optimism was voiced by such war-policy critics as Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., and Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn.

2 Sentenced In Ulster

Two Kingston youths apprehended recently after a high speed chase and held in connection with the theft of a car and a break-in at Fallsburgh Bottling Company were sentenced Wednesday afternoon by Town of Ulster Justice Arthur R. Reilly.

Michael R. Montessi, 17, of Adams Street, faced charges of unauthorized uses of a motor vehicle, criminal trespassing and petit larceny. He was adjudged a youthful offender and placed on probation for one year.

His companion, William Pendell, 20 of Franklin Street, facing the same charges, pleaded guilty and given a suspended sentence of one year in county jail providing he becomes a member of the Job Corps within one week. Pendell's attorney advised the court that the defendant had applied and was accepted in the Job Corps.

Rondout National Set For New Paltz Branch

The Rondout National Bank today received approval from the Comptroller of the Currency to establish a branch bank in New Paltz.

The branch will be in the new Simmons-New Paltz Shopping Plaza, Main Street. The plaza is expected to open this fall and the bank will be in operation at that time.

Irving L. Eyles, executive vice president of the Rondout National Bank, said the newest branch will offer complete banking facilities with drive-in window, large parking area and every type of banking service.

The branch will be the fourth office for the bank which has main offices at 635 Broadway and branches at Bradley Meadows Shopping Center, Woodstock and Route 9W, Port Ewen.

South Vietnam Press More Critical of U.S.

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's press, closely censored and guided by the Saigon government, is showing up these days with more articles critical of America and Americans.

Some anti-American sentiment long has been expressed here. With the escalation of the war and the introduction of more than half a million American military personnel, it is probably not surprising that this should increase. But such expressions now are being brought more into the public record.

Part of the campaign appears to stem from the Communist-directed lunar new year offensive. The shock and surprise of that onslaught resulted in a stirring of sharp criticism on both sides, U.S. and South Vietnamese. Part of it also appears to be a backlash against anti-Vietnam war groups in the United States.

Whatever the reason, the trend of the campaign is being pointed up by a columnist in the Saigon Daily News, one of the country's two English-language newspapers. Both papers are widely read by the American community here.

The column, called "Slices of Life" is written under the pen name Van Minh. He cites a "series of virulent articles" in the Vietnamese-language newspaper Cong Chung. The paper has asserted that the U.S. commitment in South Vietnam is intended to uphold the "interest and prestige of the United States rather than those of the people of Vietnam," Van Minh wrote. He pointed out that the paper's views appeared in a front-page editorial under an eight-column banner and were "lightly censored."

Van Minh himself now is writing a series of columns under the general heading "U.S. Mistakes in Vietnam." The third one appeared Sunday. It was free of any of the white spaces that mark the hand of the government censor. The first two contained some deletions.

Van Minh wrote that "the general feeling among most Americans here is that most Vietnamese are corrupt, undisciplined or irresponsible." He said he agreed that "this society, which includes myself as well, is rotten beyond imagination."

"What I wonder, however, is that whether the Vietnamese hold the monopoly of this rottenness, and whether our American advisers are immune from such undesirable moral deficiencies."

Committee Lifts Veil To Help Consumers

By DICK BARNES

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee trying to help consumers in the marketplace has lifted the veil on some of the product information gathered by the government at taxpayer expense.

If you want to follow government requirements the next time you're shopping for certain items you should, for example:

—Insist on a power lawn mower that will stay upright on a 30-degree slope.

—Make sure the glass portion of a vacuum coffee-maker can be heated to 300 degrees, then plunged into 32-degree ice water without cracking.

—Get a ball point pen cartridge that contains enough ink to write a line 5,000 feet long.

—Measure the handle of your toothbrush to see that it is at least six inches long.

—Check to see if your wax emulsion floor finish for use on light colored floors is one of eight qualified brands.

—Purchase the one qualified brand of transistor battery if you require any of seven particular sizes.

The Committee on Government Operations' special inquiry on consumer representation in the federal government published a sampling of federal specifications and qualified products lists as a followup to hearings on whether the government should make product information available to the public.

The inquiry chairman, Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., contends the public could effectively use some of the testing information the government collects on 1,000 consumer-type products.

Much Money Spent

The General Services Administration alone spends about $750,000 annually on testing such products, testified Heinz A. Abersfeller, commissioner of the Federal Supply Service.

He cautioned about problems he said are involved in translating scientific terminology into material laymen can understand.

I am supposed to have the reservoir of all this knowledge and I haven't been able to find use for it yet as a consumer either, because I can't translate this information into anything meaningful," he testified.

The specifications give characteristics or performance required of a product before the government will buy it. Qualified products lists give brand names of products which have passed government tests and are cleared for government purchase.

Brand names not on a particular list may not have applied for a test because they have no interest in selling to the government. Or, they may have flunked a test.

Rep. John W. Wylder, R-N.Y., expressed concern during the hearings that if qualified products lists were published those firms not interested in government sales would nevertheless have to seek qualification so consumers wouldn't think they had flunked.

The qualifications lists say, "Use of the information for advertising or publicity purposes is expressly forbidden and such use will be grounds for removal of the product so advertised from the list."

Lists Specifications

Specifications published by the committee included requirements for power and hand lawn mowers, coffee makers, electric heaters, ball point pens, toothbrushes, flashlights, detergents and scouring powder.

Qualified products lists include auto seat belt, eight brands of antifreeze, one brand of transistor batteries and nine pages of sound recording tape makers.

Qualifications lists for paint were so detailed that while nine firms qualified to sell lusterless, quick drying, styrenated alkyd type enamel in red, only four passed for the same paint in orange.

The application asked for by the defendants attorney was granted by Judge Raymond J. Babstock, 17 and Thomas R. Mino and the cases placed on the youthful offender calendar. Bail was continued.

The trio was stopped while walking on Route 209 by Ellenville Trooper Oscar Gray and subsequent investigation revealed they were in possession of marijuana, police said.

Assistant District Attorney James H. Fisher appeared for the DA's office.

First Negro Signed To Direct Major Film

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gordon Parks is a professional photographer, author, poet, composer—and the first Negro ever signed to direct a major production for release by a major movie company.

He'll direct the film version of his autobiographical novel "The Learning Tree" around Fort Scott, Kan., next August, for Warner Bros.-7 Arts. Parks already has composed the film's musical theme and will write its musical background.

Grass, Brush Fires Reported

Another rash of grass and brush fires was logged by dispatchers at the Ulster County Fire Control Center on Wednesday. Dutchess County Mutual Aid reported 30 grass fires during the day.

Stone Ridge responded to an alarm yesterday afternoon to quell a grass fire which burned out of control for a while and through mutual aid tankers from High Falls and Marlboro went to the scene to assist in extinguishing the blaze. Centerville reported four grass fires and Modena and Ulster those each checked two grass blazes. Other grass fires were reported in Gardiner, Ellenville, Clintondale, Highland, Cedar Grove, Plattekill, Marlboro, Onteora, Milton and Malden.

Onteora also extinguished a chimney fire yesterday.

fought for," he said of his directorial assignment's significance to Negroes. "It might encourage other black boys to say, 'My God, maybe I can be a director, too.'"

Parks, 55, a medium-sized man with a graying mustache and a born story-teller's natural eloquence, has been a Life magazine photographer-writer for 19 years. His cover piece on a Harlem tenement family was in a recent issue, shortly before a book excerpt, "Vietnam Diary," by his writer-photographer-soldier son David, 24, appeared in Look.

The elder Parks, Minneapolis high school dropout, has composed piano and orchestral works performed in Venice and elsewhere. "I just picked up music like everything else," he says. "I was a natural piano player."

Puffing a pipe, tilting back in a chair in his rooms at the Beverly Hills Hotel, he told of his unlikely beginnings:

—Childhood "on the other side of the tracks" in Fort Scott as the youngest of a dirt farmer's 15 children, 6 of whom survive.

—Strong influence by his mother, Sarah, a religious woman who told him, "You can do anything a white boy does." She advised him to make every experience his "learning tree."

—Boyhood traumas, like seeing two Negro women slash each other to death with knives and being locked by white morticians in a room with a train-mangled corpse.

Still Eyelid Fragment

A youthful enemy's knife-gash left one nostril still closed. In an eyelid Parks still carries a fragment of window glass from a clash with a white boy who

Union Center Group Member Drive

A membership drive is being conducted by the Union Center Civic Group and according to last reports 20 new members had been added.

Mrs. Kathy Berger, membership chairman, reported at the recent meeting that information letters had been sent to all eligible persons in the area.

The civic group is investigating a mosquito control project. Maps will be supplied to an area spray contractor for study and quotation.

Plans for a program on drug addiction were discussed. Other coming events include a penny social and cake sale to be held at the Esopus Town Hall, Port Ewen, May 18, 7 p.m. Proceeds will be donated to the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy building fund.

Donald Dawson, chairman of the board of fire commissioners of the St. Remy Fire District, reported the school house roof is in need of major repairs. Joseph Sills Jr., president of the civic association appointed a committee to study the situation. The schoolhouse serves as meeting place for the civic group. A full report is expected at the next meeting on April 24. Guests at the meeting were George Freer, Town of Esopus supervisor and Roger Mabie, county legislator.

Today is Thursday, April 4. There are 271 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1917, the U.S. Senate approved, by a vote of 82-6, a resolution of war against Germany.

On this date—

In 1841, President William Henry Harrison died of pneumonia at the White House, one month after his inauguration. John Tyler became president.

In 1865, President Lincoln visited the fallen Confederate city of Richmond, Va.

In 1932, Professor C.G. King of the University of Pittsburgh isolated Vitamin C.

In 1933, 73 lives were lost when the U.S. Navy dirigible Akron fell into the Atlantic off New Jersey.

In 1942, Nazi troops were invading Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

In 1949, representatives of 12 nations convened in Washington to sign the North Atlantic Treaty.

Ten years ago — The first chapter of the scholastic fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa, was established at a Negro college, Fisk University in Nashville, Tenn.

Five years ago — A White House advisory commission urged a massive attack on importers and large distributors of illegal drugs.

One year ago — It was disclosed that the 500th U.S. plane had been lost in the bombing of North Vietnam.

Union Center Group Member Drive

A membership drive is being conducted by the Union Center ship chairman, reported at the Civic Group and according to recent meeting that information last reports 20 new members had been added.

Mrs. Kathy Berger, mem- bership chairman, reported at the recent meeting that information last reports 20 new members had been added.

The civic group is investi- gating a mosquito control project. Maps will be supplied to an area spray contractor for study and quotation.

Plans for a program on drug addiction were discussed. Other coming events include a penny social and cake sale to be held at the Esopus Town Hall, Port Ewen, May 18, 7 p.m. Proceeds will be donated to the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy building fund.

Donald Dawson, chairman of the board of fire commissioners of the St. Remy Fire District, reported the school house roof is in need of major repairs.

Joseph Sills Jr., president of the civic association appointed a committee to study the situa- tion. The schoolhouse serves as meeting place for the civic group. A full report is expected at the next meeting on April 24.

Guests at the meeting were George Freer, Town of Esopus supervisor and Roger Mabie, county legislator.

First Negro Signed To Direct Major Film

By GENE HANDSAKER Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gon- don Parks is a professional pho- tographer, author, poet, com- poser—and the first Negro ever signed to direct a major produc- tion for release by a major mov- ie company.

He'll direct the film version of his autobiographical novel "The Learning Tree" around Fort Scott, Kan., next August, for Warner Bros.-7 Arts. Parks al- ready has composed the film's musical theme and will write its musical background.

Tremendous Breakthrough "This is a tremendous break- through, a thing we've always

Parks, 55, a medium-sized man with a graying mustache and a born story-teller's natural eloquence, has been a Life mag- azine photographer-writer for 19 years. His cover piece on a Har- lem tenement family was in a recent issue, shortly before a book excerpt, "Vietnam Diary," by his writer-photographer-sol- dier son David, 24, appeared in Look.

Still Eyelid Fragment A youthful enemy's knife-gash left one nostril still closed. In an eyelid Parks still carries a fragment of window glass from a clash with a white boy who called him "nigger boy."

A bartender-waiter's job en- abled him to buy a $12.50 cam- era. A camera store in Minne- apolis, where he lived briefly with a married sister after his mother died, displayed his first three photos in its window. This led to work as a fashion pho- tographer, photography study on a fellowship, picture-taking for the Office of War Information, the job with Life.

Grass, Brush Fires Reported

Another rash of grass and brush fires was logged by dis- patchers at the Ulster County Fire Control Center on Wednes- day. Dutchess County Mutual Aid reported 30 grass fires dur- ing the day.

Stone Ridge responded to an alarm yesterday afternoon to quell a grass fire which burned out of control for a while and through mutual aid tankers from High Falls and Marble- town went to the scene to as- sist in extinguishing the blaze.

Centerville reported four grass fires and Modena and Ul- ster Hose each checked two grass blazes. Other grass fires were reported in Gardiner, El- lenville, Clintondale, Highland Cedar Grove, Plattkill, Marl- boro, Onteora, Milton and Mal- den.

Onteora also extinguished a chimney fire yesterday.

Patterns Observed In Filing Income Tax

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — If you are like most taxpayers who must send a check along with their returns, you will wait until the very last week before filing. If you have a refund due, you probably have filed already.

This is the traditional pattern observed by the Internal Revenue Service, which gets an avalanche of 20 to 25 per cent of returns in the seven days prior to April 15, most from those who had sought to delay the inevitable.

Individuals who expect a return envelope with good news naturally want to hear it quickly. And, according to IRS records, that good news may be flowing faster and more noticeably than last year.

Fast Computer

"The computer is working faster," said an IRS spokesman the other day, referring to the seven regional data processing centers and the big machine at Martinsburg, W. Va., which is spoken of in awe as the "Big Brain" and deprecatively as "The Monster."

A memorandum to Commissioner Sheldon Cohen from operators of the big computer showed that by mid-March 19,562,000 individual returns had been processed, compared with 14,179,000 a year ago. Good news in itself.

Of more interest and appreciated much more is the fact that by mid-March $3.48 billion had been refunded to taxpayers, a 65 per cent jump over the $2.11 billion returned in the same period a year earlier.

Based on present figures, the IRS estimates that 75 million 1040 and 1040A forms will be filed this year and that 50 million of them will result in refunds totaling $9 billion, $2 billion more than last year.

The problem with computers is people. When people make errors, the computer, contrary to reports about its ruthless efficiency, cannot always detect the inaccuracy. Mistaking error for fact, it often puts in motion events that humans can barely halt.

This, for example, is the sequence of events that followed the transposing of one digit on a Social Security number:

The numerical error caused the estimated tax payments made by Mr. Smith—only the names in this story are fictional—to be applied to the account of Mr. Jones.

Jones was expecting a refund of $215.04. He didn't receive it by last June, so he called up a local office of the IRS.

The answer rocked him. "All refunds of more than $5,000 are delayed," he was told. "I thought it was extremely laughable," Jones said at the time. It became even funnier.

Last November, Jones received a check for $5,813.40. Brief elation turned to frustration, and Jones sent back the check along with a signed statement that he sought only $215.04.

Early this year Jones finally thought he had it straightened out. His refund for the smaller amount came. In fact, 6 per cent interest was added because the government was late in paying.

Shortly thereafter another envelope came from the Treasury. It contained a check for $1,646.90. This too was sent back to the government for the information of its computer, which can add billions of figures in the flash of an eye but cannot always spot an incorrect one.

Secondary Offering Puts A Brake On Price Action

Q—Why has Holiday Inns declined to about 42 since I purchased 100 shares at $2? I'm 38 years old, interested in capital growth. I also own Universal Oil Products at $4. Do you recommend holding both these stocks?—R.O.

A—Yes, indeed. I think that they are both well suited to your objective. As a relatively fast growth issue, Holiday Inns was perhaps more vulnerable to a general market decline. Your shares lost about what the market gave up percentage wise. You must also take into account a rather large secondary offering that was registered with the SEC in February and went on public sale March 15 at $42.375. Until this block is disposed of—on behalf of some management stockholders wanting cash for personal reasons—market action will tend to be sluggish. I understand the offering has gone well.

When the market stabilizes, Holiday Inns should again move up on earnings that are expected to show another sizable gain for fiscal 1968, ending June 30. The best quarters of the year have customarily been those ending in June and September. You have done very well with Universal Oil Products which is about to be split 2-for-1. Shareholders vote on this proposal in May. After the split, a somewhat higher dividend is expected.

Q—I would like to buy Admiral Corp. I never invested in plastic before. Would I be doing wrong?—I.C.

A—Admiral Plastics Corp., now called APL Corp. (American Exchange), is not totally involved in plastics, as this operation represents only one of four main divisions. Activities also include manufacturing and distributing health and beauty aids, some drugs and vitamins. Although long-term earnings growth should develop from APL's many and varied acquisitions—a fair start has already been made—two issues of convertible preferred plus outstanding options and warrants could dilute earnings by approximately 50 per cent. In my judgment your investment funds would be better employed in a growth stock like Talon Corp.

(Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally, but will answer all questions possible in his column.)

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to rise hesitantly early Thursday, but a spurt of heavy trading was soon gone, and it was apparent Wall Street was becoming more cautious about the prospects for eventual peace in Vietnam.

Gains had a 5 to 3 advantage over losses, and the Dow Jones industrial average rose a little more than a point.

Elections and Reports At C-H Annual Meet

Approximately 300 shareholders of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation attended the utility's annual meeting at the General Office in Poughkeepsie Tuesday.

Re-elected directors for a period of one year were: Ernest R. Acker, Poughkeepsie; Ernest E. Althouse, Poughkeepsie; Roy R. Ketcham, Fishkill; Edward J. Mack, Poughkeepsie; Charles D. Raymond Sr., Ellenville; Fabian L. Russell, Saugerties; C. B. Schmidt, Hopewell Junction; Henry D. Sherwood, Pine Plains; H. Peter Stern, Mountville and John Wilkie, Poughkeepsie.

Theodore J. Carlson, Rockville Centre, was elected to the Board of Directors to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Lelan F. Sillin Jr., who is now president of Northeast Utilities.

Of the outstanding shares of common stock eligible to vote, 2,825,322 or about 82.5 per cent were represented in the voting either by proxy or in person. Wilkie, board chairman, presided at the meeting. He introduced Ernest E. Althouse, Central Hudson's new president, and other senior officers. Wilkie also discussed the company's current business operations and reviewed the status of projects to be undertaken in the future. Shareholders viewed a 25-minute color film depicting progress achieved by Central Hudson and Mid-Hudson Valley during the last year.

After the meeting of shareholders, the Central Hudson Board of Directors conducted its annual organization meeting. Wilkie was re-elected board chairman and chief executive officer. Althouse, former senior vice president, was elected president.

Edwin T. Strong was reappointed senior vice president; L. Wallace Cross, Jack A. McEnroe and Charles E. Rider were reappointed vice presidents; and Joseph F. Furlong was appointed secretary and treasurer. Charles A. Bolz Jr. and Henry L. Walker were appointed Vice Presidents.

Treasurer Explains Tax

City Treasurer Stanley J. Petro Jr., today told The Freeman that the one half of one per cent tax reduction on real estate applied only to those persons who paid their total tax by March 26.

Taxes may be paid in two installments, however. The first was due March 26, the second is due May 31. From June 1 to June 20 there will be a two per cent penalty for delinquent tax payers which jumps to five per cent after June 20.

Patterns Observed In Filing Income Tax

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — If you are like most taxpayers who must send a check along with their returns, you will wait until the very last week before filing. If you have a refund due, you probably have filed already.

This is the traditional pattern observed by the Internal Revenue Service, which gets an avalanche of 20 to 25 per cent of returns in the seven days prior to April 15, most from those who had sought to delay the inevitable.

Individuals who expect a return envelope with good news naturally want to hear it quickly. And, according to IRS records, that good news may be flowing faster and more nourishingly than last year.

Fast Computer
"The computer is working faster," said an IRS spokesman the other day, referring to the seven regional data processing centers and the big machine at Martinsburg, W. Va., which is spoken of in awe as the "Big Brain" and deprecatively as "The Monster."

A memorandum to Commissioner Sheldon Cohen from operators of the big computer showed that by mid-March 19,562,000 individual returns had been processed, compared with 14,179,000 a year ago. Good news in itself.

Of more interest and appreciated much more is the fact that by mid-March $3.48 billion had been refunded to taxpayers, a 65 per cent jump over the $2.11 billion returned in the same period a year earlier.

Based on present figures, the IRS estimates that 75 million 1040 and 1040A forms will be filed this year and that 50 million of them will result in refunds totaling $9 billion, $2 billion more than last year.

The problem with computers is people. When people make errors, the computer, contrary to reports about its ruthless efficiency, cannot always detect the inaccuracy. Mistaking error for fact, it often puts in motion events that humans can barely handle.

This, for example, is the sequence of events that followed the transposing of one digit on a Social Security number:

The numerical error caused the estimated tax payments made by Mr. Smith—only the names in this story are fictional—to be applied to the account of Mr. Jones.

Jones was expecting a refund of $215.04. He didn't receive it by last June, so he called up a local office of the IRS.

The answer rocked him. "All refunds of more than $5,000 are delayed," he was told. "I thought it was extremely laughable," Jones said at the time. It became even funnier.

Last November Jones received a check for $5,813.40. Brief elation turned to frustration, and Jones sent back the check along with a signed statement that he sought only $215.04.

Early this year Jones finally thought he had it straightened out. His refund for the smaller amount came. In fact, 6 per cent interest was added because the government was late in paying.

Shortly thereafter another envelope came from the Treasury. It contained a check for $1,646.90. This too was sent back to the government for the information of its computer, which can add billions of figures in the flash of an eye but cannot always spot an incorrect one.

Secondary Offering Puts A Brake On Price Action

Q—Why has Holiday Inns declined to about 42 since I purchased 100 share at 52? I'm 38 years old, interested in capital growth. I also own Universal Oil Products at 54. Do you recommend holding both these stocks?—R.O.

A—Yes, indeed. I think that they are both well suited to your objective. As a relatively fast growth issue, Holiday Inns was perhaps more vulnerable to a general market decline. Your shares lost about what the market gave up percentage wise. You must also take into account a rather large secondary offering that was registered with the SEC in February and went on public sale March 15 at $42.375. Until this block is disposed of on behalf of some management stockholders wanting cash for personal reasons—market action will tend to be sluggish. I understand the offering has gone well.

When the market stabilizes, Holiday Inns should again move up on earnings that are expected to show another sizable gain for fiscal 1968, ending June 30. The best quarters of the year have customarily been those ending in June and September. You have done very well with Universal Oil Products which is about to be split 2-for-1. Shareholders vote on this proposal in May. After the split, a somewhat higher dividend is expected.

Q—I would like to buy Admiral Corp. I never invested in plastic before. Would I be doing wrong?—I.C.

A—Admiral Plastics Corp., now called APL Corp. (American Exchange), is not totally involved in plastics, as this opera-

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to rise hesitantly early Thursday, but a spurt of heavy trading was soon gone, and it was apparent Wall Street was becoming more cautious about the prospects for eventual peace in Vietnam.

Gains had a 5 to 3 advantage over losses, and the Dow Jones industrial average rose a little more than a point.

Rochester Gives Merchants Chance to Buy in Ghetto Area

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Negro or Puerto Rican who wants to establish a new business faces hard times because of a lack of capital, high insurance rates and general apathy from the white commercial community.

For these reasons, the Rochester Business Opportunities Corp. (RBOC) was founded, with the intention of giving core area merchants a chance to operate businesses other than liquor stores and small shops.

John L. Blake, 46, Negro general manager of the RBOC, explains that the idea for the corporation grew from a plan submitted by Eastman Kodak Co. last November.

"Kodak offered to buy certain products from businesses in the Ghetto area," Blake says. "Things like wood products, molded plastics and microfilming services. Very quickly, other Rochester firms became interested, and the plan was expanded into RBOC."

Many Requests

The RBOC no sooner opened its doors in December than 20 requests for assistance came from inner-city businessmen.

Some requests can be handled quickly and at little cost. A grocer wants marketing advice for his corner shop. The RBOC produces an executive from a giant supermarket chain who helps the Negro businessman improve his sales techniques.

A gas station owner is having trouble keeping his books straight. The RBOC provides a certified public accountant who straightens up the books and teaches the owner basic accounting procedures.

Other requests are more complex. A Negro brought in a plan for a small manufacturing plant. His idea was good, and he had the ability to turn the plant into a prosperous addition to the area.

All he lacked was $500,000 to get started. The RBOC put technical representatives, architects, bankers and sales experts on the job.

Within a few weeks the prospective manufacturer possessed detailed plans and marketing analyses. These, and an RBOC recommendation, got him a bank loan. He now is taking construction bids and soon will head a small business that Blake feels will grow into a center employing many area residents.

"That's what we're looking for," Blake says. "A new business should do more than hire a few people now."

"It should show a good growth potential, show promise of eventually hiring workers, and provide something that can be sold to outside markets as the business expands."

To insure that such a business gets a fair start, the RBOC will guarantee payment of a bank loan. It also looks for monetary sources such as the small business administration and private investors.

Most of the manufactured items are produced for large Rochester businesses. However, the RBOC looks for outside markets, such as government contracts, for business expansion.

Heads Trustees

Blake took a leave of absence from the Ritter Pfaudler Corp. to head the RBOC's 28-man board of trustees. He serves as training coordinator for Ritter Pfaudler and formerly taught business administration in a local high school.

Nineteen of the trustees are whites from such nationally known companies as Kodak, Xerox Corp., Marine Midland Trust Co. and Gioia Macaroni Co. The other trustees are eight Negroes and one Puerto Rican who run core-area businesses.

Blake is confident that the RBOC will pump new financial blood into the ghetto's commercial arteries. From this expanded business activity will come improved social and cultural opportunities, he says.

So far, he has experienced no resentment from other groups working for Negro advancement. Nor does he expect any.

Professional Day At UCCC Friday

Dr. Dorothy M. Knoell, coordinator of the Urban Community College Project of the American Association of Junior Colleges, is scheduled to speak Friday at a Professional Day for faculty members at Ulster County Community College.

The topic of her talk, scheduled for 10 a. m. in the Teaching Auditorium of the John Burroughs Science Building on the Stone Ridge campus, will be Making the Community College Work for the Disadvantaged: Outreach, Involvement and Educational Service.

As coordinator of the Urban Community College Project, Dr. Knoell works to monitor and evaluate Office of Economic Opportunity funded demonstration programs of education of disadvantaged adults through community colleges in four urban areas.

She is working to expand the project by obtaining funds through OEO, other government agencies, or foundations for additional programs and further research and is trying to demonstrate the capabilities of community colleges in "reaching-out" to the urban poor.

From 1965 to 1967, Dr. Knoell had a special research appointment in the Office of the Executive Dean for Two-Year Colleges in the State University of New York.

In that position, she conducted a 10-month study of unmet needs of New York State for education beyond the high school with focus on disadvantaged youth in urban areas and worked to help create guidelines for the establishment and implementation of resultant urban centers.

From 1961 to 1965, Dr. Knoell was an associate research paychologist at the Center for the Study of Higher Education at the University of California at Berkeley. There she had major responsibility for two consecutive Office of Education-funded studies of transfer students and was a consultant to the consequent implementation project funded by the Esso Education Foundation.

Dr. Knoell has written several publications including "Toward Educational Opportunity for All," published by the State University of New York, and "From Junior to Senior College: A National Study of the Transfer Student," published by the American Council on Education.

She has a E.A. Degree from Douglass College (Rutgers University), an M.A. Degree from the University of Connecticut, and a Ph.D. Degree from the University of Chicago.

Construction Strike Still On

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A strike by more than 2,000 construction laborers headed into its fourth day today as work remained halted on more than $304 million in construction projects in upstate New York.

The laborers, members of 19 union locals, struck 62 projects of the Associated General Contractors of America Sunday at midnight. The workers have been without a contract since Dec. 31.

Spokesman for both sides said the only remaining issue in the dispute was wages.

Projects that were brought to a standstill included work on $102 million in construction in an eight-county area north of Albany, and projects valued at $35.1 million in Utica, $70 million in Syracuse, $27.7 million in Rochester, $4.2 million in Buffalo, $23 million in Hornell and $42.3 million in Binghamton.

Houle Replaces Burgher as Ulster Official

Town of Ulster Democratic Chairman Bruce Burgher has resigned from his post and the organization elected Walter D. Houle to take over the slot. Burgher explained that he had taken the chairmanship post to "revitalize and reorganize" the Democrats in the township and that he felt he had accomplished his task.

Burgher predicted further gains in the Democratic Party in Ulster and "the end of one-party town government."

A resolution was unanimously passed praising Burgher for his contribution. Upon his election, Houle pledged "continued constructive criticism of the Republican controlled town board and a return to true democracy in the Town of Ulster."

Mino Reserves Decision, Other County Court Cases

Decection was reserved on a motion to dismiss the charges against Ernest Peterson, 50, of this city when he appeared in trial term of county court Wednesday.

William Pretsch, assigned as counsel asked dismissal on the grounds that the time of the incident was not in the indictment was not in the indictment and that the property that was damaged under the charges of criminal mischief, second degree were the property of the defendant.

Peterson had pleaded innocent to the charges and County Judge Raymond J. Mino reserved decision until Friday, April 5 at 10 a. m. He was remanded to county jail.

Threat Is Bared

Peterson was accused by authorities of smashing his way into the home of his estranged wife and virtually wrecking the furniture early in January. Peterson's wife, Dorothy, called the sheriff's office and reported her husband had broken through the rear door and threatened her with bodily harm.

The case of Ignazio M. Borsina Jr., 16, of Highland was adjourned to April 17 at 11 a. m. following arraignment. He is in the custody of his parents. Borsina is charged in the indictment with burglary, third degree, four counts; criminal trespass, second, three counts and criminal mischief, third, three counts. Police charged Borsina with burglary on three separate occasions of Highland High School in January and February. Authorities said he gained entry by breaking a door window and he was reportedly caught in the act by Town of Lloyd Constable Allen Phillips. Police reported desks were ransacked and $3.10 in cash taken.

Other Cases

The case of Edward J. Dickey, 22, of Hunter Street, city, charged in connection with a

In one week, he called an ABA game in Indianapolis Monday night, a college game in Memphis Tuesday night, ABA games in Denver Wednesday and Pittsburgh Thursday, and then a college game back in Memphis on Friday.

Is F111 Ready for the Junkyard?

By GAYLORD SHAW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan says he'll hold a new round of hearings on the problem-plagued, multi-billion-dollar F111 war plane grounded by the Air Force and well on its way toward being junked as a Navy weapon.

The promise of more public hearings before the Senate investigations subcommittee headed by the Arkansas Democrat—who characterized the F111 program as a "tragic blunder"—closely followed these developments:

—Two of the first six Air Force F111As sent to Southeast Asia for combat duty were lost within a week after entering the Vietnam war, perhaps handing the Communists the fruits of U.S. research that alone cost $1 billion.

—The Senate Armed Services Committee voted to junk the Navy's F111B program on which $400 million reportedly has been spent. It approved instead $287 million to start work on a substitute plane.

If Congress goes along as expected, the action means that the F111—originally known as the TFX—will become exclusively an Air Force fighter-bomber and not the joint Air Force-Navy plane that Robert S. McNamara ordered and insisted upon throughout his tenure as Secretary of Defense.

No Cost Estimate

There is no independent estimate of how much cancellation of the Navy's F111B program would cost because the Pentagon has refused to provide cost figures on the overall F111 project.

However, McClellan said in an interview that estimated costs have tripled in the past five years, and now stand at more than $12 billion.

McClellan would not say when his new hearings would start, although he said they were planned before—and would not be limited to—loss of the two Air Force F111As. But the ranking Republican member of the subcommittee, Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota, has made it plain that he questions the wisdom of the decision to deploy the planes in combat.

Six of the 1,500 mile-an-hour jets reached Thailand March 17 in a secrecy-cloaked operation with the code name of "Harvest Reaper." On March 26 the planes began flying combat missions.

Four days later one of the jets vanished. North Vietnam claimed it was shot down. U.S. officials have said only that the plane and its two crewmen are missing.

Then, last Sunday, the Air Force announced that a second F111A had crashed "after an in-flight emergency." Both crewmen were rescued. The four remaining F111As were grounded as the Pentagon dispatched a special investigating team to Thailand.

In a preview of what can be expected at the new hearings, Mundt charged that the normal Air Force test program was not completed before the six jets were sent into combat.

Serious Faults

During stateside tests last January pilots discovered "serious faults" in the F111A, Mundt said, "yet only two months later the airplanes were sent to Vietnam with these faults unremedied."

Mundt also said current plans call for 160 F111As to be built before all planned modifications are incorporated, and urged that production be halted.

"If this drastic step is not taken," Mundt said, "then we will truly be committing another billion dollar blunder in this TFX program which already has cost the American taxpayer many, many fruitless billions of dollars."

Mundt called for renewal of the subcommittee's hearings. Asked about this, McClellan said: "That will be done in due course but I won't say just when." He said subcommittee investigators have continued the inquiry while hearings were in recess.

McClellan charged that McNamara made a "tragic blunder" by attempting to force upon the services "a weapon so useless it would impel the lives of the pilots and the security of the country."

Since McNamara left the Pentagon Feb. 29 there have been indications that McClellan would soon end his often stormy five-year inquiry.

The 72-year-old senator has told friends he believes he was vindicated when the Armed Services Committee voted 11 to 2 to deny the Navy's request for $588 million for the F111B.

Four major manufacturers—McDonnell Douglas Corp., Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., Ling-Temco-Vought Inc., and North American Aviation Inc.—already have submitted designs for the substitute, General Dynamics Corp., which holds the prime F111 contract, has not.

Shortly after McNamara awarded a contract to General Dynamics in 1962 to develop a multiservice plane, McClellan began his investigation. At first the senator concentrated on why McNamara overruled the recommendation of Defense Department experts that the contract go to Boeing Co. In the ensuing years, the probe has centered on problems encountered in development of the F111.

Cost has been one of the big headaches. At first the Pentagon estimated it would cost $6 billion to produce 1,700 planes. This included $711 million for research, McClellan now gives these figures: More than $12 billion to build 1,300 planes. The Senator says this includes $2 billion for research, half of which has been spent.

On a per plane basis, costs have risen from $2.8 million each to $6 million for the Air Force version and $8 million for the Navy one. By comparison, F4 Phantom jets cost $2.5 million each.

Weight of the F111B was another persistent problem. Last fall, the Navy craft was eight tons overweight when fully loaded, making it unsuitable for use on carriers, impairing its range and giving it less time over targets.

While weight was not as important in the Air Force version, critics said the F111A still had performance problems when it was sent to Southeast Asia.

"Both the Air Force plan and the Navy plane have been crucified on the cross of commonality," McClellan said. "The plane has been engineered at the desk of the secretary of defense and not at the workshop of the qualified engineers and technical experts."

Mino Reserves Decision, Other County Court Cases

Decision was reserved on a motion to dismiss the charges against Ernest Peterson, 50, of this city when he appeared in trial term of county court Wednesday.

William Pertsch, assigned as counsel asked dismissal on the grounds that the time of the incident was not in the indictment and that the property that was damaged under the charges of criminal mischief, second degree were the property of the defendant.

Peterson had pleaded innocent to the charges and County Judge Raymond J. Mino reserved decision until Friday, April 5 at 10 a. m. He was remanded to county jail.

Threat Is Bared

Peterson was accused by authorities of smashing his way into the home of his estranged wife and virtually wrecking the furniture early in January. Peterson's wife, Dorothy, called the sheriff's office and reported her husband had broken through the rear door and threatened her with bodily harm.

The case of Ignazio M. Borsina Jr., 16, of Highland was adjourned to April 17 at 11 a. m. following arraignment. He is in the custody of his parents. Borsina is charged in the indictment with burglary, third degree, four counts; criminal trespass, second, three counts and criminal mischief, third, three counts. Police charged Borsina with burglary on three separate occasions of Highland High School in January and February. Authorities said he gained entry by breaking a door window and he was reportedly caught in the act by Town of Lloyd Constable Allen Phillips.

Police reported desks were ransacked and $3.10 in cash taken.

Other Cases
The case of Edward J. Dickey, 22, of Hunter Street, city, charged in connection with a burglary Feb. 1 at Chic's Rendezvous restaurant at 765 Broadway, was adjourned to April 17 at 11 a. m. He pleaded innocent at arraignment before Judge Mino.

The case of Ramon Rodriguez, 38, of Ellenville, charged with assault Jan 14 as an aftermath of a stabbing incident at Gene's Bar and Grill, Ellenville, was adjourned to April 17 at 11 a. m. for motions in accordance with a request by his attorney Murray Gaiman. The victim of the stabbing was Alberta Smith of Ellenville who suffered chest wounds.

Three cases were marked for the ready calendar and four bench warrants issued for defendants that failed to appear in court.

Assistant District Attorney James H. Fisher represented the DA's office.

Faster Than Players
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Ott Anderson has really been getting around.

Anderson officiated at games in the American Basketball Association and also for local college basketball games. In one week, he called an ABA game in Indianapolis Monday night, a college game in Memphis Tuesday night, ABA games in Wednesday and Pittsburgh Thursday, and then a college game back in Memphis on Friday.

"I've already been to the West Coast three times, the East Coast twice, and all in between," he said.

Is F111 Ready for the Junkyard?

BY GAYLORD SHAW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan says he'll hold a new round of hearings on the problem-plagued, multi-billion-dollar F111 war plane grounded by the Air Force as well on its way toward being junked as a Navy weapon.

The promise of more public hearings before the Senate investigations subcommittee headed by the Arkansas Democrat—who characterized the F111 program as a "tragic blunder"—closely followed these developments.

Two of the first six Air Force F111As sent to Southeast Asia for combat duty were lost within a week after entering the Vietnam war, perhaps handing the Communists the fruits of U.S. research that alone cost $1 billion.

The Senate Armed Services Committee voted to junk the Navy's F111B program on which $400 million reportedly has been spent. It approved instead $287 million to start work on a substitute plane.

If Congress goes along as expected, the action means that the F111—originally known as the TFX—will become exclusively an Air Force fighter-bomber and not the joint Air Force-Navy plane that Robert S. McNamara ordered and insisted upon throughout his tenure as Secretary of Defense.

No Cost Estimate
There is no independent estimate of how much cancellation of the Navy's F111B program would cost because the Pentagon has refused to provide cost figures on the overall F111 project.

However, McClellan said in an interview that estimated costs have tripled in the past five years, and now stand at more than $12 billion.

McClellan would not say when his new hearings would start, although he said they were planned before—and would not be limited to—loss of the two Air Force F111As. But the ranking Republican member of the subcommittee, Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota, has made it plain that he questions the wisdom of the decision to deploy the planes in combat.

Six of the 1,500 mile-an-hour jets reached Thailand March 17 in a secrecy-cloaked operation with the code name of "Harvest Reaper." On March 26 the planes began flying combat missions.

Four days later one of the jets vanished. North Vietnam claimed it was shot down. U.S. officials have said only that the plane and its two crewmen are missing.

Then, last Sunday, the Air Force announced that a second F111A had crashed "after an in-flight emergency." Both crewmen were rescued. The four remaining F111As were grounded as the Pentagon dispatched a special investigating team to Thailand.

In a preview of what can be expected at the new hearings, Mundt charged that the normal Air Force test program was not completed before the six jets were sent into combat.

Serious Faults
During stateside tests last January pilots discovered "serious faults" in the F111A, Mundt said. "Yet only two months later the airplanes were sent to Vietnam with these faults unremedied."

Mundt also said current plans call for 160 F111As to be built before all planned modifications are incorporated, and urged that production be halted.

"If this drastic step is not taken," Mundt said, "then we will truly be committing another billion dollar blunder in this TFX program which already has cost the American taxpayer many, many fruitless billions of dollars."

Mundt called for renewal of the subcommittee's hearings. Asked about this, McClellan said: "That will be done in due course but I won't say just when." He said subcommittee investigators have continued the inquiry while hearings were in recess.

McClellan charged that McNamara made a "tragic blunder" by attempting to force upon the services "a weapon so useless it would impell the lives of the pilots and the security of the country."

Since McNamara left the Pentagon Feb. 29 there have been indications that McClellan would soon end his often stormy five-year inquiry.

The 72-year-old senator has told friends he believes he was vindicated when the Armed Services Committee voted 11 to 2 to deny the Navy's request for $588 million for the F111B.

Four major manufacturers—McDonnell Douglas Corp., Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., Ling-Temco-Vought Inc., and North American Aviation Inc.—already have submitted designs for the substitute, General Dynamics Corp., which holds the prime F111 contract, has not.

Shortly after McNamara awarded a contract to General Dynamics in 1962 to develop a multiservice plane, McClellan began his investigation. ## After Eight Years of Embargo

Cuban Consumers Yearn for Finer Things to Fill Bare Shops

BY CHARLES GREEN

HAVANA (AP) —Two young women, in their mid-teens when Prime Minister Fidel Castro came to power nine years ago, were talking during a birthday party. What would they do first if by some strange stroke Cuba suddenly had everything it needs and wants?

One decided she would buy every brand of shampoo on the market and wash her hair repeatedly until she had tried them all, meanwhile eating chocolate candy until she was sick. The other would enter the largest dress shop she could find and try on everything in the store before making a purchase.

Their conversation was one manifestation of the trade embargo the United States imposed almost seven years ago to make life as difficult as possible for Castro's Communist government. The embargo was announced April 25, 1961—eight days after the unsuccessful Bay of Pigs invasion and the day after President John F. Kennedy accepted full responsibility for that exile attack.

The United States government forbade American trade with Cuba and threatened to cut off from the U.S. market any foreign firm doing business with Castro. This embargo is often called a blockade but that word implies a ring of war ships around the island to stop trade. No such ring exists.

"I didn't think too much of the embargo's success when I arrived 18 months ago," a European diplomat says. "Now I have seen more and I think the embargo is successful."

Other foreign observers agree and Castro's repeated attacks on the embargo back them up.

To the government, lack of feminine finery is one of the smaller problems. Larger worries are caused by critical shortages of spare parts for American-made vehicles, machinery, communications equipment, appliances and—most important—sugar mill equipment.

Castro set out to sever all economic ties with the "Yankee Imperialists" in a country whose economy was tightly hitched to that of the United States before his revolution succeeded in 1959. He has, partly with the help of the embargo, succeeded. But he has failed so far in his drive to make Cuba economically independent. Dependence has only switched from the United States to the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe.

It is difficult to say how much of the domestic shortages can be traced to the embargo and how much to Cuba's need for exports to balance her trade deficit. But almost everything from meat to toilet paper is rationed and the embargo serves as a handy whipping boy in government explanations.

To the average Cuban, be he militant Communist or on the list for a refugee flight, the embargo is a nuisance. What is closest to him is the shortage of consumer goods, of spare parts for his old American car, of medicine for his children, of new tubes for his television set.

Old Havana used to be the big shopping area here. Windows are almost bare there now. A men's shop may display one pair of pants, a shirt, a pair of shoes. Women wear mended hose or seamed hose from Eastern Europe. A pair of seamless nylons from Canada costs $12, if they can be found.

After Eight Years of Embargo

By CHARLES GREEN

HAVANA (AP) —Two young women, in their mid-teens when Prime Minister Fidel Castro came to power nine years ago, were talking during a birthday party. What would they do first if by some strange stroke Cuba suddenly had everything it needs and wants?

One decided she would buy every brand of shampoo on the market and wash her hair repeatedly until she had tried them all, meanwhile eating chocolate candy until she was sick. The other would enter the largest dress shop she could find and try on everything in the store before making a purchase.

Their conversation was one manifestation of the trade embargo the United States imposed almost seven years ago to make life as difficult as possible for Castro's Communist government. The embargo was announced April 25, 1961—eight days after the unsuccessful Bay of Pigs invasion and the day after President John F. Kennedy accepted full responsibility for that exile attack.

The United States government forbade American trade with Cuba and threatened to cut off from the U.S. market any foreign firm doing business with Castro. This embargo is often called a blockade but that word implies a ring of war ships around the island to stop trade. No such ring exists.

"I didn't think too much of the embargo's success when I arrived 18 months ago," a European diplomat says. "Now I have seen more and I think the embargo is successful."

Other foreign observers agree and Castro's repeated attacks on the embargo back them up.

To the government, lack of feminine finery is one of the smaller problems. Larger worries are caused by critical shortages of spare parts for American-made vehicles, machinery, communications equipment, appliances and—most important—sugar mill equipment.

Castro set out to sever all economic ties with the 'Yankee Imperialists' in a country whose economy was tightly hitched to that of the United States before his revolution succeeded in 1959. He has, partly with the help of the embargo, succeeded. But he has failed so far in his drive to make Cuba economically independent. Dependence has only switched from the United States to the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe.

It is difficult to say how much of the domestic shortages can be traced to the embargo and how much to Cuba's need for exports to balance her trade deficit. But almost everything from meat to toilet paper is rationed and the embargo serves as a handy whipping boy in government explanations.

To the average Cuban, be he militant Communist or on the list for a refugee flight, the embargo is a nuisance. What is closest to him is the shortage of consumer goods, of spare parts for his old American car, of medicine for his children, of new tubes for his television set.

Old Havana used to be the big shopping area here. Windows are almost bare there now. A men's shop may display one pair of pants, a shirt, a pair of shoes. Women wear mended hose or seamed hose from Eastern Europe. A pair of seamless nylons from Canada costs $12, if they can be found.

Suggest Off-Limits Order to Cut Traffic Congestion

BY JACK MILLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials are saying privately they believe the nation's largest cities soon will have to place harsh restrictions on when and where people can drive.

Some officials suggest that entire sections of central cities will have to be placed off limits to motor vehicles. The reason: traffic congestion is threatening to choke the remaining life out of the already sick cities.

Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd put it this way in an interview:

"There isn't enough money in the United States (to build a street and highway system) to allow everybody to go everywhere they want to at any time of the day" in and around the big urban areas.

Secretary Robert C. Weaver of the Department of Housing and Urban Development—HUD—points out, however, that to question the freedom of every American to drive anywhere he wants "is politically dangerous, since each car owner—and they are legion—has already decided the answer."

But many officials questioned in a series of interviews said they believe the issue will have to be faced. And soon.

For despite new efforts by government and industry, they say, the gloomy prognosis is this: urban traffic congestion will get even worse for at least the next several years.

The government, which helped bring the country to its present heavy reliance on automobiles through the federal aid highway program, now is trying to reverse the trend. It has been pouring money into existing transit systems to improve and modernize them. And it has begun cranking up a research program to find new ways of moving people and goods around urban areas.

The aim is to develop and revive public transportation—mainly buses and trains as a greater alternative to travel by car.

Boyd, whose agency is the first ever to be given overall responsibility for the transportation needs of the country, has suggested a number of changes the cities might make to relieve the horrors of congestion. One is that each city or urban area regulate that parking rates be set to go up rather than down for each additional hour.

Boyd stresses that his department has no intention of dictating solutions. For the next few years, he says, "We'll be trying to find out what kind of a system of transportation people want."

The Alternatives

But much of the hope for relieving urban congestion has come to rest with alternatives to the motorcar. Of those that are known, the most discussed is rail rapid transit: subway, elevated or ground-level.

Department of Transportation officials maintain that rail transit has been oversold, however. They point out that only about 1% of the nation's largest cities have the population density to make such a fixed-route system feasible. And six already have it in some form. They are New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland and Newark, N.J.

But officials of HUD, which administers a new program of aid for urban mass transit, argue that more and better rail systems will go far to alleviate congestion where it is worst—in the largest cities.

Charles M. Haar, HUD's assistant secretary for metropolitan development, contends that "rail systems have been under-sold, if anything. The 14 or 15 cities we're talking about make up something like 30 per cent of the population of the country."

Whatever the solutions, federal officials believe development of new and better means of transportation is critical to revival of the decaying cities. And they are deeply aware that they are in a race with the continuing flood of people to urban areas.

House, Senate Pass Codes of Ethics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the House and Senate now have official codes of ethics aimed at curbing conflict of interest by requiring Congress members to make public some information on their outside financial dealings.

The House adopted its code Wednesday on a 405 to 1 vote. The lone dissenter, Rep. Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., said the code's financial-disclosure provision "proves nothing and is of no value to the voter" in judging whether his congressman is honest.

The Senate adopted its code March 22 on a 67 to 1 vote. The lone dissenter, Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., called it a fraud on the public, too weak to mean anything.

Carson Anniversary

TAOS, N.M. (AP) — Taos residents are seeking a way to honor one of the town's most famous citizens, Kit Carson, on the 100th anniversary of his death this May 23.

Since 1959, the 150th anniversary of the frontiersman's birth, Taos has sought a commemorative postage stamp in Carson's honor. But they have had no luck so far.

Jack Boyer, manager of the Kit Carson museum, said many of Carson's descendants live in the area. The pioneer trapper and guide is buried near his Taos home.

The two codes differ substantially in their public-disclosure requirements.

Both codes stemmed from the clamor last year following the censure of Senator Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., and exclusion of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., from the seat to which he had been elected.

Major provisions of both codes deal with financial disclosure and with use of funds received from testimonial dinners.

These are the main differences: Financial Disclosure—The House requires public disclosure of the names of companies doing business with the government from which the member had an interest in excess of $5,000 or income over $1,000.

House members also would have to publicly name professional groups, such as law firms, from which they received more than $1,000 a year and the sources of any other outside income in excess of $5,000.

A second report by House members would list the amounts of the outside income or interest. It would be sealed and opened only in an ethics committee probe.

The Senate report would list with the comptroller general all financial interests and income. It would be kept confidential and could be opened only by the Senate ethics committee.

Senators would have to file for public scrutiny an accounting of all contributions and fees in excess of $300.

Both House and Senate reports would be annual.

Testimonial dinners — House members would consider as campaign contributions all proceeds from testimonial dinners unless otherwise specified in advance by the sponsors. These funds would have to be kept separate from personal funds and could not be used for other than campaign purposes.

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are held at Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Congregation, at 100 Lucas Avenue, every Friday 8 p.m., Saturday 9:30 a.m. and 6:15 p.m., Sunday at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m., and every weekday at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Junior congregation conducts services every Saturday 11 a.m. for all boys and girls in the children's chapel.

This Friday 8 p.m., the theme of the service will be the preparation of the Passover. Rabbi Harry Z. Schechter will speak on the Laws of Passover and their Significance. Cantor L. Larry Jacobs will chant the liturgy. The names of the Yuhrtzeiten of the week will be mentioned and the Mourner's Kaddish will be recited.

The Passover holiday will fall this year on Friday evening, April 12, and preparations are now being made for the observance of the Passover Seder and the rituals, Sunday, a Model Seder will be held for and by the children of the Talmud Torah at 10:30 a.m., in the social hall of the Congregation Agudas Achim. The Passover home service will be explained and the rituals will be performed. All children may attend to partake of the Passover foods. Parents are invited so they may observe the performance of the Seder.

The USY, the youth group of the congregation, will meet Sunday 7 p.m. in the youth lounge for a regular meeting and social program.

Wednesday evening, April 10, the Sisterhood of Ahavath Israel will partake in the tri-Sisterhood meeting to be held this year in the building of the Agudas Achim Congregation.

The Talmud Torah of Kingston will meet for Hebrew and Religious instruction at the regular schedule. The Post Bar-Mitzvah class will meet on Tuesday 3:45 p.m.

Boys' Best Friend

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Ken Humphries, scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 343, wondered why so many boys were making record time over a hiking trail where they were supposed to use compasses to find their way. He checked and found that a stray dog was leading the boys in return for a handout from their lunch bags.

Church Choirs Combine For Palm Sunday Cantata

The choirs of the Reformed Church of Saugerties and the Fair Street Reformed Church will present the cantata entitled, "The Cross of Christ by Donald R. Romme, Palm Sunday, April 7, in the Saugerties Church at 7:30 p.m. The cantata, written by the former minister of music at the Old Dutch Church of Kingston, presents in music the events of the last week of the life of Christ. The cantata is directed by Percy W. Gazlay II, minister of music at the Fair Street Reformed Church. Pianist for the evening will be Howard D. Houghtaling, minister of music at the Reformed Church of Saugerties. Mrs. William E. Ryland will play the organ accompaniment. Tympanist will be Miss Martha Eddy.

Women Postpone April Meeting

Lutheran Church Women of Atonement will meet Thursday, April 18 at 8 p.m., on week later than usual due to Holy Week. Members are asked to bring items for Wassaie School for Retarded.

Plans for the Mother and Daughter Dinner to be held on Thursday, May 16 at Elmer's in Ruby, will be discussed. Arrangements will be made for representation of the Atonement Group at the Hudson District Lutheran Church Women Assembly to be held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Red Hook, April 24 at 10 a.m.

Lutheran World Relief annual appeal will continue from the present through May. Especially needed are blankets, and sturdy warm children garments, layettes and infant wear. It is suggested that woolen garments may be cut in large rectangular pieces and sewed together to make quilts, cotton and light materials from women's garments may be used as liners. It is suggested that men's and women's clothing be given to local agencies equipped to distribute it among the needy.

A work day for the entire congregation is planned for Saturday, April 27, according to Robert Brandt, chairman of the property committee. On the agenda is a spring cleanup and disposal of all accumulated junk, painting of some furniture and portions of the buildings, cleaning of leaders and the church grounds.

Barthel Reports On President's Conference

George Barthel of Wawarsing, a member of the National Advisory Committee on rural area development, was the guest speaker at the March meeting of the Saugerties Democratic Club meeting.

Barthel had just returned from Washington where he attended the President's conference on farm programs and rural life. Speaking about the President, he said, "The President looked very tired." He talked about the President and the committee's concern regarding the continued migration of people from rural areas to urban areas.

"In order to help the urban ghettos this trend must be stopped or reversed," said Barthel. "We have to develop the rural atmosphere to attract industry by training people and upgrading the rural areas total services (education, water, sewage and recreation)."

Barthel discussed Community Action in Ulster County from its inception to the present time. He stressed that the most difficult task was, and is, to get the poor involved enough to actively participate. He feels that it is most important to have the cooperation of all the people in the community since administration funds are very limited. Projects involved are: Headstart, Neighborhood service center, Youth Corps, Job Corps, Surplus Food distribution, Senior Citizens, Migrant labor program, reference from the neighborhood service center to Health, Welfare, Medicaid, Housing and job development and placement.

A question and answer period followed. During the business meeting Walter Nichols reported on the upcoming dinner-dance to be held April 27 at the Flamingo. He advises anyone wishing to buy tickets to contact Paul Brazier.

The president, Robert Gardner stated the next meeting will be April 24, the place to be announced at a later date. All Saugerties Democrats are welcome.

Included in the selections of the cantata will be the biblical scenes presented through soloists and chorus of the Trial of Jesus before Pilate. The sayings from the Cross are presented throughout the course of the cantata.

The soloists for the evening will include Betty Lindsay, soprano, Geraldine Nathan, alto and Roy Donaldson, Harrie Thompson, Clifford Van Elten, Nelson Burhans, and John Rich, bass.

Officiating at the service will be the minister of the Reformed Church of Saugerties, the Rev. Orville Jay Hine. The community is cordially invited to attend.

Get Acquainted Coffee Hour At St. Mary's

A get acquainted coffee hour in St. Mary of the Snow school cafeteria will be held Palm Sunday from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

For the convenience of parents of small children, the nursery, usually in effect during the 10 a.m. Mass, will remain open until the end of the coffee hour.

Several parishioners will be on hand to greet the newcomers, as well as established church members.

A first for St. Mary's, the committee invite all to make the event a success. Assisting Mrs. Margaret Wilsey are Mrs. Margorie Roos, Mrs. Barbara Osterman and Mrs. Isabella DeCelle.

Easter Bunny Hops on Scene Saturday

The Easter Bunny will hop onto the Saugerties scene Saturday when he puts in an appearance at Cantine Field.

All children of the area are invited to come out at 11 a.m. and find the 3,700 Easter eggs hidden at the field.

Youngsters aged two to 12 will be divided in five age groups and awards will be given those who find lucky eggs.

In case of rain the hunt will be rescheduled for April 13 at the same time.

Five Upstaters Killed in Viet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Vietnam war has claimed the lives of five more upstate New York servicemen.

The parents of Army Pfc. George J. Kohlmeir III, 22, of Binghamton, said Wednesday their son was killed Tuesday in an explosion near Da Nang.

Kohlmeir entered the service in September 1966 and had been in Vietnam since last October. He was the son of Mrs. Robert Whitcomb of Binghamton and John Kohlmeir of Candor, northwest of Binghamton.

Marine 1st Lt. Bruce R. Archer, 26, was killed March 29 when his helicopter was shot down in Vietnam, his parents in Rochester said.

Archer, who had been in Vietnam since last November, had attended Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy before joining the Marines in 1965. He is survived by a widow, Carolyn, of Pensacola, Fla., his mother, Mrs. Marcy C. Archer, and his father, Gerald Archer, both of Rochester.

The Defense Department in the Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Washington said Wednesday that Marine Cpl. Carter L. Moore, son of Anita T. Moore of Ilion, had been killed in action in Vietnam.

Marine Cpl. John J. Enzina, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Enzina of Niagara Falls, was killed when struck by automatic weapons fire near Quang Tri Province, his parents said.

Enzina had been in Vietnam since August and had intended to make the service his career, they said. He had enlisted on his 18th birthday.

The parents of Army WO Thomas G. Carlisle, 21, a helicopter pilot, said their son was killed March 29 near Dong Ha.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Carlisle of Sanborn said their son had been wounded in February but had returned to duty.

DEPEND ON DE WITT FOR TOTAL VALUE.

★COMPETITIVE PRICES

You can depend on De Witt to deliver the most car for your money—and the reason is simple arithmetic. De Witt is the area's leading volume Cadillac-Oldsmobile dealer—and that means lower proportionate overhead per car. Remember, it's the net price that counts—and everything works in your favor at De Witt. Volume buying from the factory and volume selling of both new and used cars combine to put us in a position to give you the No. 1 value—whatever car you choose, on any day, in any month, during any season of the year. See De Witt first or see De Witt last—just be sure to see De Witt before you decide.

★HUGE SELECTIONS

You can depend on De Witt to make it easy for you to decide—because you'll see a cavalcade of cars at De Witt, not a gallery of pictures. De Witt has a spectacular standing stock of brand new Cadillacs, Oldsmobiles and late model used cars that spans the whole spectrum of series, body styles, colors, accessories and equipment options. The chances are excellent that exactly the car you want is in De Witt's inventory right now—but if it's necessary to place a factory order, you'll still have the advantage of De Witt's delivery expediting service. There's no faster way to get what you want than to let De Witt get it for you.

★SUPREME SERVICE

You can depend on De Witt to keep your confidence and safeguard your satisfaction in the matter that may well be the most important of all: Service. Your new Cadillac or Oldsmobile is covered, of course, by one of the most complete and comprehensive warranties in the industry. But it takes the skill of De Witt's master mechanics and the precision of De Witt's advanced automotive maintenance equipment to give that protection maximum meaning through preventive care and professional expertise of the highest order. It all adds up to one clear conclusion: "When you depend on De Witt—you've found the formula for total value."

The parents of Army Pfc. George J. Kohlmeier III, 22, of Binghamton, said Wednesday their son was killed Tuesday in an explosion near Da Nang.

Kohlmeier entered the service in September 1966 and had been in Vietnam since last October. He was the son of Mrs. Robert Whitcomb of Binghamton and John Kohlmeier of Candor, northwest of Binghamton.

Marine 1st Lt. Bruce R. Archer, 26, was killed March 29 when his helicopter was shot down in Vietnam, his parents in Rochester said.

Archer, who had been in Vietnam since last November, had attended Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy before joining the Marines in 1965. He is survived by a widow, Carolyn, of Pensacola, Fla., his mother, Mrs. Marcy C. Archer, and his father, Gerald Archer, both of Rochester.

The Defense Department in Washington said Wednesday that Marine Cpl. Carter L. Moore, son of Anita T. Moore of Ilion, had been killed in action in Vietnam.

Marine Cpl. John J. Enzina, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Enzina of Niagara Falls, was killed when struck by automatic weapons fire near Quang Tri Province, his parents said.

Enzina had been in Vietnam since August and had intended to make the service his career, they said. He had enlisted on his 18th birthday.

The parents of Army WO Thomas G. Carlisle, 21, a helicopter pilot, said their son was killed March 29 near Dong Ha. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Carlisle of Sanborn said their son had been wounded in February but had returned to duty.

DEPEND ON DE WITT FOR TOTAL VALUE.

★ COMPETITIVE PRICES

You can depend on De Witt to deliver the most car for your money—and the reason is simple arithmetic. De Witt is the area's leading volume Cadillac-Oldsmobile dealer—and that means lower proportionate overhead per car. Remember, it's the net price that counts—and everything works in your favor at De Witt: Volume buying from the factory and volume selling of both new and used cars combine to put us in a position to give you the No. 1 value—whatever car you choose, on any day, in any month, during any season of the year. See De Witt first or see De Witt last—just be sure to see De Witt before you decide.

★ HUGE SELECTIONS

You can depend on De Witt to make it easy for you to decide—because you'll see a cavalcade of cars at De Witt, not a gallery of pictures. De Witt has a spectacular standing stock of brand new Cadillacs, Oldsmobiles and late model used cars that spans the whole spectrum of series, body styles, colors, accessories and equipment options. The chances are excellent that exactly the car you want is in De Witt's inventory right now—but if it's necessary to place a factory order, you'll still have the advantage of De Witt's delivery expediting service. There's no faster way to get what you want than to let De Witt get it for you.

★ SUPREME SERVICE

You can depend on De Witt to keep your confidence and safeguard your satisfaction in the matter that may well be the most important of all: Service. Your new Cadillac or Oldsmobile is covered, of course, by one of the most complete and comprehensive warranties in the industry. But it takes the skill of De Witt's master mechanics and the precision of De Witt's advanced automotive maintenance equipment to give that protection maximum meaning through preventive care and professional expertise of the highest order. It all adds up to one clear conclusion: "When you depend on De Witt—you've found the formula for total value."

June 16 Event

Benedictine Pavilion Committee

Clifford H. Henze and Lawrence A. Quilty, co-chairmen of the committee in charge of arrangements for the dedication of the Benedictine Hospital's new Spellman Pavilion, have named committee chairmen and workers for the June 16 event.

Committee chairmen and their people are: invitations, Mrs. Guy Valeo, chairman; traffic and parking, Police Chief Francis Fagan, chairman; ceremony, Al Spada, Joseph O'Connor, co-chairmen; committee, Vincent Connelly, Harry Gold, Dr. John Olivet; ushers and hostesses, Mrs. Henry C. Eichelmann Jr.; open house, Gerard Nocton, chairman; publicity and program, Donald MacIsaac, chairman; committee, John Larkin, Mrs. Juanita Mann.

The dedication ceremony will be highlighted by Archbishop Terence James Cooke, who was named by Pope Paul VI to succeed the late Francis Cardinal Spellman as Roman Catholic archbishop of New York. Bishop Cooke will be the honored guest at the ceremonies which are scheduled to begin at 3 p.m.

Following the ceremony, a dinner and reception is also being planned to recognize major donors to the new pavilion as well as some of the event.

The Spellman Pavilion opened officially March 21 with the first transfer patient being Mrs. A. Robert LaWare. Open house for the public then took place Sunday, March 24.

DEDICATION COMMITTEE — Plans for the dedication of Benedictine Hospital's new Spellman Pavilion on June 16 are discussed by Mrs. Guy Valeo (L.), invitation chairman; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph G. McIntyre of St. Mary's Church and Sister Mary Charles, OSB, hospital administrator. Lawrence A. Quilty, co-chairman of committee, checks progress. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

The Hospital's 1967 Activities

Sister Mary Charles, administrator of Benedictine Hospital, announced the appointment of the new medical staff officers during the recent annual staff dinner meeting at which time reports for 1967 were submitted.

Reports were submitted by the various department heads, namely: Dr. James R. Clarkin, department head of medicine; Dr. Joseph Conrad, department head of surgery; Dr. William Feldman, department head of obstetrics and gynecology; Dr. Joseph Webber, department head of anesthesia; and Dr. Vincent Amatrano, department head of general practice.

Dr. Michael Diacovo, outgoing president, introduced the guests who were present.

Sister Mary Charles then gave a report of the hospital's activities for the year 1967. There was a remarkable increase of service to the people of Kingston and the surrounding areas. The total number of in-patients treated in 1967 was 7,875. The number of out-patients treated at the hospital amounted to 11,022. The total patients treated during 1967 was 18,897.

Completed Projects

"During the year the following projects were completed. February 1 was the official opening of the Coronary Care Unit. The new Pharmacy opened in the Center Wing Jan. 15, 1967. The new Spellman Pavilion is completed except for some minor details. The Obstetrical patients were moved into Spellman 4

March 21, the Feast of St. Benedict; the surgical patients were moved to Spellman 3 the following week, as were medical patients to Spellman 2. Spellman 1 is the rehabilitative floor. The ground floor houses the admission offices, business office, auxiliary and administration. In the main lobby is the Gift and Coffee Shop, director of volunteers' office, volunteer locker room and a Quiet Room.

"The lower level is the new Physical Therapy Department which lends itself for a much greater amount of service; also the new Laboratory and Mortuary are located on the lower level. An added facility for the patients and personnel is a beauty shop which is planned to have on concession with a local beautician.

"Needed alterations in the old sections of the original building will be an expanded X-ray Department; Intensive Care Unit; expanded Pediatric division; new Emergency Suite, etc.

"Dedication of the Spellman Pavilion is scheduled for June 16, 1968 at 3 p.m. Lawrence Quilty and Clifford Henze are co-chairmen of the ceremonies.

"The School of Nursing is phasing out. In June we will graduate 21 students. The remaining year we will house 21 students to graduate in June of 1969. The Ulster Academy is renting some of our facilities for the next year. A certificate of incorporation, changing the School of Nursing to include a home for aged men and women has been approved by the State Department. The second floor of the residence will accommodate 24 senior residents. We hope to make the facility available in about one month. They will be provided with room, food and twenty-four hour supervision. Organized activities will be planned for the residents. The revenue from these projects will help defray the cost of maintaining the building.

"Mental Health continues to negotiate for approval to use part of the School facility in the future. The Cerebral Palsy Clinic has been given property on which to erect a new building.

Key Changes

"Personnel changes in key positions: Sister Mary Charles was appointed administrator Oct. 5, 1967. Gerard Nocton joined Benedictine as assistant administrator Nov. 27, 1967. Mrs. Betty Valeo is employed by the hospital as director of volunteers as of Nov. 6, 1967. Nicholas Choyce is new chief engineer in charge of maintenance. Robert Auten is purchasing agent.

"In conclusion, we wish to thank the members of the Medical Staff, Advisory Board, Women's Auxiliary and the hospital employee staff for another fine example of the combined effort to bring the population of the Ulster County area the best medical and hospital care possible.

Freeman Survey

Resigned to Sales Tax

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The Kingston city sales tax is apparently "just one of those things," The Freeman learned yesterday while interviewing a number of city residents.

The question was, "What do you think of the city sales tax now that it's been in effect a month?" The answers were varied but, for the most part, Kingstonians are resigned to the tax and plan no evasive moves to avoid it.

The Freeman started its survey Downtown at Sam Stone's Liquor Store on lower Broadway. All of Stone's wares are taxable under the two per cent levy that went into effect March 1. Stone didn't mince words when asked about the tax. "It's lousy, a nuisance. My customers come in and give me the change and I have to ask them for a few pennies more. It's a pain in the neck," Stone said.

Stone felt that not enough information was given to the public, leading to confusion. "They should have waited 'till they passed a county tax, anyway," Stone said.

Business Hurt

James Roberts, a few doors up the street in the B&F Market, said the tax had hurt his business. He termed it "very unfair" to the businessmen.

While few businessmen had a kind word for the tax, most were resigned to paying it. Connie Ambrose of the Ambrose Brothers Confectionery at 364 Broadway said, "The city has to have the money, what can you do."

Oscar Gollop, manager of Bongartz Pharmacy said, "things would be better without the tax" but he noticed little effect on his business.

termed "his favorite roost" said, "If the cost of living goes up the cost of beer has to go up. I don't mind paying."

Agnes Keyser, tending the taps at the 10 Grand Tavern where beers also went to 20 cents, said, "What can I say? Taxes are taxes."

Little Concern

Pickers in front of the Huckleberry Plant on Grand Street expressed little concern with the tax. "We don't have any money to spend on it," one said. Another observed, "You gotta pay taxes 'til you die so why fight it."

Asked how he was taking the tax, John Simmons of 152 Glen Street said, "With a grain of salt."

Next, The Freeman went to Ray's Chevrolet on Broadway where one could pay as much as $80 to the city on a $4,000 car. We talked to Edward Dayton, a salesman from Wittenburgh.

Dayton said sales were down "some" the first week of the tax but have since picked up. He said the tax could have been explained "a lot more clearly."

Don Sills of Adams Street pulled into Ray's parking lot and said he didn't mind the tax. As far as evading the tax, Sills said, "I'm not going out of my way for three cents."

Joe McConnell, over at McConnell's on Washington Avenue, had a simple solution. "They raise the taxes, we raise the prices," he said. Gazing out the window McConnell added, "Garraghan says he needs the money but I don't know what he's doing with it."

Richard J. Wenzel of 58 Smith Avenue, a cigarette and amusement venter said he couldn't tell what effect the tax was having on his business after only a month. "It sure is a lot of extra work computing the tax but what can you do," he said. An owner of a bait and tackle shop at 436 Washington Avenue could apparently care less about the sales tax. Said Joseph Guliano, "My customers don't care. They just want to go fishing."

Is Fed Up

Robert Bush was listening to the Yankee baseball game from Florida in his gas station at the corner of Washington and Hurley Avenues. After extolling the virtues of Kingston's Mike Ferraro, the Bombers' third baseman, Bush said, "I'm fed up with taxes. I don't think any of them are fair."

Bush, whose station is only a few hundred feet from the city line said he's lost "plenty of customers." "It's not fair to the city merchants," he said.

No one we talked to was in favor of repealing the tax, at least they didn't say so. Most Kingstonians were resigned to it as witnessed by the many times we heard residents say, "What can you do?"

Dates Are Set For Sentencing In Three Cases

A date for sentencing was set in three cases completed in county court Wednesday following changes of pleas to guilty of lesser charges.

Naomi M. Barnett, 34, of DeBarry, Fla., changed her plea to guilty of attempted assault, second degree in the injury of Charles Brinkley, 31, on Sept. 8, last at Palladino Farm, Highland.

Sentencing was set by County Judge Raymond J. Mino for April 24 at 11 a. m. The defendant was charged in the indictment with assault first and second degree. She was remanded to county jail pending a probation report and sentencing.

Edward R. Jackson, 35, of

New York City, changed his plea to guilty of petit larceny and obscenity as a misdemeanor and sentencing was set for April 17 at 11 a. m.

Jackson was charged in the indictment with burglary, third and grand larceny, third degree and obscenity.

Ellenville troopers charged Jackson with entering the room of another employee, Pablo Vasquez at the Granit Hotel and for possession of pornographic pictures. He was remanded to county jail pending sentencing.

David D. Myers of Wallkill entered a guilty plea to unlawful entry and sentencing was set for April 30 at 10 a. m. Myers had been charged in the indictment with burglary third degree; unlawful entry and petit larceny in a case involving the illegal entry at Wallkill Ford Agency on Feb. 19, last.

Assistant District Attorney James H. Fisher appeared for the DA's office.

Mrs. Terrance Martin, general chairman of the Town of Saugerties Cancer Crusade, this week launched the local campaign to reach the $4,599 goal with the announcement of key personnel in this year's drive. With her is Paul Pavlovich, industry and special gifts chairman. Others include George Thornton, cashiers; Albert J. Cavein, publicity and Terrance Martin, merchants and business. Names of section chairmen and community captains will be announced at a future date. The Saugerties crusade is one of several in the county to raise needed funds to combat one of the most dreaded of all diseases. Monies raised are given to local and national funds for research in the control and cure of cancer. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Cardiac Surgery--Team Approach

The fifth annual Heart Institute for Nurses, sponsored by the Mid-Hudson Heart Association serving Columbia, Greene and Ulster Counties, will be held on May 14 at the Governor Clinton Hotel, it was announced today by Dr. John A. Vosburgh, Catskill, president of the association.

Mrs. David H. Hildebrandt, RN, board member and chairman of the Institute Planning Committee announced the topic will be Cardiac Surgery--the Team Approach. The Institute program and invitations will be mailed to all Registered Nurses and Licensed Practical Nurses in the three county area in the near future.

Others assisting will be Mrs. Marguerite Mahoney, RN, representing New York State District 11 Nurses Association; Mrs. Gloria Buckley, RN, director of nursing, Greene County Memorial Hospital; Mrs. Ruth H. Buchholz, RN, director of Nursing Service, Columbia

Memorial Hospital; Mrs. Ethel Mayone, RN and Miss Louise Miller, RN, representing Capital District 9, New York State Nurses Association.

DeWeese W. DeWitt, Chairman of the Board of the Heart Association, said this is one of many services provided by the Association which is made possible through funds received by the annual Heart Fund Drive.

50 at Hearing In Woodstock On Zone Change

The changing of a zoning ordinance into a public law drew some 50 Town of Woodstock residents into their town hall last night in a public hearing designed to inform them of the change.

Present at the hearing was Benjamin L. Webster, chairman of the Zoning Board of Appeals, County Attorney Abram F. McVineux, who is also Republican town chairman, and Supervisor Milton Houst.

The meeting was conducted by the town board.

Among the citizens attended the hearing was a delegation of the Woodstock Taxpayers Association headed by its president, Walter Schulman.

According to attorney McVineux, the only change facing residents is that the present Woodstock Zoning Ordinance becomes Public Law No. 1 as permitted under the Home Rule regulations.

It was explained that there will be no changes in the body of the ordinance but that the changeover was merely "technical" and would result in speedier court adjudications of disputes if necessary.

Supervisor Houst said that an ordinance change could be adopted the same night following a public hearing but a public law has a 10 day cooling period after its adoption and before it becomes law upon its approval by the state secretary.

During the question and answer period from the floor, both Molyneux and Webster assured the crowd that the change does not in any way abrogate or diminish the right of the taxpayer to redress, challenge or appeal.

It does not in any sense erode the present statute, they said. Residents were also informed that the board of appeals is "proof reading" the present document for typographical or other mechanical errors which may appear in it.

Supervisor Houst claimed that the action was recommended by the Association of Towns.

50 at Hearing In Woodstock On Zone Change

The changing of a zoning ordinance into a public law drew some 50 Town of Woodstock residents into their town hall last night in a public hearing designed to inform them of the change.

Present at the hearing was Benjamin L. Webster, chairman of the Zoning Board of Appeals, County Attorney Abram P. Molyneux, who is also Republican town chairman, and Supervisor Milton Houst.

The meeting was conducted by the town board.

Among the citizens attended the hearing was a delegation of the Woodstock Taxpayers Association headed by its president, Walter Schulman.

According to attorney Molyneux, the only change facing residents is that the present Woodstock Zoning Ordinance becomes Public Law No. 1 as permitted under the new Home Rule regulations.

It was explained that there will be no changes in the body of the ordinance but that the changeover was merely "technical" and would result in speedier court adjudications of disputes if necessary.

Supervisor Houst said that an ordinance change could be adopted the same night following a public hearing but a public law has a 10 day cooling period after its adoption and before it becomes law upon its approval by the state secretary.

During the question and answer period from the floor, both Molyneux and Webster assured the crowd that the change does not in any way abrogate or diminish the right of the taxpayer to redress, challenge or appeal.

It does not in any sense erode the present statute, they said. Residents were also informed that the board of appeals is "proof reading" the present document for typographical or other mechanical errors which may appear in it.

Supervisor Houst claimed that the action was recommended by the Association of Towns.

Could Boost Hubert

McCarthy and Kennedy--Ahead Are the Collisions

BY JACK BELL

The uncontested preliminaries over, Sens. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., and Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., head for a series of collisions that could boost Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's chance for the Democratic presidential nomination.

With his solid defeat of lame duck President Johnson in Tuesday's Wisconsin primary, McCarthy has served notice he is no interim candidate likely to be awed into submission to the Kennedy legend.

The Minnesota senator's feat in taking 57 per cent of the vote in a contest with a non-candidate president obviously convinced him that he has the political equipment to meet Kennedy head-on on any track.

It was with an air of a man spoiling for such a direct clash with his adversary that McCarthy told newsmen:

"Until Lyndon got out of it, it was like three-cushion billiards. Bobby could hit me only if he banked it off Lyndon. It was a case of who could hate Lyndon most and he seemed to be winning. Now he will have to hit me directly."

Kennedy seemed ready and willing to do just that. He congratulated McCarthy for demonstrating that "there is a good deal of opposition" to Johnson's Vietnam policies, which both oppose. But he suggested that Johnson's exit as a contestant helped McCarthy roll up his margin of victory.

Their first face to face encounter will come in Indiana's May 7 primary, with Gov. Roger D. Branigan also on the ticket as a favorite son.

Humphrey will be a bystander in other clashes in Nebraska, Oregon, California and South Dakota.

But if he gets into the race as he is generally expected to do, the vice president will have to contest with them for delegates chosen in state conventions.

As supporter of President Johnson's Vietnam policies, Humphrey stands to pick up backing from Democrats who don't agree with Kennedy and McCarthy that the United States should settle in negotiations for a coalition government in Saigon.

If Johnson, who says he will devote full time to it, manages some favorable break in the war before August, Humphrey could be the chief beneficiary.

Although nobody expects Johnson to engage in any overt politicking, the President has only to pass the word through channels that he would rather have Humphrey than either of the other two.

It didn't require any semaphore signals for Gov. John Connally of Texas, a close presidential friend, to line up that state's 104 convention votes behind himself as a favorite son.

The tacit understanding was that Humphrey would get the vote if he becomes a top contender for the nomination.

State Rep. Tom Moore, who spoke against the favorite son move, told his colleagues: "I never thought I'd live to see the day when Hubert H. Humphrey was the most conservative candidate to seek the nomination of the Democratic party but he is."

Therein lies part of the Humphrey story. Southern delegations had been lining up behind Johnson because they disliked him less than either Kennedy or McCarthy, Humphrey, once an anathema to the South because of strong civil rights stand, has patched some fences there as vice president.

Even Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, who has little use for any northern Democrat, had a kind word for Humphrey. He said in announcing that Southern Democratic governors would caucus soon that he would not rule out Humphrey as "part of a team that would be acceptable to the South."

There is some doubt, however, that Humphrey can field much support from Democratic governors from all sections called to meet in St. Louis, Mo., April 15.

Iowa Gov. Harold Hughes, who called the session, previously announced that if Johnson didn't change his Vietnam course, he would support Kennedy or McCarthy. Hughes is a candidate for the Senate.

However, if Democratic governors are no more successful in getting together on a candidate than Republican state executives have been, their caucus could end inconclusively.

Humphrey apparently can depend on the support of organized labor, which has generally been backing Johnson. But the party liberals, of whom he was out of the contention, his ties a charter member have given with the late John F. Kennedy him the back of their hand he may influence him and the cause of his support of Johnson's Vietnam policies.

Democratic state organizations, which have been kept in line for Johnson, may not give Humphrey as much support.

Kennedy and McCarthy already are chipping away at the organizations in Pennsylvania, Ohio, with 115, Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, a Kennedy family friend, is taking a saboteur look like a well-paved boulevard while he decides where to direct Illinois' 118 votes.

Gov. Richard Hughes of New Jersey has stuck firmly with Johnson. But with the President's may influence him and the state's 82-vote delegation, Johnson's exit probably shot National Chairman John M. Bailey out of control of the 44-line vote Connecticut delegation.

Bailey, a former Kennedy man, could turn time backward a bit ready to consider supporting Sen. Kennedy with the delegates that with 130 convention votes, and McCarthy doesn't pick off.

For no one concerned does the Humphrey road to the Democratic nomination look like a well-paved boulevard at this point. But at least Humphrey will be traveling it without the danger of being a Jersey has stuck firmly with Johnson. But with the President's

Sears Displays Latest Models Of Power Mowers

A demand for easier operating and more powerful lawn equipment has led to the development of the first 4-horsepower rotary power mowers designed for use by home owners. Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s 1968 line of rotary power mowers includes three 4-h.p. mowers that make grass cutting easier and faster for the homeowner with a large yard. One of the Sears models, a 22-inch self-propelled unit, features a two-speed gear box that allows the homeowner to run the engine at top speed while using the low wheel gear for better cutting in heavy grass. A single-speed, 22-inch self-propelled mower and a 20-inch push-type rotary mower also have the new 4-h.p. motors. ### Miron Expands Dutchess Unit

Julie Miron, founder of the huge Miron Enterprise has announced the grand opening of the Miron Home Center, a tremendous 20,000 sq. ft. addition to the Poughkeepsie Lumber complex. The new facility is reputed to be the most modern and best equipped showroom of its type in the county.

Miron, president of the company expressed great confidence in the future growth of the Hudson Valley area by his announcement that additional Home Centers are now in planning for other local communities.

Miron, raised in the lumber business since the age of 12, started a modest sales office on East Strand Street, Kingston in 1947. From a humble beginning the organization has grown from a few employees to its present count of over 500 employees and more than 100 vehicles.

Asked for his formula for success Miron advised, "quality, efficiency, confidence in the future of the area plus loads of hard work. Miron holds a significant position in the area for the marketing of top quality building and home furnishing materials, and with the great faith I have in our aggressive management we shall strive to continue as the largest building material enterprise in the State of New York."

If a comet ever touches the earth there might be no more than a great shower of small pieces of stone and metal, called meteors. An explosion is considered unlikely.

Asked for his formula for success Miron advised, "quality, efficiency, confidence in the future of the area plus loads of hard work. Miron holds a significant position in the area for the marketing of top quality building and home furnishing materials, and with the great faith I have in our aggressive management we shall strive to continue as the largest building material enterprise in the State of New York."

Area Business News

Miron Expands Dutchess Unit

Julie Miron, founder of the huge Miron Enterprise has announced the grand opening of the Miron Home Center, a tremendous 20,000 sq. ft. addition to the Poughkeepsie Lumber complex. The new facility is reputed to be the most modern and best equipped showroom of its type in the county.

Miron, president of the company expressed great confidence in the future growth of the Hudson Valley area by his announcement that additional Home Centers are now in planning for other local communities.

Miron, raised in the lumber business since the age of 12, started a modest sales office on East Strand Street, Kingston in 1947. From a humble beginning the organization has grown from a few employees to its present count of over 500 employees and more than 100 vehicles.

Hewes Operates Woodstock Firm

Special Office Services of Woodstock has been purchased by Robert Hewes, formerly associated with Columbia University. The business had been operated for seven years by Richard Langham. The firm offers printing and complete office services.

Hewes, 37, has had a long career in editing and publishing. At Columbia he was editor of the University Newsletter, a weekly publication for the university and staff. Earlier in his career he was co-editor of the Graduate School of Journalism at Columbia.

Hewes, a graduate of Brown University, received a bachelor's degree in 1953. He received a master's degree from Columbia in 1956. He has moved to his new home in the Woodstock area.

Mary, and six children, Mary, 3, Donn, 3, and Peter, 1. Mrs. Hewes will be helping part-time in the operation of Special Office Services.

C-H Directors Name Two New Executives

Two Poughkeepsie residents have been appointed vice presidents by the Board of Directors of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, according to an announcement today by Ernest E. Althouse, Central Hudson president.

Charles A. Bolz Jr., 13 Lorraine Boulevard, has vice presidential responsibility for engineering, general services and purchasing. Henry L. Walker, 363 South Road, is vice president with responsibility for all electric and gas production operations.

Both Central Hudson officers had been serving as assistant vice presidents in the utility's Construction, Engineering and Production Group.

Completes Program

Cybernetics Institute Inc. has announced the graduation of John Van Loan from their school of Data Processing and Computer Programming located in Albany. Van Loan successfully completed a program of instruction in the theory and practice of data processing and computer systems. He is married to the former Nancy Topp and resides at 192 Foxhall Avenue.

Attends Seminar

Burt Cohen, assistant vice president for security of Caldor, Inc., the discount department store chain, was co-chairman of a two-day nationwide security seminar for more than 500 mass merchandising management, security and supply executives held recently in New York City. The sessions were part of the third annual Mass Merchandising Convention sponsored by the Mass Merchandising Research

Bolz is an Electrical Engineering graduate of Manhattan College. He joined Central Hudson in 1946 as a junior assistant engineer and was appointed manager of the design division in 1959. He became chief electrical engineer of the electric division in 1963, engineering manager in 1964, and assistant vice president in January 1967. Bolz represents Central Hudson including the technical committee of the Empire State Atomic Development Associates, Inc. and the electric system and equipment committee of the Edison Electric Institute.

Walker is a mechanical engineering graduate of Stevens Institute of Technology. After working for the Shanghai Power Company in China and being interned in a prison camp by the Japanese during the war, Walker joined the Central Hudson organization in 1946 as an assistant engineer. With the initial construction of Danskammer Point Steam Station, he was appointed plant superintendent in 1951. He subsequently was advanced to electric production superintendent in 1952, production superintendent in 1954, production manager in 1958, and assistant vice president in January 1967.

The Poughkeepsie resident is a member of the prime movers committee of the Edison Electric Institute and he also represents Central Hudson on the operating committee of Power Reactor Development Corporation working for the Shanghai Power

Stylist Shows How To Create Various Table-Moods

Carole Stupell, noted authority on table decor, has long advocated the use of individual table mats to achieve various effects for dining enjoyment. During her impressive career, she has counseled many young brides.

Miss Stupell, who started such trends as the lacy straw placement, gold-plated china and vermeil flatware, feels you can establish any mood you wish with your choice of table accessories. By mixing textures, colors, styles and materials, you may establish an atmosphere of elegance, frivolity or excitement.

An advocate of long-wearing Irish linen fabrics for table covering, she is particularly intrigued with the possibilities presented by the introduction of printed linen mats in a variety of color combinations, to set off a polished wood, glass, or marble table.

Auxiliary Meets

The Ladies Auxiliary of Glenford Engine Company No. 4 meets every third Wednesday of the month at the Glenford Firehouse. At the March meeting, with 20 members present, a sale was held among the members. Many and varied articles were brought by the members with Marion Warnecke in charge.

Plans were completed for a rummage sale to be held the latter part of April. Tentative plans were also discussed for a bazaar to be held this summer, sponsored by the Glenford Firemen and Ladies Auxiliary.

The Mature Parent

BY MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Why does a grown-up man have to yell everything he wants to tell other people? The person I have in mind is not content to just yell at children—to yell orders at them to get at their homework or do better studying than he thinks they do—but has to yell at others adults, too. I think that this yell I am talking about must yell to "prove" some point he wants to make.

ANSWER: I think we yell for only one reason—a certainty that nobody is going to attend to what we say. It's a certainty that has little to do with the people we yell at. It is one we developed (and always unknowingly) as the children of parents who didn't listen when we tried to tell them something we thought was important.

And I know this because I so often try to yell at you, the readers of this column. Oh, not with my voice but with exclamation point, punctuation and capitalized letters. Like your yell, I'm afraid you won't listen to something I'm saying which I think is important to both of us.

These exclamation point yells of mine are a development of my childhood. My mother was a person who could not attend to important things I tried to tell her. I can say this without criticisms because she possessed many balancing capacities which I lack. However, she could not listen. So I, as her child, grew up with an apprehensive certainty that nobody else would either.

Thus, were I not a writer, my yells would probably be constant and vocal. But I am a writer. So what you or my editors have to put up with are my writer yells of too many exclamation points and capitalized letters.

You're awfully mysterious about this yell of yours. He's your husband, isn't he? If you were listened to as a child, he wasn't. So why not reassure him of your ears? Isn't it possible to say, "Darling, I'm listening hard. My ears are all yours. And the children will give you their ears, too. We'll stop doing anything we're doing to listen when you want to tell us something important."

I can say this without criticisms because she possessed many balancing capacities which I lack. However, she could not listen. So I, as her child, grew up with an apprehensive certainty that nobody else would either.

Thus, were I not a writer, my yells would probably be constant and vocal. But I am a writer. So what you or my editors have to put up with are my writer yells of too many exclamation points and capitalized letters.

You're awfully mysterious about this yell of yours. He's your husband, isn't he? If you were listened to as a child, he wasn't. So why not reassure him of your ears? Isn't it possible to say, "Darling, I'm listening hard. My ears are all yours. And the children will give you their ears, too. We'll stop doing anything we're doing to listen when you want to tell us something important."

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

And I know this because I so often try to yell at you, the readers of this column. Oh, not with my voice but with exclamation point, punctuation and capitalized letters. Like your yell, I'm afraid you won't listen to something I'm saying which I think is important to both of us.

These exclamation point yells of mine are a development of my childhood. My mother was a person who could not attend to important things I tried to tell her. I can say this without criticisms because she possessed many balancing capacities which I lack. However, she could not listen. So I, as her child, grew up with an apprehensive certainty that nobody else would either.

Thus, were I not a writer, my yells would probably be constant and vocal. But I am a writer. So what you or my editors have to put up with are my writer yells of too many exclamation points and capitalized letters.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Folks:

Have you ever thought about what you would do if an unexpected accident happened in your home and someone needed professional medical aid quickly to save their life?

You are probably thinking you would put them in the car and rush to the hospital as quickly as possible, blowing the horn all the way.

In the first place, do NOT put your hand on the horn and hold it there. Remember some cars get stuck horns and the car in front of you may not even move over. When you need it, tap it in "Morse code" fashion and if you don't know Morse code who cares? At least the driver ahead of you will get the idea that your horn ain't stuck after all, and move over.

Next time you take a Sunday drive, TIME yourself and see just how many minutes it takes you to get from your home to the nearest hospital. We know Sunday is a lazy day and traffic won't be heavy then. So the following week test it in heavy traffic. You might be amazed at the longer time it takes.

I learned recently after seeing an accident at a friend's house that it was 29 minutes by AMBULANCE—with the siren blasting—to the nearest hospital! Someone could die in 29 minutes when first-aid could save their life.

If you don't have a car or can't drive, it's best to pick up the telephone and dial "O" for operator and tell her your problems. DON'T hang up the phone unless she tells you to. In emergencies, people sometimes lose their "cool."

That sweet telephone operator will call the nearest doctor, ambulance, fire department or police car. (They carry first-aid equipment.) That operator wants to hear what's going on so she can help you.

One time when a friend had acute attack in our home a precious telephone operator called the nearest fire department. They got there before the ambulance did and saved her life.

I suggest making two lists of telephone numbers—police, fire department and doctor. Also jot down HOW MANY MINUTES IT IS TO THE NEAREST HOSPITAL. Tape one list on your telephone and the other on your first-aid kit. Seems like we always rush to the kit first. So you can just bet your boots this might save a loved one's life.

MARGARET DONNELLAN, a smiling Irish colleen, specially chosen by the Irish Tourist Board to promote the new fall-winter-spring tour packages to Ireland, will make an appearance in Kingston on Tuesday, April 16, at the Kingston Lions Club luncheon. Miss Donnellan will make an extensive six months promotional tour of North America as part of a sales drive by the Irish Tourist Board in conjunction with other Irish tourist interests and American travel agents.

NATURALLY SUCCULENT

Succulence means juicy; not dry. Succulent is the kind of browning that is given meats, poultry, and fish when sugar is strewn over the surface before broiling or roasting. Then, cooked as usual, the unsweet results will be caramel-brown and unusually moist—naturally succulent.

Mom Drives Emergency Ambulance

BY SALLY WRIGHT

CINCINNATI (AP) — Not every boy can boast of having an ambulance driver for a mother.

But 12-year-old Johnny Evans can. And sometimes he gives a dramatic account.

Once the young Cincinnati broke up a backyard football game, yelling, "Outta the way, kids, Mom's gotta hurry"—as mom, Mrs. Addie Evans, dashed for the suburban Terrace Park Community Building on an emergency call.

Mrs. Evans is one of four women who make up Terrace Park's distaff. Emergency Life Squad team.

On less dramatic moments, Johnny proudly relates the medical episodes of his mother who hurries to an accident scene and provides first aid assistance before taking the victim to a hospital.

Here's what Johnny will tell about his mom and her "squad" mates, Mrs. Jeanette MacMillan, Mrs. Evelyn Peery and Mrs. Margaret Whitehouse.

It's a volunteer assignment, but the homework necessary even to qualify staggers the average student. They spend an initial 80 hours in the classroom and must complete the standard advanced American Red Cross first aid courses. This is in addition to the 30-hour course required by the state.

Subjects range from treatment of simple fractures and burns to assisting at births.

Then there's a radio communications course and the candidates must spend at least one evening in a hospital emergency ward before they're ready for duty.

Working in pairs—usually on alternate days—they are on call minutes in an emergency room.

Hospital President Will Preside at Dinner

Benjamin Lonstein, president of the Board of Directors of the Kingston Community Hospital, will preside at the second annual awards dinner of the institution's auxiliary. The dinner is scheduled to begin at 7 p. m. and the program at 8 p. m. on Monday evening, April 8, in the hospital meeting room.

Lonstein will present service pins to volunteers who have accumulated 100, 500 and 1,000 hours of service to the hospital through the auxiliary. The pins are an expression of appreciation by the hospital's board, for the efforts of auxiliaries. One thousand hour pins will be awarded for the first time this year.

FOR OVER-SALTED FOODS

Something beginning cooks may not know, but home economists are taught in college classes, is that over-salting of foods—stews, sauces, vegetables—can be tempered by a dash of sugar. Somehow sugar knows what to do about adjusting flavors during cooking, and just naturally proceeds to do it.

All members and all who wish to join the hospital service organization are invited to attend the dinner and meeting. There will be no admission charge. Hospital Board members and special guests also have been invited to honor the award recipients.

Distaff Digest

Accepts Scholarship

Doreen Raskin, instructor in chemistry at Dutchess Community College, has accepted a National Science Foundation Scholarship to study this summer at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. Raskin will study in the six weeks' Summer Institute in Nuclear Science.

The program, designed especially for instructors in two-year colleges, is intended to broaden professional competence. Specific topics will include practical and theoretical knowledge of nuclear science and the proper handling of radioisotopes.

Dean's List

Miss Joan Devine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Devine of 110 Emerson Street, Kingston, has been named to the Dean's List at Good Counsel College, White Plains. She is a junior and a concentrator of social studies.

Meeting Postponed

The Ladies Auxiliary to Hasbrouck Engine Company No. 1 will meet Thursday, Apr. 11, instead of the regular meeting night, April 4, due to the firemen's annual meeting.

PTO News

The Port Ewen PTO announces the sixth grade students will present the play, "Julius Caesar", by William Shakespeare on Friday at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. All parents are invited and refreshments will be served.

Hot Cross Buns

Hot cross buns made by women of the Rochester Reformed Church, Accord, will be on sale April 10 and 11. Mrs. John Cross of Accord or Miss Daisy Rider may be contacted with orders. Buns may be picked up at the church during the afternoon on both days.

Spring Luncheon

Mrs. George U. Baylies of Scarsdale, state vice regent-elect, was honor guest and speaker at the annual spring luncheon of the Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held Monday, April 1, in the crystal room, Governor Clinton Hotel. Attending were members of the 13 chapters of the Hudson Valley Council.

Among the items mentioned by Mrs. Baylies were the two and one-half million pine trees planted throughout the country honoring the National Society's 75th anniversary year; publication of the Patriots' Index (a complete sell-out); air-conditioning and re-decoration of Constitution Hall; alerting the national government years ago of Fort Knox' dwindling gold supply; assistance to American Indians; 365,000 school children in the Junior American Citizens Clubs; the recent trip of the President General Mrs. William H. Sullivan Jr. to Vietnam where she visited the hospitals and presented the Americanism medal to several veterans; net gain in DAR membership annually of 4,000; total membership 187,000; largest woman's service organization in the world.

Presiding was Mrs. Floyd N. Ellsworth, regent. The meeting concluded with recitation of the American's Creed.

Democratic Women

Sheriff William B. Martin presented two films at the March meeting of the Democratic Women's Club which were shown by Joseph McTague. It was announced that the Democratic Women's Division Day of Education will be held May 4 at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Hostess for the April meeting will be Mrs. Rose Hogan.

Bloomingdale Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Bloomingdale Club will be held Tuesday, Apr. 9, at the firehall at 1 p. m. There will be a discussion on the proposed June trip.

Longto-Camp Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. Constant C. Longto Sr. of Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rodella Marie, to John T. Camp Jr., son of Mrs. John T. Camp of Austin, Tex., and the late John T. Camp.

Miss Longto is a graduate of Kingston High School and is employed by American Plating Equipment Corporation of Kingston.

Camp, a graduate of the University of Texas, has had two years of study at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary and will be returning to seminary in September for his final year of study before graduation. He is presently on his intern year at Old Dutch Church in Kingston.

A June wedding is planned.

CORDIALS

A cordial is a liqueur that is normally flavored with fruit. A liqueur may be any flavoring and liquor combination, but is always mixed with sugar syrup for flavor intensification and sweetness.

Distaff Digest

Accepts Scholarship

Doreen Raskin, instructor in chemistry at Dutchess Community College, has accepted a National Science Foundation Scholarship to study this summer at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. Raskin will study in the six weeks' Summer Institute in Nuclear Science.

The program, designed especially for instructors in two-year colleges, is intended to broaden professional competence. Specific topics will include practical and theoretical knowledge of nuclear science and the proper handling of radioisotopes.

Dean's List

Meeting Postponed

The Ladies Auxiliary to Hasbrouck Engine Company No. 1 will meet Thursday, Apr. 11, instead of the regular meeting night, April 4, due to the firemen's annual meeting.

PTO News

The Port Ewen PTO announces the sixth grade students will present the play, "Julius Caesar", by William Shakespeare on Friday at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. All parents are invited and refreshments will be served.

Hot Cross Buns

Hot cross buns made by women of the Rochester Reformed Church, Accord, will be on sale April 10 and 11. Mrs. John Cross of Accord or Miss Daisy Rider may be contacted with orders. Buns may be picked up at the church during the afternoon on both days.

Spring Luncheon

Mrs. George U. Baylies of Scarsdale, state vice regent-elect, was honor guest and speaker at the annual spring luncheon of Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held Monday, April 1, in the crystal room, Governor Clinton Hotel. Attending were members of the 13 chapters of the Hudson Valley Council.

Among the items mentioned by Mrs. Baylies were the two and one-half million pine trees planted throughout the country honoring the National Society's 75th anniversary year; publication of the Patriots' Index (a complete sell-out); air-conditioning and re-decoration of Constitution Hall; alerting the national government years ago of Fort Knox' dwindling gold supply; assistance to American Indians; 365,000 school children in the Junior American Citizens Clubs; the recent trip of the President General Mrs. William Sullivan Jr. to Vietnam where she visited the hospitals and presented the Americanism medal to several veterans; net gain in DAR membership annually of 4,000; total membership 187,000; largest woman's service organization in the world.

Presiding was Mrs. Floyd N. Ellsworth, regent. The meeting concluded with recitation of the American's Creed.

Democratic Women

Sheriff William B. Martin presented two films at the March meeting of the Democratic Women's Club which were shown by Joseph McTague.

It was announced that the Democratic Women's Division Day of Education will be held May 4 at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Bloomingdale Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Bloomingdale Club will be held Tuesday, Apr. 9, at the firehall at 1 p. m. There will be a discussion on the proposed June trip.

Longto-Camp Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. Constant C. Longto Sr. of Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rodella Marie, to John T. Camp Jr., son of Mrs. John T. Camp of Austin, Tex., and the late John T. Camp.

Miss Longto is a graduate of Kingston High School and is employed by American Plating Equipment Corporation of Kingston. Camp, a graduate of the University of Texas, has had two years of study at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary and will be returning to seminary in September for his final year of study before graduation. He is presently on his intern year at Old Dutch Church in Kingston. A June wedding is planned.

CORDIALS

A cordial is a liqueur that is normally flavored with fruit. A liqueur may be any flavoring and liquor combination, but is always mixed with sugar syrup for flavor intensification and sweetness.

Deaf Church Women Carry Silent Lead

By AUDREY SACCO

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — Imagine women meeting and exchanging ideas without making a sound? This is what happens when members of Hawaii Circle of the Women's Missionary Society of the Hammond First Baptist Church meet.

They "speak" a language all their own because they are deaf. Ages of the 12 to 15 regular circle members range from 17 to 58.

"The circle was organized three and a half years ago," said Maxine Jeffries, "when we found a need for it."

"Deaf people need help in religion and Bible instruction too."

They sing, say prayers, sew, and do mission and white cross work at their meetings just like the eight hearing circles of the WMS.

Miss Jeffries feels there's nothing they can do.

"They carry their load just like the other groups and they know the same things are expected of them."

"Most hearing people," she said, "don't understand a deaf person can't automatically lip read just because he or she is deaf."

They must have the capability and training to read lips.

There are a few women in the circle who lip read as well as "talk" in sign language, but all can converse in signs.

Language for the deaf is different. A word which has one or two meanings in sign language may have as many as four, five or six uses for the general population.

It's a Cinch It's Fashion Art

JEAN SPRUIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — "Up-down, One-two." Around the nation women who have been hiding a multitude of figure sins under sacks, sheaths and tents for the past two years are now preparing to come out from under.

According to the fashion industry, women have gained from an inch and a half to two inches around their middles because styles allowed them to get away with it.

Now they are squaring shoulders, throwing out chests, and sucking in tummies in a grand race to shape up before the coat shedding season. The new styles are impatiently waiting.

It was once enough to suggest that femininity existed somewhere beyond, if the fabric lightly skimmed the body. Now smooth, man-made fibers with the glow and rustle of silk cling rather than skim. And that is not enough.

The return of the midriff is so important that it is not limited to a few style variations. Cinching a costume a standard procedure despite its orientation or its purpose. Fashions from the '20s have begun to lose their baggy slack, interpreted as they are for the sashes '60s.

Clothes from the sexy '30s peasant costume also takes to blanket of snow. They are firmly controlled by wide soft belts in the midriff area. More nostalgia is the Victorian influence, but that always did make a big thing out of a little waist.

Despite efforts to laugh it out of existence, baby doll styles thrive. On these, minimal bodys are delineated by firmly drawn lines, ropes, ribbons or sashes.

Take foreign influences. The tile-makers are having a field woman who wore a silken day. Some solids are so bright sheath last year may be in they glow. Many patterns are clined to Japanese kimonos this blazing combinations of con-year, if waist permits an obtrasting hues. Even white is cummerbund. The European blinding white, like a relentless

One thing for sure, you won't be able to sneak around unnoticed this summer. While slithery fabrics and wound up waists make figures worth noticing, brilliant colors and sashy prints make them impossible to ignore.

Heady with their new success in capturing colors with accuracy—it was once very difficult to do with test-tube fibers—textile-makers are having a field day. Some solids are so bright sheath last year may be in they glow. Many patterns are clined to Japanese kimonos this blazing combinations of con-year, if waist permits an obtrasting hues. MENDELSSOHN CLUB'S Massed Concert committee includes, seated, (L-R) E. Robert Johnson, Saugerties, public relations; Charles Selzo, secretary; standing (L-R) Charles Talleur, concert chairman; David Rylance, printing. This major choral event will be presented on May 18 in Kingston High School auditorium.

Massed Concert Here May 18

The Mendelssohn Club of Kingston will bring a major choral event to the Kingston-Hudson Valley area in its presentation of the Mohawk-Hudson Male Chorus Association Massed Concert at the Kingston High School auditorium, May 18. Featured as guest chorus will be the United States Military Academy (West Point) Glee Club.

Mendelssohn Club president, Edward L. Sprute, noted that Massed Chorus Concert of 200 voices will involve six men's choral groups and the West Point Club. "Fifteen years ago, on the 50th Anniversary of our Mendelssohn Club, the Massed Concert was featured in our area," Sprute added. "Our Massed Concert Committee and our singing members are pleased that, now in our 65th year, the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston will present the outstanding Military Academy Chorus and the massed groups in an evening of unsurpassed male choral music.

The U. S. Military Academy Glee Club will appear under officer-in-charge, Major LeRoy D. Hammond. The concert includes the IBM Male Chorus, Poughkeepsie; and the Catskill Glee Club solo and in the massed group which also will be composed of the Euterpe Glee Club of Poughkeepsie; the Amphion Male Glee Club of Newburgh; the Apollo Club of Middletown; and the local host group, the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston.

Charles Talleur is chairman of the Mendelssohn's Massed Concert committee which includes Charles Selzo, Edward Heaney, E. Robert Johnson, John W. Hill, J. Anthony Hummel, Brian Steeves, Richard Uhler, John Breithaupt, David Rylance, Arnold Reynolds, Floyd Vogt, Otto Havlin, Joseph Flowers, William Wood, Arthur Souers, Edward L. Sprute, Dr. J. Gifford, William E. Rylance, Frank E. Mendorf and Miss Helen Bowen.

Sprute concluded that further public announcement will be made of program development and participation details as the Massed Concert Program takes shape.

Fast-Draw Maureen

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP) — Around the United Technology Center spread, Maureen Reynon has the reputation of being a fast female on the draw—and they do mean pistols.

Miss Reynon works as a clerk-typist in the purchasing department of the UTC division of United Aircraft Corp. She plays at pistol packing.

The 95-pound, 5-footer is the only woman member of the Valley Gun Hawks, a San Jose fast-draw gun organization.

No live ammunition is allowed in fast-drawing shooting. The single-action guns shoot specially made wax pellets. In quick draw shooting, another area of the hobby, live ammo is used.

Miss Reynon "up-fans" cocks the hammer—with her free hand while whipping her Ruger .357 pistol up from her holster. She can cock, aim, fire and hit a target in one-half second, about the time it takes to blink, podner.

She has entered five contests since taking up the hobby two years ago, and has won two firsts and two fourth places.

Decorator Colors

Often used—and just as often misused—is the term, "decorator color."

These words—or their equivalent, high style color—are frequently applied in home furnishings. Do they really mean anything?

Actually, the terms can properly describe any unusual color or color combination which has been developed by experts with a keen color sense—specifically, interior designers.

Although a novice homemaker might stick to a tried-and-true color or basic color scheme, a decorator or designer can use his knowledge and experience to develop a different color, or mix colors in an unusual way.

Four Groups Sponsor Nutrition Course

Four organizations are sponsoring a three-session nutrition refresher course on May 9, 16, and May 23, from 6 to 10 p. m., at Arlington Junior High School, Poughkeepsie. Coordinating and planning the course for the groups are Mrs. Marjorie Burns Washbon, professor, Dept. of Food and Nutrition, College of Home Economics, at Cornell University; Mrs. Samuel J. Campilli, Community Nutrition Section chairman, Mid-Hudson Dietetic Association; Mrs. Myrtle F. Hodge, Senior Extension Agent, Home Economics Division, Dutchess County Extension Service Association; and Lawrence A. Fallis, director, Arlington Adult Continuing Education Program.

Enrollment for the course is limited to persons with a degree from an accredited four-college or university with a major in foods, nutrition, home economics, and/or dietetics. There is a small registration and materials fee.

The registration deadline is May 1. Ulster County residents who qualify for the course may obtain registration blanks by contacting Hilda Brett, West Hurley, or by writing to the Director of Arlington Adult Continuing Education, 232 Home Economics Division, Dutchess Turnpike, Poughkeepsie, Dutchess County Extension Service.

Robert Johnson, Saugerties, public relations; Charles Selzo, secretary; standing (L-R) Charles Tailleux, concert chairman; David Rylance, printing. This major choral event will be presented on May 18 in Kingston High School auditorium.

Massed Concert Here May 18

The Mendelssohn Club of Kingston will bring a major choral event to the Kingston-Hudson Valley area in its presentation of the Mohawk-Hudson Male Chorus Association Massed Concert at the Kingston High School auditorium, May 18. Featured as guest chorus will be the United States Military Academy (West Point) Glee Club.

Mendelssohn Club president, Edward L. Sprute, noted that Massed Chorus Concert of 200 voices will involve six men's choral groups and the West Point Club. "Fifteen years ago, on the 50th Anniversary of our Mendelssohn Club, the Massed Concert was featured in our area," Sprute added. "Our Massed Concert Committee and our singing members are pleased that, now in our 65th year, the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston will present the outstanding Military Academy Chorus and the massed groups in an evening of unsurpassed male choral music."

The U. S. Military Academy Glee Club will appear under officer in charge, Major LeRoy D. Hammond. The concert includes the IBM Male Chorus, Poughkeepsie; and the Catskill Glee Club solo and in the massed group which also will be composed of the Euterpe Glee Club of Poughkeepsie; the Amphion Male Glee Club of Newburgh; the Appolo Club of Middletown; and the local host group, the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston.

Fast-Draw Maureen

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP) — Around the United Technology Center spread, Maureen Reynon has the reputation of being a fast female on the draw—and they do mean pistols.

Miss Reynon works as a clerk-typist in the purchasing department of the UTC division of United Aircraft Corp. She plays at pistol packing.

The 95-pound, 5-foot-10 is the only woman member of the Valley Gun Hawks, a San Jose fast-draw gun organization.

No live ammunition is allowed in fast-drawing shooting. The single-action guns shoot specially made wax pellets. In quick draw shooting, another area of the hobby, live ammo is used.

Miss Reynon "up-fans" cocks the hammer—with her free hand while whipping her Ruger .357 pistol up from her holster. She can cock, aim, fire and hit a target in one-half second, about the time it takes to blink, podner.

She has entered five contests since taking up the hobby two years ago, and has won two firsts and two fourth places.

Decorator Colors

Often used—and just as often misused—is the term, "decorator color."

These words—or their equivalent, high style color—are frequently applied in home furnishings. Do they really mean anything?

Actually, the terms can properly describe any unusual color or color combination which has been developed by experts with a keen color sense—specifically, interior designers.

Although a novice homemaker might stick to a tried-and-true color or basic color scheme, a decorator or designer can use his knowledge and experience to develop a different color, or mix colors in an unusual way.

Name Ferraro for Dawson Award

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

The forgotten man in the New York Yankees' training camp has become the club's No. 1 rookie.

Mike Ferraro of Kingston is the unanimous choice of Yankee baseball writers for the coveted 1968 James P. Dawson Award, according to word from Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Formal presentation of the watch symbolic of the award was to be made at noon today prior to the Yankees' game with the Washington Senators.

The Dawson Award is given annually in honor of the late New York Times baseball writer and the selection is made by metropolitan area baseball scribes who cover the Yankees.

Long, Uphill Battle

hitter with a solid .396 average on 19 hits in 48 trips to the plate. As of yesterday, Ferraro was the club's leading spring the plate. His fielding has been brilliant leading Ralph Houk to remark:

"I don't know how you can keep him out of the lineup. He hasn't done anything wrong."

The Unhappy 1967 Spring

Ferraro, who played himself out of a clear shot at third base in the spring of 1967, was sent to Syracuse where he slumped badly. A transfer to Spokane, a Los Angeles Dodgers farm in the Pacific Coast League, transformed him into a .296 hitter and gave him another spring training invitation.

However, it was well known among Yankee baseball writers that Mike was in camp this year only on a courtesy basis. Manager Houk, the writers said, was counting on Bobby Cox, the 26-year-old rookie from Richmond, to take over the slot, with Charlie Smith as the No. 2 man.

Ferraro was largely ignored in the pre-season speculation about third base candidates. The spotlight was focused on Cox most of the way. But, given the chance to alternate with his rival, Ferraro made the most of it. He hit steadily, fielded brilliantly and soon was soaring over the .400 mark.

The Tell Tale Signs

It became evident within the past 10 days that he had "made" the Yankee Stadium varsity and was a strong contender for the Dawson Award as the spring's outstanding rookie.

A story written by Yankee scribe Maury Allen for the New York Post about an interview with Manager Ralph Houk on the subject of Mike Ferraro made it official.

Ferraro joins a distinguished group of current and former Yankees on the Dawson Award honor roll. Among them are Norm Siebern, Tony Kubek, John Blanchard, Tom Tresh, Roy White, Rollie Sheldon and Bill Robinson.

MINNESOTA TWINS leftfielder Jim Kaat extends his left arm as he describes the injury to the tendon, near the elbow, during a news conference. Kaat hurt his arm against the Boston Red Sox in the final game of the 1967 season. The 28-year-old leftfielder said he thought he would miss some of the 1968 season. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Stanley Cup Playoffs Start

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

The chase for the Stanley Cup, hockey's most cherished piece of hardware, begins tonight at four National Hockey League sites.

The Chicago Black Hawks, who finished a stumbling fourth in the NHL's East Division, play the second place Rangers at New York and East champion Montreal hosts third place Boston.

All series are best-of-seven games.

Last year's Cup champions, the Toronto Maple Leafs, finished fifth in the East Division and did not qualify for the playoffs.

And the Black Hawks, last year's regular season champions, entered the Cup showdown with a host of problems, among them a six-game winless streak in the final two weeks of the regular season which slid them from second to fourth place.

Then there are injuries. Scoring champion Stan Mikita was a doubtful starter for tonight's opening game because of a back injury and Bobby Hull and Denis DeJordy also were nursing bruises.

Pro Signing War Under Way

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

An unholy war to sign college players was under way in pro basketball today.

The 22-year-old National Basketball Association announced its first-round draft picks Wednesday with Westley Unseld, Tom Boerwinkle and Ron Williams among the top choices.

"I guess we have to enter into an unholy war of going after these players," declared George Mikan, commissioner of the rival one-year-old American Basketball Association.

Unseld, a 6-foot-8 two-time

All-American at Louisville, was the No. 1 draft of the Baltimore Bullets in the NBA.

The Chicago Bulls chose the 7-foot Boerwinkle of Tennessee. Williams, 6-3 West Virginia star, was picked by the San Francisco Warriors.

None of the three has signed any contract. Each said they wanted to weigh all offers before deciding.

Offered $500,000

Unseld has been offered $500,000 over a four-year span to play with the Kentucky Colonels of the ABA. Baltimore did not reveal its offer although Buddy Jeannette, general manager of the Bullets, declared, "We're going to leave no stone unturned like to play with the Warriors. However, he plans to consult with Bucky Waters, his West Virginia coach, before making a decision."

Boerwinkle, the No. 1 pick of Denver in the ABA, currently is playing in the Olympic trials at Albuquerque, N.M. "We certainly don't want to do anything to upset Boerwinkle's chances of making the Olympic team," said Dick Klein, Chicago general manager. "As a result we have had no direct negotiations with the boy."

Like Warriors

Williams, drafted by New Or-

NBA a 3-1 edge over the ABA.

Army Ranks 4th In NISA Squash

WEST POINT—Army figures in the intercollegiate tournament, finishing second ahead of Penn and Yale.

On the individual level, sophomore George Alcorn of Pittsburgh, Pa., and senior Bary Conway of Monasha, Wisc., broke into the top ten.

The Cadets, who finished the season with a fine 12-3 record, were ranked fourth as a team behind champion Harvard, Pennsylvania, and Yale, the only teams to defeat them this year. Coach Bill Cullen's racquetmen evened matters some among the intercollegiate ranks.

Panthers Win Title At Troy 'Y'

Pete's Panthers and the Road Runners, both Kingston area teams, slugged it out in the finals of the Troy YMCA junior basketball tournament last night. The Panthers emerged the champions by a score of 98-70.

Strong defensive rebounding from Road Runner stars Rocky Johnson, Jerry Barber and John Royal corralled the Panther offense in the first half. First half scoring ended with the Panthers ahead by one, 38-37.

Paced by Wes Thompson's 23 points, the high powered Panther offense came alive with 60 points in the second half. Thompson led the Panther scoring with 34 points.

With the score at 63-57 near the beginning of the fourth quarter, the Panthers poured in eight straight fast break tallies. Mark Hoffman nabbed the rebounds and funneled the ball out to Jon Yeaple and Mark Tony. Yeaple scored all of his 13 points in the second half. Thompson, who managed only three of 13 field goal attempts in the first half, sank 23 points in the second half.

Four fouls on Road Runners Johnson and Barber cramped their play in the final period.

Johnson sparked the Road Runners with 22 markers. Barber contributed 20 points. Gary Mathews was runner up to Thompson for the Panthers with 23 points.

Individual trophies were presented to every member of the winning team, and team trophies were given to both the Panthers and the Road Runners.

The score:

It became evident within the past 10 days that he had "made" the Yankee Stadium varsity and was a strong contender for the Dawson Award as the spring's outstanding rookie.

A story written by Yankee scribe Maury Allen for the New York Post about an interview with Manager Ralph Houk on the subject of Mike Ferraro made it official.

Ferraro joins a distinguished group of current and former Yankees on the Dawson Award honor roll. Among them are Norm Siebern, Tony Kubek, John Blanchard, Tom Tresh, Roy White, Rollie Sheldon and Bill Robinson.

Stanley Cup Playoffs Start

By HAL ROCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

The chase for the Stanley Cup, hockey's most cherished piece of hardware, begins tonight at four National Hockey League sites.

The Chicago Black Hawks, who finished a stumbling fourth in the NHL's East Division, play the second place Rangers at New York and East champion Montreal hosts third place Boston.

In the West Division playoffs, St. Louis, which finished third, visits champion Philadelphia and second place Los Angeles entertains Minnesota, which finished fourth.

All series are best-of-seven games.

Last year's Cup champions, the Toronto Maple Leafs, finished fifth in the East Division and did not qualify for the playoffs.

And the Black Hawks, last year's regular season champions, entered the Cup showdown with a host of problems, among them a six-game winless streak in the final two weeks of the regular season which slid them from second to fourth place.

Then there are injuries. Scoring champion Stan Mikita was a doubtful starter for tonight's opening game because of a back injury and Bobby Hull and Denis DeJordy also were nursing bruises.

Pro Signing War Under Way

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

An unholy war to sign college players was under way in pro basketball today.

The 22-year-old National Basketball Association announced its first-round draft picks Wednesday with Westley Unseld, Tom Boerwinkle and Ron Williams among the top choices.

"I guess we have to enter into an unholy war of going after these players," declared George Mikan, commissioner of the rival one-year-old American Basketball Association.

Unseld, a 6-foot-8 two-time

All-American at Louisville, was the No. 1 draft of the Baltimore Bullets in the NBA.

The Chicago Bulls chose the 7-foot Boerwinkle of Tennessee, Williams, 6-3 West Virginia star, was picked by the San Francisco Warriors.

None of the three has signed any contract. Each said they wanted to weigh all offers before deciding.

Offered $300,000

Unseld has been offered $500,000 over a four-year span to play with the Kentucky Colonels of the ABA. Baltimore did not reveal its offer although Buddy Jeannette, general manager of the Bullets, declared, "We're going to leave no stone unturned to sign Unseld to an NBA contract."

Like Warriors

Williams, drafted by New Orleans of the ABA, said he would like to play with the Warriors. However, he plans to consult with Bucky Waters, his West Virginia coach, before making a decision.

The NBA did sign two of its top draft choices, Bill Hewitt, 6-6 Southern California star, signed a three-year contract with the Los Angeles Lakers. Bob Kauffman, 6-8 Little All-American from Guilford, N.C. College, also signed for three years with the Seattle Super-Sonics.

NBA a 3-1 edge over the ABA.

Army Ranks 4th In NISA Squash

WEST POINT—Army figures in the intercollegiate tournament, finishing second ahead of both Penn and Yale.

On the individual level, sophomore George Alcorn of Pittsburgh, Pa., and senior Bary Conway of Monash, Wisc., broke into the top ten. Alcorn, who posted an 11-3 mark in his first varsity campaign, was ranked sixth, while Conway was one notch lower at seven. Last year Conway was listed ninth among the intercollegiate ranks.

Panthers Win Title At Troy 'Y'

Pete's Panthers and the Road Runners, both Kingston area teams, slugged it out in the finals of the Troy YMCA junior basketball tournament last night. The Panthers emerged the champions by a score of 98-70.

Strong defensive rebounding from Road Runner stars Rocky Johnson, Jerry Barber and John Royal corralled the Panther offense in the first half. First half scoring ended with the Panthers ahead by one, 38-37.

Paced by Wes Thompson's 23 points, the high powered Panther offense came alive with 60 points in the second half. Thompson led the Panther scoring with 34 points.

With the score at 63-57 near the beginning of the fourth quarter, the Panthers poured in eight straight fast break tallies. Mark Hoffman nabbed the rebounds and funneled the ball out to Jon Yeaple and Mark Tony. Yeaple scored all of his 13 points in the second half. Thompson, who managed only three of 13 field goal attempts in the first half, sank 23 points in the second half.

Four fouls on Road Runners Johnson and Barber cramped their play in the final period.

Johnson sparked the Road Runners with 22 markers. Barber contributed 20 points. Gary Mathews was runner up to Thompson for the Panthers with 23 points.

Individual trophies were presented to every member of the winning team, and team trophies were given to both the Panthers and the Road Runners.

The score:

Panthers (98)	Road Runners (70)
Thompson 13 8 34	Johnson 16 10 34
Hoffman 2 3 7	Royal 5 0 10
Mathews 10 3 23	Barber 9 2 20

USTFF Threatens Anti-Trust Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress and the courts appear destined to become the new battleground in the bitter war between the nation's colleges and the Amateur Athletic Union for sports management supremacy.

Campus officials promise, however, the feud won't affect America's prospects in the 1968 Olympics.

The schools spurred a Senate-supported proposal for peace Wednesday as the U. S. Track and Field Federation asked the Justice Department to begin an immediate antitrust investigation of AAU track control.

The USTFF made it clear if the government won't go to courts, it will.

At the same time, three senators said Congress should write a peace treaty into law, and each took initial steps in that direction.

Nearly Abandon Hope

The National Collegiate Athletic Association's president, Michigan Prof. Marcus L. Plant, all but conceded any hope for reaching a voluntary peace not backed up by law is dead.

The Rev. Wilfred H. Crowley, president of the USTFF, announced Wednesday he had written Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark to ask him "to investigate violations of the Sherman Anti-Trust Laws on the part of the Amateur Athletic Union by monopolistic rules and practices unduly restricting track and field competition."

Col. Donald Hull, executive director of the AAU, termed the threat of antitrust action "ridiculous and said, "I don't see how it deals with a nonprofit group trying to help the young athletes of America."

Charge AU Monopoly

The USTFF is the protégé of the NCAA, which in turn is its largest member. Father Crowley, arguing that up to 90 percent of the nation's amateur athletes fall within the USTFF, charged the AAU is trying to maintain a monopoly over control of sports meets.

The AAU had accepted the Feb. 1 findings of an arbitration panel set up by the Senate and appointed by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. The USTFF turned this down, and Plant said he would tell the NCAA Council to do the same when it meets later this month.

The panel, after 27 months of deliberations, had left the NCAA in charge of student meets and the AAU as overseer of open competition. It said USTFF meets should comply with AAU requirements.

The priest declared a truce in the track feud until Nov. 1, three days after the Olympic Games end in Mexico City.

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The best bet in the American League is that the Boston Red Sox will not repeat The Impossible Dream in 1968.

Everybody needs somebody somewhere. As a result the race could very well come down to the last day again.

Detroit needs a bullpen. Baltimore still has arm problems. Chicago always is short of runs. Minnesota has problems at shortstop and is concerned about Jim Kaat's arm. California still has to carry a full head of steam for an entire season.

Detroit appears to have the best chance of making it all the way.

The Tigers haven't won since 1945 and just missed by one game last fall. They have solid front-line hitting and formidable front-line pitching. An injury to catcher Bill Freehan or outfielder Al Kaline could kill them but the loss of key players would derail any of the other contenders, too.

How They Start

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. Detroit
2. Baltimore
3. Chicago
4. Minnesota
5. California
6. Boston
7. Cleveland
8. New York
9. Washington
10. Oakland

Mayo Smith's Tigers can throw good, if not spectacular, pitching at you every day with Mickey Lolich, Joe Sparrma, Earl Wilson and Denny McLain in rotation.

The power of Kaline, Freehan, Willie Horton, Norm Cash and Dick McAuliffe should provide enough margin to overcome late inning letdowns by the relief corps.

Actually, the bullpen may be better with the addition of Denny Ribant and some young arms from the farm system.

Baltimore has a real solid ball club all the way, except for that pitching department where Hank Bauer already has been having problems. The Robinson boys, Frank and Brooks, and Boog Powell and Curt Blefary, swing heavy bats that could take it all if the pitching holds up.

Eddie Stanky added a proven hitter in Tommy Davis but it still will be up to pitchers like Joe Horlen, Gary Peters and Tommy John, plus that great bullpen headed by Hoyt Wilhelm, to do the job.

The Twins' chances were hurt by Kaat's slowness in coming around after that elbow injury in late season. The left side of the infield is questionable although Cesar Tovar is available to plug any and all gaps.

California must get a super effort from Rick Reichardt and another big year from relief ace Minnie Rojas to stay in contention.

In addition to Lonborg's slow recovery from knee surgery, the Red Sox have to worry about the weak hitting by Tony Conigliaro during the spring. The young outfielder, coming off a serious head injury that kept him out of the World Series, now is in Boston for an examination.

Alvin Dark has his work cut out for him in Cleveland. If he can get maximum performance from his pitchers, especially Sam McDowell, he can make a stir.

Washington tore everybody apart in the South and may be underrated. Camilo Pascual is back on the beam and a couple of rookies have looked good.

The Yankees are worried about Al Downing's arm and have problems at short and third. Pitching should save them from the cellar and could be the factor to move them ahead of Washington. Mickey Mantle still is in there swinging. Oakland's new scenery should pep up the A's but they have so many youngsters with limited experience that it will be tough to move up.

Pro Tour Hits Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The professional golf tour, which has produced eight one-strike victories in 11 major events this year, pitched camp at the Sedgefield Country Club today for the Greater Greensboro Open, worth a record $137,500.

Attention centered on the efforts of Arnold Palmer to sharpen his game for next week's Masters at Augusta, Ga. Although he has played the four-day, 72-hole GGO often, he has not been eminently successful. His best finish in the GGO was last year when he finished third behind winner George Archer, four shots off the pace at 271 over the par 71 course measuring 7,034 yards.

Palmer is one of five men in the Greensboro field of 140 who have won a tournament this year. Others are Tom Weiskopf, the leading money winner; defending champion Archer; Billy Casper and Johnny Post.

Top contenders include Doug Sanders, twice a GGO champion and winner of over $46,000 in GGO money; Julius Boros, another who has won here; and such foreign threats as Gary Player, Bob Charles, Bruce Crampton, Harold Henning and Bob Verwey.

And then there's Sam Snead. The one-time Virginia hillbilly, whose tournament appearances are limited sharply, has won here eight times, starting with the 1938 inaugural. His most recent triumph came three years ago at the age of 52, making him the oldest winner of a PGA tour event.

Sam has won over $45,000 here in 27 appearances. In addition to his eight victories he has been second or third nine times.

The last four holes will be televised nationally on Saturday and Sunday. The winner will receive $27,500.

Among the few top notchers absent Jack Nicklaus, Canadian George Knudson, two-time winner this year, and Englishman Tony Jacklin, who won at Jacksonville, Fla., last Sunday.

Holy Cross Coach Is Lions Club Speaker

The Kingston Lions Club is honoring the LUSO League championship basketball team of Kingston High school at its regular weekly luncheon meeting this Tuesday.

Dinner chairman Richard L. Treat has announced that the main speaker will be Jack Donohue, head coach of Holy Cross College.

The luncheon will honor the team, the coach, John J. Gilligan, the manager and retiring athletic director, Willard A. Burke.

Donohue, who gained fame as the high school coach of the famous Lew Alcindor, accepted the Holy Cross head position three years ago and has enjoyed success at the college.

One of this past season's Holy Cross stars, Ed Studdt, is from Albuquerque, N.M., for the Olympic trials.

In the three seasons at HC, Donohue's teams have compiled a 41-30 record. At Power Memorial, where he had Alcindor for four seasons, his charges compiled a fantastic 163 wins—including 71 in a row, that spirited them into national headlines.

JACK DONOHUE

Donohue graduated Fordham University in 1952 and took a job coaching at St. Nicholas of Tolentine in the Bronx. In four years there, his squads were 8-16. Then to Power for seven more years before moving to Holy Cross.

Three Changes In Ball Rules

NEW YORK (NEA) — This season, only three revisions have been made in the Official Baseball rules.

The rules affected are 5.09(g), 8.02(a) and Casebook 7.08(b). The most noticeable change is the attempt to discourage use of the spitball. Last year's rule stated that the pitcher shall not "apply a foreign substance of any kind to the ball; expectorate on the ball, either hand or his glove; rub the ball on his glove, person or clothing; deface the ball in any manner; deliver what is called the 'shine' ball, 'spit' ball, 'mud' ball or 'emery' ball."

The pitcher shall not bring his pitching hand in contact with his mouth or lips. For violating this part of this rule the umpire shall call a ball. However, if the pitch is made and the batter reaches first base on a hit, error or as a hits batsman and no other runner is put out before advancing at least one base, the play shall proceed without reference to the violation.

Another rule states that "The ball becomes dead and runners return to their bases, without liability to be put out, when a base coach intentionally interferes with a thrown ball. The addition states that the runners return to "the base last legally touched."

Finally, if a runner has contact with a legally occupied base and hinders a fielder attempting to make a play, he will not be called out unless the umpire believes the hindrance to be intentional.

The addition says, "whether it occurs on fair or foul territory. If the umpire declares the hindrance intentional, this penalty shall apply. With less than two out, the umpire shall declare both runner and batter out. With two out, the umpire shall declare the batter out."

TOM HANNON

Siena Mentor Is KHS Speaker

Tom Hannon, basketball coach at Siena College of Loudenville, will be the featured speaker at tonight's banquet honoring the letter winners at Kingston High school.

The dinner is set for the school cafeteria at 6:30. A graduate of St. Bonaventure when the Bonnies were one of the country's outstanding college clubs, Hannon took his first coaching job at St. Peter's Academy High school in Saratoga Springs. In 1965, he began his three-year tenure at Siena, where his teams have racked up fine records each year.

The dinner will also honor all championship teams at KHS and at the same time, basketball coach John J. (Jack) Gilligan will receive the Kingston Daily Freeman award for Basketball Coach of the Year as selected by the DUSO Sports-writers and Broadcasters Association. The newspaper in the city of each recipient presents this award.

Ranger-Chicago Contest on TV

Sunday afternoon's game between the Chicago Black Hawks and the New York Rangers will be the first in the playoffs to be nationally televised, the National Hockey League said Tuesday in releasing its schedule of opening round playoff games.

The contest will be televised by CBS starting at 2:05 p. m. EST. It will be blacked out in New York.

Baltimore Wins

The 1966 Baltimore Orioles won 97 games and the American League pennant. Last year they won 76 games and tied for sixth.

Chicago's Tally

The Chicago White Sox in 1967 won six more games than they had taken in 1966. They finished fourth each season.

Morehead Is Down, Rohr Out

Dave Morehead, who once pitched a no-hitter for the Boston Red Sox, and Bill Rohr, who once almost did, will be doing their throwing in the minors this year.

The Red Sox optioned Morehead, who threw Boston's last no-hitter in 1965, to their Louisville farm team Wednesday. Rohr, who came within one out of hurling a hitless game against the Yankees in his first start last season, was released outright.

It was, in fact, a bad day for pitchers all around. The Cincinnati Reds optioned out 19-year-old Gary Nolan, 14-8 last year, to the minors because of arm trouble. And the New York Yankees sent Steve Barber to their Syracuse farm.

Reniff Released

Also, the Red Sox optioned Darrell Brandon and the New York Mets gave Hal Reniff, a mainstay of the Yankees in better days, his outright release.

In exhibition action Wednesday, Detroit beat Houston 3-1. Washington edged Baltimore 3-2. Atlanta pounded the Yankees 7-1. Pittsburgh downed Cincinnati 4-3. Oakland crushed Boston 9-2. Cleveland outsluged Los Angeles 10-8.

Also the Chicago Cubs outlasted San Francisco 7-6 in 11 innings. California beat its Seattle farm club 2-1 and Philadelphia nipped St. Louis 5-4.

Mickey Stanley's three-run homer in the third inning gave Detroit all the runs it needed to win. Mickey Lolich and Dennis Ribant combined to stop the Astros on five hits.

Sam Bowers hit a homer in the ninth for Washington's victory margin over Baltimore. The Senators have a spring record of 17-6, best in the majors.

The Braves beat the Yankees on six runs in the fourth inning.

Gander Golf Squad Eyes Better Record

Rondout Valley Central's golf team is hoping to improve on last year's 2-8 mark. Three returning veterans, Steve Linehan, Ronald Siva, and Clyde Marshall, along with two promising freshmen, Ed Lawrence and Eric Bars-Roeford give coach Robert Kuster expectation of improvement.

"With work on all phases of the game, the team can certainly improve this year," Kuster noted.

Granit Country Club will host all home matches, which begin at 4 p. m. The season's opener is April 22, when Pine Bush visits Rondout.

Costello Coach For Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee's new National Basketball Association franchise got from Philadelphia and Wisconsin what it didn't get from Marquette University—a head coach and general manager.

The still unnamed expansion team announced Wednesday that Larry Costello, an 11-year NBA veteran with Syracuse and the Philadelphia 76ers, would be its head coach.

John Erickson, 40, head coach at the University of Wisconsin named the general manager.

Both jobs were offered to Marquette coach Al McGuire, who accepted the dual role last month only to have his way blocked by Marquette. The university held McGuire to the five-year contract he signed a year ago.

Four Injured, Three Cited in Highland

Four persons were injured and three were cited by State Police for traffic violations as the result of accidents investigated early today in Highland.

Troopers John Crodelle and Jerry Henne reported that Lawrence J. Riley, 22, of 119 Forbus Street, Poughkeepsie, was driving east on Thorns Lane at 3 a. m. when he lost control of the vehicle, which hit a stone embankment and overturned on the middle of the highway.

Riley escaped with a bump on his head. A passenger, Walter Merritt, 23, of 379 Church Street, Poughkeepsie, sustained lacerations of the head and face. Both were treated at Vassar Hospital, troopers said.

Riley was cited for driving at a speed too fast at a hill crest. The summons is returnable before Lloyd Town Justice Lewis DiStasi on Saturday.

At 4:40 a. m. Joseph Louis Veilleux, 20, of White Street, Highland, was driving south on White Street when the car went off the right side of the pavement and hit an unattended parked car owned by Chester A. Cole of 22 White Street.

Veilleux was cited by Troopers Crodelle and Henne for driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident and driving without a license.

Conrad Jacques of Box 371, Milton, owner of the car Veilleux was operating at the time of the mishap, was summoned by the troopers for permitting unlicensed operation. The summonses are returnable April 10 before Lloyd Town Justice Linn Baker.

Jacques was released in $50 bail pending court appearance. Veilleux was committed in lieu of $500 bail, troopers said.

Say Aaah
 (AP) — New and better answers are being found for the problems connected with massive illness. Weigh the case of Nila, a 5-by-14 foot hippopotamus immobilized by a bout with pneumonia. "Keep the patient warm and well-rested," prescribed the veterinarians. But the patient refused to remain in doors. So gas-fired, infra-red heaters were installed to warm the hippo's chilly, open-air enclosure. The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association reports Nila is now completely recovered.

Dear Abby

'Madman' Serious Problem

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a madman. If I fix him breakfast maybe he'll eat it, and maybe he'll throw it at me. If I don't fix him breakfast, he runs down the street, cursing a blue streak. He gets raving mad over nothing and throws the patio furniture 100 feet over the fence. Then he runs out of the house and hides in alleys. Don't tell me to call the county authorities. I did and they said, "He sounds sick. Bring him in sometime." And don't tell me to take him to a psychiatrist. He's too heavy to carry and too big to push. And have you ever tried driving a car with a man who is trying to jump out? You steer with one hand and hold onto his belt with the other and pray he won't jump out into the traffic when another car is near. Abby, this is the FOURTH time I have written to you and have drawn three blanks, but you are supposed to give advice, so I am going to keep on writing until I get it. I suppose I could just kill myself to get away from this cursing man, but I have no such intentions. For God's sakes, Abby, help me! I am tired of hunting for a crazy husband in the alleys with a flashlight at 2 a. m.

DEAR CONCERNED: If it were my home and the daughters were mine, I wouldn't give up until I had tried everything, but maybe your sister has. However, the home isn't mine and neither are the daughters. And may I remind you, neither are they yours, so don't pour any fuel on troubled waters.

DEAR ABBY: One of the single girls who works where I work asked if she could borrow my wedding ring for one night only, so I lent it to her. (It wasn't as if she were a stranger to me. She's worked here as long as I, which is 3 years.) When I went home I told my husband about it, and he hit the ceiling. He asked me WHY she wanted to borrow my wedding ring, and I told him I didn't ask her as I didn't consider it any of my business.

My husband said my co-worker had a lot of nerve to ask such a favor, and furthermore I was a dunce for granting it. I think a friend is a friend, and I still don't see anything wrong with lending a ring for over-night. Do you?

DUNCE OR NOT? DEAR DUNCE: Yes. A wedding ring has special significance and shouldn't be "lent" with no questions asked. Your friend obviously wanted to create the impression that she was married. You'd have been wise to refuse to be a party to such deception.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SATURDAY'S CHILD": The man who is always talking about how great he is with the women is doing what he does best. Talking. Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet "WHAT TEEN-AGERS WANT TO KNOW," Send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR It's In The Stars -

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

Forecast for Friday, April 5, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Perceive needs of family members. Older individual has question but might be embarrassed. Make it easy. Display wit and charm. Let others know you can handle responsibility.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Short journey may be necessary to complete project. Put ideas across. Don't take for granted that others understand. Make meaning clear. Some relatives are ultrasensitive. Act accordingly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Better to finish than to begin today. Take long-range view. Accent on possessions, money, income potential. Idea discussed some time ago comes surging to forefront—it's a good one.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Lunar position stresses opportunity, chance to shine at special affair. Have confidence. Be original in dress, actions. Lead rather than follow. Be first—and be on time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Remain in background if possible. Some are envious. Today give them a chance to take initiative. Be especially attentive to CANCER individual. Co-operate in special group activity.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Fine for socializing, for cementing friendships. Give attention to one you have neglected. Build on solid base. Conversation to night could lead to ultimate gain.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Stress on career, dealing with those in authority. Don't make promises you can't keep. One of importance is watching, listening. Prestige rises if you are sincere, dedicated.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on journeys, vacation plans, communication from afar. Many around you change their views. If a keen observer, you can broaden philosophy. Analyze feeling. Know yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Responsibility of recent effort, investment comes to fore. Key is to seek harmony among family, associates. Dig for information. A secret you require is available.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accent on marriage, partnerships. Study contracts. Consult expert. Don't take legal terminology for granted. Get meanings. Be clear in your own mind about objectives.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Obtain hint from CAPRICORN message. Don't attempt to skip essentials. If thorough, odds for success are in your favor. Spotlight on work, health and service. Remember diet.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Pleasure obtained from children if you are understanding. Personal magnetism soars; opposite sex is attracted. Sell ideas. Display enthusiasm. Your talents receive recognition.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a dynamic individual, a natural sales executive, one who can interest others in worthwhile projects. Guard against excess; strike balance now between work, recreation.

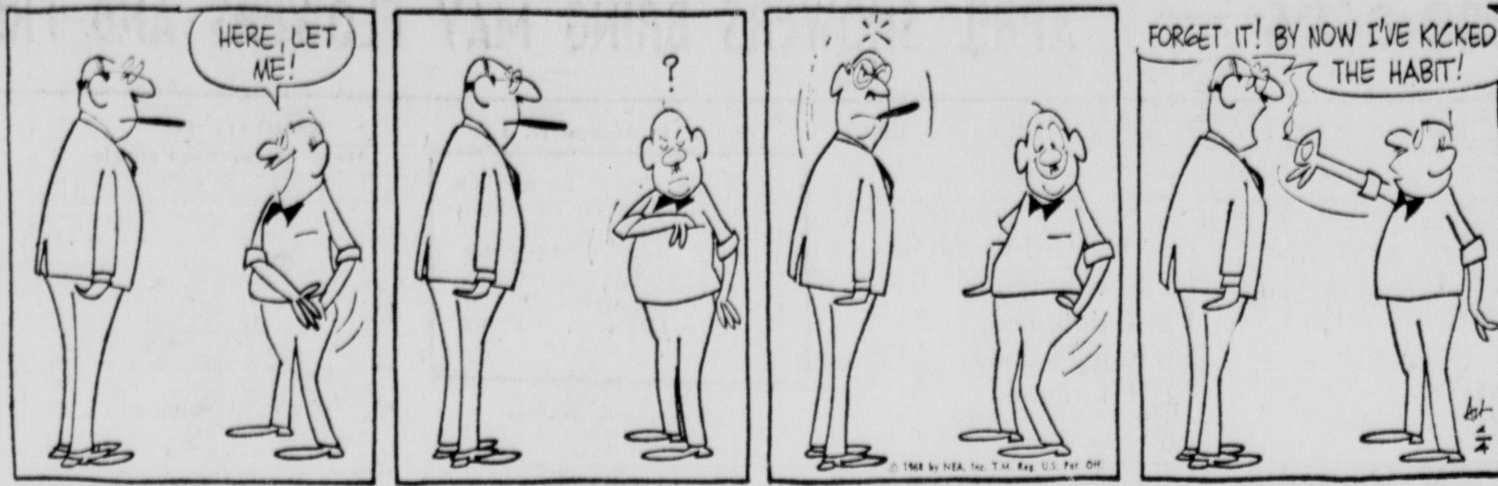

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Lunar position favorable for fishing, planting. Cycle high for CANCER, LEO, VIRGO. Special word to ARIES: by granting special request you actually enhance own security.

(To find out more about yourself and astrology, order Sydney Omarr's 50-page booklet, "The Truth About Astrology." Send 50 cents to Omarr Booklet, Kingston Freeman, Box 3240, Kingston, N. Y. 12107.)

gloomy; sluggish; sad
The sour-looking office boy, a young man whose saturnine manner annoyed most of his co-workers, was advised to find a girl friend if he wanted to feel happy. Most people know why Harry always looks so saturnine; last month his brother was killed in a horrible automobile accident. The elderly man, feeling sad and lonesome, was told by his doctor that he had to change his saturnine moods.

Expert South's bid of seven no-trump was an overbid and he knew it, but he also had great confidence in his ability to play the dummy. When he looked at dummy he counted 12 top tricks. The grand slam would be a cinch if hearts broke. Otherwise he needed some sort of squeeze for his 13th trick.

He ran off three more diamond tricks to start proceedings. East discarded the four of spades. West, the four of hearts. Dummy's last diamond was played next. East had a problem here but let the 10 of spades go while West dropped the five of hearts.

South's three discards had been the jack and two other clubs. South decided that East was holding five hearts and would keep on holding them. Therefore, if he played the king of spades and continued with the ace, East would be down to one black card and it surely would be a club. Sure enough

Quick Quiz

Q—Did Russia once maintain a colony in what is now continental United States?

A—Yes, in 1812 Russian fur traders established Fort Ross, less than 100 miles north of San Francisco. The Russians sold their land in 1841 and left the country.

Q—Can the planet Venus be seen in the daytime?

A—At its brightest, in its most favorable conjunction with the sun, the planet can be seen with the naked eye at midday.

Q—How did the muskrat get its name?

A—This large member of the mouse family gets its name from the strong, musk-like odor which it secretes.

Hats Off to ABC's Special

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Company, along among the networks, pre-empted a prime-time program on Wednesday evening for a half-hour news special evaluating the response of Hanoi to the American moves to start peace talks.

Real Public Service
The reported willingness of the North Vietnamese to talk about the problem came at the end of 72 hours of domestic drama and crisis. So the program performed a real public service. It presented George W. Ball, former State Department official, and assorted senators, all recommending a go-slow attitude. Ball said in a matter-of-fact way that the Hanoi response represented in his view, merely "some movement" in a sluggish situation, and cautiously offered hope that it was "the beginning of a process" that might eventually lead to peace. Important events have tum- bled over each other with such rapidity in recent days that one reacted with extra amusement to Dick Cavett Wednesday morning as he opened his new ABC variety-conversation show by remarking: "I haven't seen the papers yet this morning. Have any more presidential candidates quit?"

Cavett, whose show is not much more than a month old, is the new "in" comedian and is a bright, funny young man appearing in a daily program that, unfortunately, can rarely be seen by many of the people who would enjoy it most.

Quick Results
However, a lot of people can watch TV from 10:30 a.m. until noon, and this includes a number of show business folk who have done a lot of talking about it. ## Hats Off to ABC's Special

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Company,

along among the networks,

pre-empted a prime-time program on Wednesday evening for a half-hour news special evaluating the response of Hanoi to

peace talks.

Real Public Service

the North Vietnamese to talk about the problem came at the end of 72 hours of domestic drama and crisis. So the program performed a real public service.

It presented George W. Ball, former State Department official, and assorted senators, all recommending a go-slow attitude, Ball said in a matter-of-fact way that the Hanoi response represented in his view, merely "some movement" in a sluggish situation, and cautiously offered hope that it was "the beginning of a process" that might eventually lead to peace.

Important events have tum-bled over each other with such rapidity in recent days that one reacted with extra amusement to Dick Cavett Wednesday morning as he opened his new

ABC variety-conversation show

by remarking: "I haven't seen

Senate GOPers Reconsider the Levies

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The threat of a veto by Gov. Rockefeller prompted Senate Republicans to reconsider today the possibility of raising income, liquor and gasoline taxes to support the state's $5-billion-plus budget.

All of these proposals, originally requested by Rockefeller, were scrapped Tuesday when the politically split Legislature settled on a compromise plan to postpone $199 million in state aid payments.

But Rockefeller called this solution "fiscally irresponsible" and he applied heavy pressure on both Democratic and Republican leaders Wednesday to re-

The reaction was mixed. In the Republican-ruled Senate, Majority Leader Earl W. Raynes allowed that "we have a little bit of an impasse." He said GOP senators were willing to take another look at the problem and might be willing to pass some alternative revenue measures.

In the Democratic-controlled Assembly, Speaker Anthony J. Travia held fast. "I'm not budging," he said. "We've passed our budget and the next move is up to the Senate."

Both houses adjourned for the week — to mull things over for a while — after devoting most of their Wednesday sessions to major legislation on other subjects.

The Assembly staged a five-hour debate over a bill that would liberalize the state's abortion law. When it became apparent that the measure was headed for defeat, its sponsor sent it back to committee — ending action on the matter for this legislative session.

The Senate conducted an unusual closed-door session on a proposal to rewrite the state's law on use of wiretaps and other listening devices by law enforcement officers. The bill was approved, 47-3, and will be sent to the Assembly.

While Rockefeller and the legislative leaders wrangled behind the scenes over the budget, state fiscal operations proceeded on a business-as-usual basis.

The budget crisis that extended into the first two days of the fiscal year, which began April 1, was ended late Tuesday night when the Assembly gave final legislative approval to the appropriation bills in Rockefeller's spending plan.

Its action automatically provided funds for the state to finance its operations and pay its bills, avoiding the embarrassment of payless paydays for state workers and other financial defaults.

Rockefeller's signature was not required to transform the appropriation measures into law. But the rest of the budget bills — those providing funds to finance the spending plan — do need his signature, and he made it clear that he was prepared to veto the measures that formed the basis of the compromise agreement.

He would not say so directly, when queried by reporters who encountered him in a capital corridor Wednesday, but he recalled the statement he issued Tuesday night describing the settlement as "so fiscally irresponsible that I could not go along with it."

Vow Renewed On Abort Law

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Shakened the law by providing several new grounds for a legal abortion in this state. The present law permits an abortion only if the mother's life would be imperiled by allowing the pregnancy to continue.

"We're coming back again next session, without any question," said Assemblyman Albert H. Blumenthal, D-Manhattan, chief sponsor of the abortion-reform bill rejected Wednesday.

A weary Blumenthal began immediately to regroup his forces after fighting for his controversial measure in a five-hour long debate that stirred strong emotions and touched often on the right to life of an unborn child.

Blumenthal and his adherents withdrew their bill when an incomplete roll call vote indicated it was going down to defeat. It was sent back to committee, where it will repose for the remainder of the legislative session.

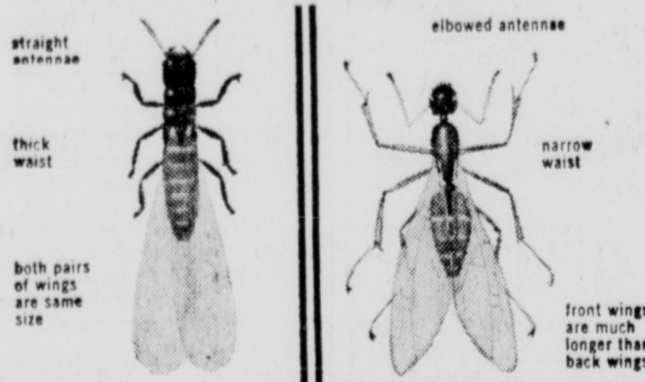

It was the second straight year that advocates of abortion-reform failed in the legislature. Last year, a similar measure was killed in committee. The bill would have broad-

Senate GOPers Reconsider the Levies

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The threat of a veto by Gov. Rockefeller prompted Senate Republicans to reconsider today the possibility of raising income, liquor and gasoline taxes to support the state's $5-billion-plus budget.

All of these proposals, originally requested by Rockefeller, were scrapped Tuesday when the politically split Legislature settled on a compromise plan to balance the budget largely by postponing $199 million in state aid payments.

But Rockefeller called this solution "fiscally irresponsible" and he applied heavy pressure on both Democratic and Republican leaders Wednesday to return to his recommendations.

The reaction was mixed. In the Republican-ruled Senate, Majority Leader Earl W. Byrdres allowed that "we have a little bit of an impasse."

He said GOP senators were willing to take another look at the problem and might be willing to pass some alternative revenue measures.

Both houses adjourned for the week — to mull things over for a while — after devoting most of their Wednesday sessions to major legislation on other subjects.

The Assembly staged a five-hour debate over a bill that would liberalize the state's abortion law. When it became apparent that the measure was headed for defeat, its sponsor sent it back to committee — ending action on the matter for this legislative session.

The Senate conducted an unusual closed-door session on a proposal to rewrite the state's law on use of wiretaps and other listening devices by law enforcement officers. The bill was approved, 47-9, and will be sent to the Assembly.

While Rockefeller and the legislative leaders wrangled behind the scenes over the budget, state fiscal operations proceeded on a business-as-usual basis.

The budget crisis that extended into the first two days of the fiscal year, which began April 1, was ended late Tuesday night when the Assembly gave final legislative approval to the appropriation bills in Rockefeller's spending plan.

Its action automatically provided funds for the state to finance its operations and pay its bills, avoiding the embarrassment of payless paydays for state workers and other financial defaults.

Rockefeller's signature was not required to transform the appropriation measures into law.

But the rest of the budget bills — those providing funds to finance the spending plan — do need his signature, and he made it clear that he was prepared to veto the measures that formed the basis of the compromise agreement.

Vow Renewed On Abort Law

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Shaken off an Assembly defeat, liberal forces in the Legislature vowed today to press again next year for passage of legislation to liberalize the state's 85-year-old abortion law.

"We're coming back again next session, without any question," said Assemblyman Albert H. Blumenthal, D-Manhattan, chief sponsor of the abortion-reform bill rejected Wednesday.

A weary Blumenthal began immediately to regroup his forces after fighting for his controversial measure in a five-hour long debate that stirred strong emotions and touched often on the right to life of an unborn child.

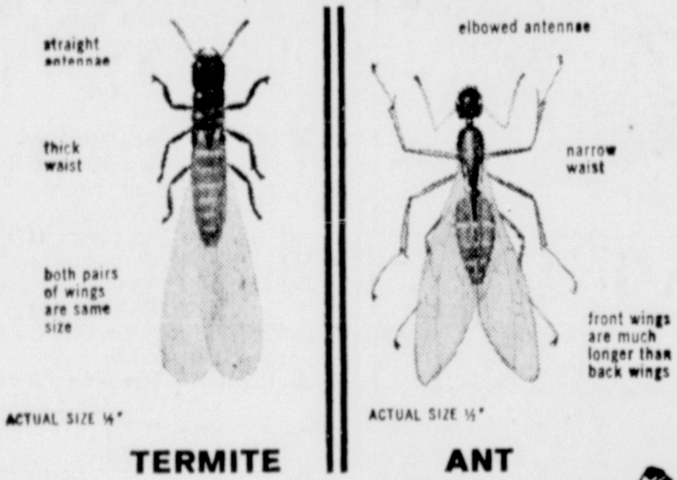

Blumenthal and his adherents withdrew their bill when an incomplete roll call vote indicated it was going down to defeat. It was sent back to committee, where it will repose for the remainder of the legislative session.

The bill would have broadened the law by providing several new grounds for a legal abortion in this state. The present law permits an abortion only if the mother's life would be imperiled by allowing the pregnancy to continue.
